AVOID SECURITY PACT AND WARS! SENATORS INSIST

Tions Fraud' to Save Navy Meet Opposed.

Drawing Up the Pact

LONDON, March 27.—(AP)—A committee of the American delegation to the naval conference tonight completed a definite plan for American participation in a consultative pact among the naval powers, if one is finally adopted by the conference. Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow, Senator Joseph P. Robinson, and Ambassador Hugh Gibson worked for almost the whole afternoon and intermittently again in the evening to complete the plan.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 27.—[Special.]—Rising senate opposition to American participation in any sort of security or consultative pact growing out of the London naval reduction conference made itself felt in capital circles today.

Three senators, all members of the foreign relations committee, lambasted the idea of American adherence to any sort of consultative treaty with the other naval powers and expressed the view that any such arrangement would meet stubborn resistance upon coming up for ratification in the senate. Although no poll has been taken, observation in senatorial circles today indicated that the Hoover administration's recently expressed objection to this country's joining in any political pact that might later embroil the United States in a European war is shared by a majority of senators.

Borah Statements Issued.

Senator William E. Borah [Rep., Idaho], chairman of the foreign relations committee; Walter E. George [Dem., Ga.], and Henrik Shipstead [Farm Labor, Minn.] were the three senators who took the leadership today in assailing the consultative pact idea. In formal statements Borah asserted that the consultative pact is simply a security pact in disguise and declared predicted that American adherence into a consultative treaty would plunge the nation into war.

Prior to making his statement publicly Senator Borah conferred with Senator Claude A. Swanson [Dem., Va.], ranking minority member of the foreign relations committee, and it is understood that the Democratic leader will issue a statement of his own tomorrow. Mr. Swanson is already on record as opposed to American entanglements into any kind of political pact. His position is regarded as indicative of Democratic sentiment in the south.

Borah Parts with Pacifists.

In making his attack Senator Borah took a view widely differing from that advanced by pacifist groups for whom he often has been a spokesman in the senate. Pacifist organizations such as the national council for prevention of war quickly have advanced the consultative pact on the ground that it would aid in effecting naval reduction but would not embroil this country in European quarrels.

"A consultative pact is a security pact in disguise," Mr. Borah said. "In a security pact you state in the pact what you are going to do after you are consulted. In a consultative pact you consult what you are going to do after you have consulted, but you will be bound by the logic of the hour to practically what you expressly agreed to in the security pact.

Calls It "a Pious Fraud."

"A consultative pact in which the nations would not go forward and do whatever would be necessary to be done in accordance with the realities of the situation would be a pious fraud and a fraud which under the exigencies of the hour would be rejected. M. Briand declared a few days ago in very plain language what he meant by a consultative pact—he meant a treaty under which, in case of a threat of war the parties would come together, consult, and if necessary use whatever force required to defeat and punish the wrongdoer—and the wrongdoer, of course, always would be the other nation. M. Briand is a realist. He has plainly stated, he has no faith in any treaty for peace not backed up by armies and navies."

Says "Let the Farley Die."

Senator Shipstead opened his attack on the consultative pact idea with the assertion that the naval reduction conference ought to die if it cannot be revived in any other way than by a treaty which would embroil the United States in the next war. It was a consultative pact, the Minnesota senator asserted, which influenced Great

U. S. OFFICIALS EXPECT SURPLUS OF 150 MILLION

Cut in Income Rates Likely to Stand.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 27.—[Special.]—Skies have brightened perceptibly for the taxpayers. Income tax revenues this month have poured in at such a rate as to make prospects for a continuation of this year's tax rates distinctly more favorable than a month ago. It seems more than likely that President Hoover will recommend next winter that congress make the tax cut effective for at least another year.

Treasury officials made it known today that the collections from income taxes in March are now certain to exceed the estimates of 550 million dollars.

Stock market losses apparently have been largely offset by the normal increase in revenues and by the increased activity of corporations.

Goal Near and 5 Days Left.

Today's treasury statement giving the financial status of the government at the close of business on Tuesday shows that income tax revenues for March up to that day amounted to $542,432,841, as compared with $578,656,147 during the same period of March, 1929. The relatively small reduction in totals is ascribed chiefly to the 1 per cent cut in rates.

Income tax receipts on Tuesday totaled $9,783,624. With five business days remaining in the month treasury officials seemed conservative in their estimate that the total for the month would exceed 550 million dollars.

Fears that there might be a deficit at the close of the present fiscal year, which were expressed a few weeks ago at a White House breakfast conference of budget and treasury officials and congressional leaders, seem now to have been entirely dissipated. It is regarded as probable that there will be a surplus of upward of 150 million dollars. This surplus can be applied to del: reduction on top of approximately 625 million dollars which already is assured for that purpose through the statutory sinking fund and receipts from foreign debts.

Congressional Action Necessary.

As yet Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and his subordinates are remaining silent on the possibility of a continuation of this year's rates. They have been pessimistic heretofore on the proposition, as the stock market collapse and the downward trend in business has not only threatened a serious loss in revenues but expanded governmental activities have caused steadily increasing expenditures.

President Hoover, in originally recommending the tax cut which was approved by congress early this winter, said he hoped it would be possible to make it permanent at a later date. He made no promises, however, and the bill as enacted into law merely applied reduced rates on earnings of 1929 for which taxes are paid in the year 1930. Failure of congress to pass new legislation next winter will mean that taxes on earnings of the present year on which returns will be filed in March, 1930, will automatically be subject to the old rates. The restoration of one per cent additional on the normal individual and corporation taxes would mean a substantial increase.

Permanent Reduction Possible.

This year's one year tax cut was proposed by the President with the object of stimulating business at the time industrial activity was on the down grade. With an upward trend now evident in business, prospects are that by next fall business will be moving along at such a pace as to insure a steady increase in tax revenues. It seems probable that the President will feel justified in recommending that congress apply the present low rates for another year.

If business is booming and governmental expenditures have been held down fairly well he may propose a permanent reduction either on the same or a comparable basis.

It is admitted that at present a sufficient surplus for the fiscal year 1931 is not definitely in sight to justify a continuation of present tax rates. If, however, this year's reduction stimulates business activity in the way every other tax cut since the war has done, revenues will increase sufficiently to make a return to the higher rates unnecessary. The upward trend in governmental expenditures is shown in the daily treasury statement, which lists total ordinary expenditures for the fiscal year 1930 up to March 25, aggregating $3,000,188,102, as compared with $2,550,088,308 in the same period of the fiscal year 1929.

CAN'T REFORM WORLD IN A DAY, WICKERSHAM DECLARES IN SPEECH

Philadelphia, Pa., March 27.—(AP)—The most important work of the law is the solution of equations between human restraint and human liberty, George W. Wickersham, chairman of President Hoover's commission on law enforcement, declared tonight in addressing the Alumni society of the University of Pennsylvania law school.

Mr. Wickersham, who was graduated from the Pennsylvania law school with the class of 1880, was given a reception at the close of the society's annual meeting.

"There are two important conclusions in regard to reform in law," Mr. Wickersham said. "You must not put too much before the people at one time and you must not attempt to reform the whole earth in one fell swoop.

"One of the greatest difficulties with the current crop of suggested remedies is that they come from persons who are misinformed. Until a man has learned the history and growth of great institutions he is in no position to suggest nostrums for something which at the moment commands public attention.

"But for the law there would be no liberty and but for restraint there would be no freedom, so when people talk of the infringement of liberty we are likely to think of liberty of thought, for liberty of action must always be increasingly restrained.

GIN DEATH CASE DRUGGIST GETS 90 DAY SENTENCE

Matthew McAnany, former proprietor of a drug store at 901 East 55th street, yesterday was sentenced to three months in the county jail and fined $500 by Federal Judge Wilkerson, on a plea of guilty of violating the dry laws.

McAnany's drug store supplied the gin which resulted two years ago in the death of John Harper, 21 years old, after a drinking orgy with a University of Chicago student. McAnany was charged with manslaughter on the police contention that the gin was poison, but a chemical analysis showed the gin was not poisonous and the charges were dropped.

Lucien Berry, former manager of the store, was sentenced to 30 days and fined $150. Matthew Harrres and Howard McNeil, former soda clerks, who had been fined $100 on their pleas of guilty, were permitted to change their pleas and were discharged, because of their youth.

Jobless Dole Row Wrecks Berlin Cabinet

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, March 27.—The cabinet of the Socialist chancellor, Hermann Mueller, resigned this evening because radical groups among the Socialists, who were backing the government, paralyzed all of its efforts to straighten out the finances of Germany.

President Paul von Hindenburg accepted the cabinet's resignation and thanked Herr Mueller for the devotion he has shown for the year and nine months of his chancellorship. The president asked him to carry on until a new chancellor is found.

Calls in Centrist Leader.

The leader of the Centrists, Dr. Heinrich Bruening, former high school professor and once business head of the Federation of Catholic Trade Unions, was called into conference by President von Hindenburg tonight and is being pointed out as Chancellor Mueller's most likely successor. President von Hindenburg told him a new cabinet must be formed as quickly as possible, preferably within 24 hours, and that he is willing to make use of his extraordinary constitutional power to accelerate its formation.

Dr. Bruening sympathizes strongly with the more liberal elements among Nationalists and small groups which broke away from the Nationalists in recent months. He hopes they will support him should he form a bourgeois minority cabinet devoid of Socialists.

Berlin is alarmed by the failure of the Mueller cabinet because it feels the need of a strong hand to cope with Fascist plots in Thuringia and in the reichswehr and to keep Red agitators away from the 3,000,000 jobless.

Labor Unions Cause Fall.

Chancellor Mueller's minister of the interior, Karl Severing, tried to induce the Socialists to realise the necessity of improving the jobless insurance situation, which is swallowing up most of the funds the government can lay its hands on. But the labor unions brought pressure to bear and did not allow them to make a single concession in jobless insurance, thus forcing the coalition cabinet to quit.

The jobless insurance collects, during the year, close to $220,000,000. Expenses are computed to be near $301,000,000. The old law provided for the government to pay the balance. The proposed law suggested increase in the jobless insurance rate to three and three-quarters per cent of each worker's wages, which would yield close to $260,000,000. The government was ready to shoulder the balance. Chancellor Mueller and Herr Severing backed this compromise, but yielded under the pressure of the labor unions. They resigned.

Mueller Enemy of Fascists.

Chancellor Mueller has advocated running out the fascists, who are preparing a new onslaught against the government from their vantage point in Thuringia. The Thuringian cabinet today hurled a new defy at the government, to which Herr Severing promptly replied in energetic terms. But a few hours later, unseated by the activities of his partisans, he lost his right to order the Thuringians around.

Feverish haste marks the efforts of the politicians, who are trying to build up a new cabinet which will be strong enough to cow the rebellious Fascists and keep the communists in order so as to put through a sensible financial reform plan.

COSGRAVE LOSES IN DAIL; HE MAY DECIDE TO QUIT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, March 27.—The Cosgrave government suffered a defeat tonight and the Dail immediately adjourned that the cabinet might consider resigning and calling a general election. The defeat was caused by a division on a motion of the Fianna Fail party urging increased expenditures on old age pensions moved by Dr. Ward Monaghan.

The government strongly opposed the motion and was defeated by 66 votes to 64 votes. Twenty-three deputies were absent. The Socialists and one Independent voted with the Fianna Fail party. The house meets at midday tomorrow to hear the government's decision.

There was considerable excitement in parliamentary lobbies, but the feeling is widespread that President Cosgrave, unless he desires to give Eamon de Valera a brief trial at governmental responsibility, may regard the vote as not demanding his resignation. In that case he will ask the house for a vote of confidence which no doubt he will get.

GOOD SERVICE TODAY, IS CAR LINES' PROMISE

Thaw Speeds Work; Schools Opened.

Snow stunned for three days, Chicagoans will be back at their normal tasks this morning. Among the toilers will be 40,000 previously unemployed men, tackling the still uncompleted job of clearing away the drifts.

Aided by thawing temperatures yesterday and heartened by last night's forecast of continued fair weather, officials of the transportation companies promised resumption of regular service today. Thereupon the reopening of the schools this morning was ordered by H. Wallace Caldwell, president of the board of education.

The sun lifted the temperature yesterday from an early morning mark of 26 degrees to the freezing point of 32 degrees at 11 a. m. The snowdrifts softened in the afternoon as the mercury continued its climb, reaching a maximum of 37 degrees at 3 p. m. The last official reading at 9 o'clock last night was 36 degrees and C. A. Donnel, chief of the weather bureau, ventured the prediction that the mercury would reach 40 today.

Storm Aids Unemployed.

The storm area, its probable cost, and the benefits accruing through relief of unemployment were surveyed last night. One who pictured the record snowfall as a benefit was Charles J. Boyd, employment superintendent of the Illinois department of labor.

"This storm has provided work for any man who is willing and physically able," he said. "When the labor demand fell off last fall most of the job losers had enough to tide them over through the winter. But the unemployment pinch was being felt in many quarters until the storm brought the present huge task. The wages earned will carry many families along for some time."

The railroads hired 18,000 extra men to clear their yards, open switches, and dig out stalled trains, an investigation revealed. The surface lines took on 5,000 laborers in addition to their regular force of men, who earned fat checks this week by working overtime.

Merchants and flat owners called for about 15,000 men to press into the shovel brigade. The city hired 1,800, the park districts about 500, the Chicago Motor Coach company 500, and the elevated lines 600.

Big Snow Hits Five Counties.

Reports to the weather bureau indicated that the area covered by the record breaking snowfall was confined to Cook county and the four nearby counties of Lake, Dupage, Will and Kankakee. In these five counties the mean snowfall for the 44 hour period of the storm was 19.2 inches, a tenth of an inch greater than in Chicago alone.

Computed by weight instead of volume, 6 billion 82 million tons of snow covered the five counties, of which approximately 2 billion fell upon Cook county, Mr. Donnel said.

As the sun shone upon the drifts in Chicago yesterday the streets became troughs of slush and passing cars spread geysers of muddy snow to the pavements. Mr. Donnel discounted reports of a flood menace, however, despite the rapid melting of the snow. He pointed out that, by the meteorological scale, a 19.1 inch snowfall is the equivalent of but 1.61 inches of rain, an amount which the metropolitan drainage system is capable of absorbing with ease.

Milk Shortage Averted.

A serious milk shortage in Chicago was averted only through the courage and resourcefulness of the 19,000 farmer members of the Pure Milk association, according to A. M. Krahl director of public relations for the association.

When six feet drifts blocked highways and railroad spurs on Tuesday night the association called upon its members in northern Illinois and southern Wisconsin to get their milk out at any cost, sending the word by radio and telephone.

The farmers responded. Milk trucks formed caravans and workers went ahead with shovels to clear the way. Harnessed teams were in the caravans to put horse power to the task when motor power failed.

Three-fourths of Chicago's normal supply reached the city on Wednes-

Operate 100 Gallon Still on Gas Bought for Charity

Los Angeles, Cal., March 27.—[Special.]—Deputy sheriffs, raiding the 100 gallon still of Tony Fidone, today announced discovery that the establishment had been operating on gas bought for the supposedly destitute Fidone household by the charities division of Los Angeles county. The plant was uncovered at Fidone's chicken ranch near Inglewood.

day morning, and delayed shipments arriving during the day enabled the distributors to supply the demand, although deliveries in some cases were many hours late.

Chicago's 6,000 milk wagon drivers worked straight through Tuesday and Wednesday, floundering on foot through streets where horses could not go. A corps of delivery boys was employed to help the drivers, reaching delivery points by suburban train or street car, when the cars were running.

Among the expense items expected to bring the storm bill above $3,000,000 were the following: Chicago Surface Lines, $500,000 in extra wages and $500,000 in loss of revenue; railroads, $500,000 for extra hired help; loop business houses and individual citizens, $500,000 in hotel, car repair, and towing bills.

OPEN MAIN ROADS

BY HAL FOUST.

The central traffic bureau issued a bulletin last night saying that all main highways in the metropolitan area probably will be passable by 9 o'clock this morning. Shovel crews and snow plows, employed by the state and by the counties, were working late into the night with this objective.

Some important routes were still closed yesterday, some were open only in places, and others had been cleared sufficiently for slow traffic. There was one way traffic through numerous big snow drifts. The highway departments still faced a big job to return motor transportation to normal. Warm weather is needed if there is to be any pleasure driving this week-end.

Indiana Routes Closed.

Northern Indiana was not making as much progress in recovering from the storm as was Illinois. U. S. 12 was blocked at Michigan City, while tow cars tugged at automobiles that had been left in the drifts at the curve known as Prison turn. The probable route to South Bend today will be through New Buffalo and Niles, Mich.

Late yesterday, Indiana's plows had failed to get over U. S. 20 betwen the Michigan state line and South Bend. U. S. 41 was closed south of Dyer, Ind.

Western avenue was opened yesterday afternoon from 67th street to 95th street; Kean avenue was still blocked; 95th street was open to Cicero avenue; 79th street was passable west of Western avenue, and 111th street could be traversed as far west as Kean avenue.

Bulletin on Illinois Roads.

The Chicago Motor club last night issued the following bulletin on the condition of Illinois highways:

Route 2—Closed south of Mendota to El Paso.

Forestry System Cited.

The highway departments of the states and the counties might be able to clear the pavements quicker if they organized such reserve forces as the United States forestry service has to combat fires. The supervisor of a national forest has a list of laborers, farmers, and lumberjacks upon whom he can call for emergency work. The forester also keeps on hand a supply of fire fighting equipment and knows where he can rent trucks and buy supplies on short notice.

The states and the counties could also afford to own an ample supply of the big shovels that could be hooked on to trucks or tractors, engineers said. There would be no necessity for owning more trucks and tractors than could be used the year around; these machines could be rented in emergencies, it was pointed out.

OUT OF WORK, RANGS SELF.

Charles Riserodt, 65 years old, 6437 Eggleston avenue, who has been out of work for two years because of ill health, hanged himself in the garage of his son, Raymond Riserodt at 6339 Eggleston avenue, yesterday.

BLIZZARD CALLED BOON TO GARDENS AND FARM CROPS

BY PAUL POTTER.

While Chicagoans were digging their way through a record downfall of snow yesterday, gardens and flowers, and the belt of truck crop and farm lands surrounding the city were credited with having obtained much needed moisture from the melting drifts. The natural "much" provided by the snow guarded budding flowers and plants from freezing temperatures, garden experts said.

"Tulips and hyacinths, as well as lilacs and any other perennial flowers were unharmed by the sudden storm," said August Koch, west parks horticulturist. "Although some flowers were several inches above ground, and might have been uncovered by owners during the recent warm weather, they have not been harmed by the snow or below freezing temperatures of the last few days."

See Benefits in Snow.

Other gardeners declared that the snow had in reality been a real benefit to the dry soils of the Chicago area and that the same amount of moisture in the form of heavy rains might have injured greening plant life during the freeze, or washed valuable surface soils of garden or farm lands full of gullies.

The storm brought an amount of moisture equivalent to 1.61 inches of rain, said weather bureau officials, and made up a deficiency which existed for the month and for the season to date, compared with normal conditions in this region.

So much rain would not only put garden and lawns into ideal condition for the spring seeding, but during the melting of the snow would help to prevent cracking of soils during the spring thawing, according to National Garden bureau officials. This action of the ground as the frost leaves it in dry weather was said to be one of the most serious handicaps to maintaining a good lawn.

Dry Ground a Handicap.

"The freezing and thawing action in reality causes grass or flower plants to be pushed out of the ground," one authority explained. "When the ground is dry, or has to thaw out after a heavy rain in such cold weather as we have just had, cracks, mounds, and other undulations appear. This is the secret of many lawns being poor or unsuccessful in a city whose under soil is largely sand or clay."

Farm bureau agents in nearby counties reported that farmers were glad to see the snow just before spring plowing would start, and that small acreages of wheat and rye were in excellent condition following the heavy snowfall. Land which had been plowed last fall would get the full benefit of all the moisture without serious floods, except on the hilly spots, it was said.

KENTUCKY BANS JAMAICA GINGER FOR POISON TEST

Louisville, Ky., March 27.—(AP)—The state board of health today placed a state-wide ban on the sale of Jamaica ginger and declared no druggist, grocer, or other merchant would be permitted to dispense the product until his stock had been pronounced non-poisonous by board chemists.

The rule, issued by Dr. A. T. McCormack, secretary of the board, was the most drastic action taken thus far to combat the wave of partial paralysis that has affected more than 300 persons in Kentucky.

Health officers in the 120 counties have been ordered to quarantine the ginger stocks in their areas and to obtain samples in all cases. These samples will be concentrated at the board's laboratories at Lexington and catalogued so that a merchant may be notified whether his particular stock contains poison.

Charlie Chaplin Denies He and Lita Are "Making Up"

Hollywood, Cal., March 27.—[Special.]—Charlie Chaplin today interposed a denial to cabled dispatches from Paris quoting his ex-wife, Lita Grey, as hinting the Chaplins might become reconciled. "There is no chance of this at all," Charlie said. "Besides, I do not believe she made such a statement."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 27.—[Special.]—The final legislative obstacle to the beginning of construction on the new Chicago postoffice structure was cleared away today when the house concurred in the senate amendments to the public buildings bill.

Vice President Curtis and Speaker Longworth [Rep., O.] will attach their signatures to the bill tomorrow, and President Hoover is expected to approve it tomorrow. With this bill enacted, it will be possible for the treasury to enter into a contract with Graham, Anderson, Probst & White of Chicago to complete all the plans for the new building.

Treasury officials said today that arrangements for letting this contract will be made at once. The date when the Chicago architects will be able to supply the treasury with working drawings on which construction contracts will be awarded then will be up to the architects and the postoffice department.

Treasury to Rush Project.

Maj. Ferry K. Heath, assistant secretary of the treasury, in charge of new building construction, declared the treasury stands ready to rush work on the Chicago structure as fast as possible. He said that so far as his office is concerned there would be no delay in getting the project under way. He explained that after the plans have reached the state where bids for excavation work can be asked it will take about a month to advertise and award the contract. It is possible this time may be shortened.

On the orders of Postmaster General Walter F. Brown, postoffice officials today began a restudy of all phases of the plans and arrangements for the Chicago postoffice.

John W. Philp, fourth assistant postmaster general, who was assigned to make the study, said today that it was impossible to say just when the postoffice department would have all its arrangements made so preparation of the working drawings could begin.

Restudy of Designs.

"I have been ordered to make a restudy of the designs of the building to see if they will give us the type of structure we want constructed at Chicago," Mr. Philp said today. "I cannot discuss these designs until a decision has been reached. I am studying the plans now and will make a report to the postmaster general as soon as my investigation is finished."

Neither Mr. Philp nor other postoffice department officials would discuss the plans for the Chicago postoffice building. It was learned, however, that the allocations of space and the location of mechanical apparatus have been completed for four of the floors. If no alterations are made in the present arrangements for the new building little delay should be occasioned in the beginning of work on the foundations.

3 BABIES DIE IN FIRE; BUILDING OWNER IS HELD

Detroit, Mich., March 27.—[Special.]—Wesley Hamilton, 60 year old owner of the two family bungalow in which three children were burned to death this forenoon, was arrested tonight. John D. Watts, assistant prosecutor, said Hamilton will be held pending investigation of alleged violations of the building code.

The house originally had been a single dwelling, and Hamilton had converted it into a two family residence by partitions made of heavy pressed cardboard, highly inflammable. He did the remodeling himself.

Mrs. Ellen Hamden, 19 year old mother of the three children, left them alone at home while she crossed the street to telephone. While there her home caught fire. The mother was forced by the flames to abandon her frantic efforts to save her children. They were Kathleen, three years old; Evelyn, two, and Delores, one.

Gas Kills 4 Children.

Frederick, Md., March 27.—(AP)—The lives of four children ranging in age from 16 months to eight years were snuffed out by gas this afternoon during a twenty minute absence of their mother from the house where they were staying here.

The children, Mary Lucille, 8; Myrtle Estelle, 5; Elsie Yvonne, 3, and Helen, 16 months, all were found on the floor of the kitchen of the home of Mrs. Joseph H. Bussard, sister of their mother, Mrs. Leslie Shields of Boyd.

N. U. CO-EDS WANT SMOKING ROOMS ON THE CAMPUS

Co-eds at Northwestern university yesterday voted in favor of the establishment of smoking rooms in their living quarters on the university campus. Of the 333 who cast ballots in a poll conducted by the Daily Northwestern, the student newspaper, only 51 voted against the proposal. The establishment of the smoking rooms in dormitories and sorority houses was advocated by the student congress in a resolution adopted on March 8.

No More Lectures; Traffic Violators to Face Court

Because motorists took advantage of the leniency of the west park board's "lecture course" given to traffic law violators, the board voted yesterday to abolish the safety commission, created in 1924 to minimize traffic violations, and hereafter law breakers will be arraigned in the Municipal court. While the safety commission was in operation, careless drivers were lectured by the commission on the advantages of careful driving.

Canal St. Postal Foreman in U. S. Service 51 Years

Thomas F. Scully, foreman of the Canal street postoffice substation, yesterday observed his 51st year of government service. Hundreds of postal officials and employés sent congratulations to "Young Scully," as he is known to his associates, at St. Petersburg, Fla., where he is spending his vacation. President Hoover last year sent his congratulations to Scully.

HUNT FOR 'LOST' WITNESSES IN SANITARY QUIZ

The detectives from the state's attorney's office are having difficulty in finding witnesses to take before the grand jury in the renewed sanitary district investigation, the state's attorney's office announced yesterday. First Assistant State's Attorney Northup filed a new petition for a subpoena duces tecum, asking for practically all the records of the United States of America company, electrical contractors, employed by the old sanitary district regime.

Some o fthe witnesses, employés or former employés of the electrical company are said to have left town, while others have moved temporarily. Prosecutor Northup is trying to obtain new indictments before the April primary, he said, and he ordered the detectives to devote their time to finding the missing witnesses.

In this petition for the subpoena, Northup charges that the taxpayers lost millions of dollars in frauds "perpetrated by a criminal combination of persons connected with the board." The hearing will be held this afternoon.

The original sanitary district indictments against Timothy J. Crowe, former president of the district, and twelve other sanitarians are now nearly a year old. They have not been placed on a court call for trial.

Amboy, Ill., March 27.—[Special.]—With the March blizzard raging Tuesday night 32 babies were born on the farm of Mr. and Mrs. James Morrissey just outside this city. The hour was from 11 o'clock to midnight. The babies were 30 pigs, one calf and one bouncing baby boy who is the second child in the Morrissey family.

HIGHWAY BOARD APPROVES PLANS TO WIDEN ROADS

Expenditures for 1930 Set at 50 Million.

Springfield, Ill., March 27.—[Special.]—With a resolution indorsing the financial policy of the state highway division for 1930 the new nonpartisan highway advisory board, at its initial meeting today, approved the program to widen roads in the metropolitan areas of the state.

Expenditures for 1930 are estimated at $50,000,000. Sums for the payment of principal and interest on road bonds, maintenance, and policing and refunds, as well as at least $28,000,000 for new construction, were included in the budget. It was submitted by Director H. H. Cleaveland of the department of public works and buildings, and Chief Highway Engineer Frank T. Sheets.

The board also approved the highway division's plans to refund to all counties sums expended by them in constructing highways which have been taken over by the state, commended the highway division for its extensive grade separation program for the year, and urged it to continue the practice of requiring communities to furnish rights of way for new bond issue roads before contracts are awarded.

Ban on Signs Indorsed.

It also expressed its approbation of Director Cleaveland's recent order forbidding the placing of any signs or advertising placards on state highway property.

Motions urging the highway division to arrange for a system of communication between the public and the highway patrolman, so that the officers may be speedily notified in emergencies, and suggesting that the division enlarge its school of instruction for patrolmen also were adopted.

Gov. Louis L. Emmerson, with whom the board met briefly to pay its respects, after electing Senator R. R. Meents, of Ashkum, chairman, and Representative Reed F. Cutler, secretary, informed it of his wish to have all present gaps in the bond issue roads closed during this construction year, if possible.

Market Roads Urged.

He also told them of his earnest desire for the counties to develop a comprehensive system of secondary and farm to market roads with the proceeds from their allotments of the gas tax.

Reserve Officers to Open Evanston Convention Today

The Illinois state department of the Reserve Officers association will open its annual convention at the North Shore hotel in Evanston today with a luncheon at which Col. Manus McCloskey, commanding officer of the field artillery reserve, and H. A. Jung, founder of the American Vigilance Intelligence association, will discuss the menace of pacifism and communism. The convention will close tomorrow afternoon, following a "peace preparedness" parade in which soldiers and sailors from Fort Sheridan and the Great Lakes naval station, members of the American Legion, Boy Scouts, and R. O. T. C. units will participate.

ADDICTS RIOT; SEIZE DOPE; 12 PATIENTS FLEE

Rioters 'Take Shots' in Their Arms.

Evansville, Ind., March 27.—[Special.]—Twelve drug addicts, patients at the Hollinger sanatorium near Newbery, escaped today in a two hour reign of terror when three other patients became uncontrollable and drove officials from the institution.

The three terrorists were captured after they had barricaded themselves in the institution, situated in a lonely wooded spot and resembling a fort.

Frank Winer, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Garfield, all of Kansas City, perpetrators of the escape plot, were captured by deputy sheriffs of Warrick county when it became known that they had no weapons despite their threats to "shoot to kill if interfered with in their plans."

According to reports, Mrs. I. H. Hollinger, wife of the superintendent of the sanatorium, was threatened by the three addicts in the absence of her husband. She locked herself in a room, but the door was battered down and she fled. Other officials and attendants of the sanatorium also were driven out.

The addicts then broke into the morphine cabinet and injected "shots" of morphine into their arms while they maintained their barricade.

GEORGE SUNDAY FREED ON BONDS FROM JAIL CELL

George M. Sunday, 36 years old, son of the Rev. Billy Sunday, was released on bond yesterday after a writ of habeas corpus was issued for him by Chief Justice Denis J. Normoyle of the Criminal court. Sunday had been held in the detective bureau since his arrest Tuesday at West Madison and Wells streets on an intoxicated condition.

Hearing on the writ, which was sought at the request of Attorneys John S. Boyle and Frank L. Kearney, was continued pending arrival of extradition papers. Sunday is wanted in Los Angeles on a charge of adultery, following his arrest Oct. 27 in a hotel with Mrs. Mauryne La Salle, artist's model. Mrs. Sunday announced through Buron Fitts, district attorney of Los Angeles, that she would furnish $600 for the expense of George's trip to Los Angeles, accompanied by police.

BOND REDUCED, O'DONNELL WINS JAIL RELEASE

Bernard O'Donnell, brother of "Klondike" O'Donnell, was released yesterday on a $10,000 bond pending trial on charges of gun toting and perjury. The original bond of $20,000 was reduced to $10,000 with the consent of Assistant State's Attorney Charles Mueller, who appeared against O'Donnell, asking that he be held on the perjury charge.

The jury in O'Donnell's gun toting case failed to agree and was discharged by Judge Harry B. Miller. During the trial O'Donnell denied that the revolver found on him was his weapon, but in an earlier petition asking for its return said that it was his revolver. The judge held him for perjury.

ILL, ENDS LIFE WITH GAS.

John C. Gilbert, 49 years old, 10 West Erie street, committed suicide in his home yesterday by opening all of the gas burners on the kitchen stove. A farewell note to his wife said he feared his poor health would make him a burden to her.

DAYLIGHT SAVING TIME WILL START IN CITY APRIL 27

Daylight saving time will be ushered into Chicago for its thirteenth consecutive appearance April 27, the last Sunday of that month. The extra hour of sunshine will remain until the last Sunday in September when the clocks, by city ordinance, will be reset to central standard time.

The north shore cities, Waukegan and North Chicago, will swing into the same schedule at the same time as Chicago. The councils of the two cities have passed ordinances providing for the resumption of the advanced time. Chicago is prepared for the advent by an ordinance adopted and ratified by a large majority in 1926.

GOODRICH ASKS $900,000 MORE FOR FIRE FORCE

Fire Commissioner Goodrich sent a request to the council finance committee yesterday for an additional appropriation of approximately $900,000 for his department. The amount, he wrote, represents the deficiency in his 1930 appropriation of $7,423,000, which the aldermen promised to make up when funds were available.

Goodrich's letter reminds the aldermen that he will need the $900,000 to run the department on the same basis as in 1929 and to pay the salaries of more than 200 firemen who were retained after they had been dismissed because of lack of funds. It is imperative, Commissioner Goodrich wrote, that an additional appropriation be given to the department in the miscellaneous accounts as well as in the salary accounts.

TAX REVALUATION BEATS TAX FIXING IN ELLER'S WARD

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

In the 36th ward, Morris Eller, the veteran boss and city collector, whose organization does politics all the year around, when a precinct captain wants a permit, he gets it. If another wants a sidewalk privilege it is obtained for him. Still another may be put in jail. It is fixed for him and he gets out. No matter what favor or murder asks, it is obtained for him if humanly possible in politics. Such is the reputation of the Eller organization.

The ward is the spot of most promising tax fixing in the city. A sample of the way taxes were adjusted [illegible] has been taken of two flats on the east side of Halsted street, from 16th street southward.

Example from the Records.

Several spots were found where apparent tax fixing had been practiced. The two flat building [building only, as land] at 1707 South Halsted street appears on the 1927 tax list for $300. Building appraisers [in the recent revaluation] say its fair value is $2,616. The store and two flat building [not as land] at 1729 has been on the tax rolls for $650, while the appraisers say that its actual value is $3,986. Another building [building only] at 1743, which appraisers value at $3,300, has been on the tax books for $50.

Not only these three items, but all of the other 24 properties investigated have been paying too much taxes, in building tax on land, according to the assessment. Even the owners who have had their taxes fixed have been taxed. Every one of the 27 has been paying too high a tax, according to the valuations under the reassessment.

Assessment Beats Politics.

In the two blocks mentioned, the assessment has done more in tax reduction than Eller's constituents in organization was able to do, even when the Eller boys went the limit. The 1927 tax values on the 27 properties total $179,287. The reassessment puts the same properties on the tax rolls for only $95,059. In the aggregate the old valuations were $84,228 too high.

At the old tax rate of $4.86 a $100 valuation, the 27 property owners paid $9,000 in taxes in 1928. Their next aggregate tax bill will be $4,619, a saving of $4,094 over what the Eller organization was able to do for the owners. Most of these buildings consist of one story and two flats above.

The Valuations Compared.

The following table shows the street number for each property, the type of building, the old assessment on land and building, the new assessment, and the decrease in each instance:

No.	Bldg.	Old [1927].	New [1928].	Decrease.
[illegible]	1	$2,000	$ 2,238	$ 1,062
[illegible]	1	3,000	2,069	931
[illegible]	1	3,560	1,333	2,227
[illegible]	Vacant	2,160	993	1,167

[illegible]	1	4,058	1,984	2,074
[illegible]	9	16,496	5,292	11,168
[illegible]	1	5,815	2,917	2,898
[illegible]	1	5,900	2,634	3,266
[illegible]	*1	5,475	2,282	3,193
[illegible]	*1	5,075	2,670	2,405
[illegible]	*2	6,275	5,297	978
[illegible]	1	3,725	3,064	661
[illegible]	1	4,175	3,060	1,115
[illegible]	1	5,175	4,674	501
[illegible]	1	13,536	7,128	6,428
[illegible]	1	10,125	4,950	5,175
[illegible]	1	5,825	3,717	2,108
Totals		$179,287	$95,059	$84,228

In each property the total reassessment is less than the valuation on only this land under the old assessment. The new valuations placed upon the buildings have been increased in no case.

A Case in Point.

The building at 1823-25-27-29 South Halsted street is the largest of the seven. An attempt, apparently, had been made to "take care of" it as well. The old assessment had been put at $38,400. The reassessment reduces that to $13,079 for taxing purposes, that figure being 37 per cent of the appraised value.

The appraisers said the real value of the building is $23,845, but it appears in the old assessment for $1,000. The 37 per cent factor places it in the new assessment at $8,823. Both land and building under the old assessment are down for $39,400, under the reassessment for $21,602. The reduction of $17,798 in assessment would mean the owner $864, more than the organization was able to obtain for him.

Other Owners Benefited.

A much larger percentage of saving to the taxpayer was given the owner of the property at 1831 South Halsted street. The assessment was cut from $10,125 to $4,950, giving that owner a reduction of 51 per cent in his taxes. If the rate is increased, still others will obtain similarly large reductions. The owner of 1708 Sage as Amusement reduced by 50 per cent, and the property at 1707 by 55 per cent. At 1743 the decrease is 57 per cent. The aggregate percentage of reduction on all twenty-seven properties is in excess of 47 per cent.

It is not contended that this group of properties is typical of the reassessment on the west side, but it is highly indicative.

LOTTIE BRENNER SEEKS DIVORCE FROM WAR PILOT

Charges Von Buelow with Misconduct.

Mrs. Lottie Brenner von Buelow, 56 years old, 5839 Sheridan road, yesterday filed a bill for divorce in the Circuit court against her husband, Enrique Dechow Von Buelow, 36 years old. The bill, drawn by Attorney Benjamin Levering, charges misconduct with several unnamed women.

The Von Buelows were married at Crown Point, Ind., May 7, 1929. She was the widow of Nathan T. Brenner, former alderman and president of the American Insulated Wire and Cable company. Brenner, who served in the city council in 1901-2 in the days of the "gray wolves," was almost ousted when he was credited with having said that all but three of his fellow aldermen would "steal a red hot stove."

Brenner filed two suits in the Superior court in December, 1927, charging that his wife had attempted to defraud him of $750,000. Two weeks later he dropped the suits and settled that amount on his wife in a separation agreement. Brenner died on Feb. 9, 1928. He left an estate of $1,378,000 to two children, Norman T. Brenner and Mrs. Ruth Brenner Mervis, cutting off his wife, whom he had married in 1887.

Von Buelow was in the air service of the German army during the war. He was related to Prince Bernhardt von Buelow, German statesman. He met Mrs. Brenner while he was piloting a commercial plane and she was traveling in Central America.

At the time Mrs. von Buelow said that her husband was of the right age and temperament, and predicted that "we are going to have a lot of fun out of life." She added that she did not want to marry an older man because, "they are hard to get along with and I'm too full of life."

Publishers Credit Notice.

Last December she inserted a paid notice in newspapers avowing that she would not be responsible for debts contracted by any one except herself. At that time she declared that the public notice was not a forerunner of separation with Von Buelow, but that certain unnamed individuals were in the habit of indulging in spending orgies on her credit.

In her bill for divorce Mrs. von Buelow states that she and her husband separated last March 15. She charges that within less than two months of the marriage Von Buelow sought the company of other women. On July 15 he is said to have been in the company of an unnamed woman and the bill alleges similar conduct with several other women.

Returning, the train will leave Milwaukee at 11:45 a. m., arriving in Chicago at 1:30 p. m.

REPORT SEVEN INDICTED FOR JURY PAY GRAFT

Two Court Bailiffs Are Among Accused.

Indictments charging seven men with a conspiracy to defraud the taxpayers by padding Criminal court jury lists and thereby collecting salaries in the names of persons who gave no jury service, were reported to have been voted by the grand jury yesterday. Assistant State's Attorney John Leonard Murphy, who presented the evidence to the grand jury, said he expects his investigation to lead to additional indictments.

Frank Bollin, until last January, a Criminal court clerk, but now an employé in the Municipal court bailiff's office, and John L. McLaughlin, personal bailiff to Judge John P. McGoorty, are the main defendants in the conspiracy charge. The others named are the owners of a drug store speakeasy and the men who are alleged to have collected the money in the names of the jurors who did not serve.

Will Question Passmore.

Prosecutor Murphy said that he intends to question John H. Passmore, clerk of the court, and Robert Jones, one of Passmore's chief assistants, because of information reported to have been given by one of the defendants that Passmore had knowledge of the affair last January when he discharged Bollin.

Passmore denied the charge and said that the witness in question wanted to sell him information.

"The man who came to me was 'Red' Carpenter," said Passmore. "He was indicted once for impersonating a federal officer and at another time was indicted by State's Attorney Swanson and his case nolle prossed by Swanson. He is wholly unreliable. He wanted me to promise him a job and pay him money for his information. He said First Assistant State's Attorney Northup would give him $150 for his story.

"I did not know whether a political plot was being engineered and naturally was cautious. I questioned Bollin and he denied the charge. I decided, however, to discharge him rather than take a chance on his integrity."

Tells of Alleged Plot.

The alleged conspiracy, according to Prosecutor Murphy started in November, 1928. At that time, Murphy said, Ronald P. Fahey, one of the men reported to have been named in the true bill, went to Bollin and said he would like to make some money. He was told, he says, to get men to sign jury cards and he could make money. Bailiff McLaughlin introduced Fahey to Bollin, according to Prosecutor Murphy.

At every term of court usually 10 or 15 veniremen are excused. Instead of being marked excused they would be credited with serving full time and the conspirators would then get the jury service cards and collect $10 each from Bailiff McLaughlin, the state charges. The checks were usually turned over to the bailiff at the drug store of Charles M. Fox, 421 North Clark street, across from the old Criminal court building, Prosecutor Murphy said.

Fox was reported indicted along with Abraham Palansky, 1845 South Millard avenue; Bernard P. Steadman, 6007 Calumet avenue, and W. B. McMahon, 3165 Madison street.

"What do you think of this hat?" asked a customer, handing us a Rogers Peet Solight* hat he was wearing.

"We think it's a swell hat," we replied modestly.

"So do I," he said. "I was wearing it out sailing last year and it blew overboard. It was rescued and I've worn it ever since without cleaning or blocking, and it looks good as new." It did, too.

The moral is that Rogers Peet Solight* hats are good hats, though it's not really necessary to throw 'em overboard to prove it. A casual inspection of the new Spring shapes and colors is sufficient. $10.

His Tears in Court to Cost Him 8 More Years in Prison

This concerns a man who took advantage of compassion shown him by a federal judge and a prosecuting attorney. Moreover, the man pleaded his own cause, not wisely but too well, and thus added eight years, eight months and one day to the time he must serve in prison, as well as enhancing the prospect of his ultimate deportation.

The man is Abe Garbett of 1540 South Kolin avenue, who last Friday was sentenced by Federal Judge Wilkerson to serve four months in the county jail for perjury. Yesterday he was sentenced to one year and one day at Leavenworth penitentiary by the same court. In addition it was learned that he was liable to eight years more at Joliet for violation of parole there.

Garbett made his first apperance before Judge Wilkerson after federal investigators had found evidence of false swearing in affidavits he made. During the war he swore in a statement to the draft board that he was born in London. Recently, in an application for civil service examination for the position of postal clerk, he gave his birthplace as Philadelphia. This led to an investigation, which disclosed that he was in reality born in Russia and that he was not a citizen.

Garbett also was charged with subornation of perjury, as one of his aunts had witnessed his false affidavit. He pleaded guilty to these charges, and Judge Wilkerson pronounced sentence of four months.

Tears came into Garbett's eyes as he begged for probation. His wife and two small children, he sobbed, would surely starve if he went to jail. The mother and two girls, sitting in the courtroom, wept audibly.

Both the court and Assistant United States Attorney Walter Wiles were visibly moved by the man's plea, and Judge Wilkerson ordered the sentence stricken. "I will defer sentence," he said, "while an investigation into this man's case is made."

A report on the investigation was made yesterday, showing that Garbett was sentenced in 1924 to one to ten years at Joliet penitentiary on an auto theft conviction. He had served two years and was then paroled. The report also showed he had been charged, in recent years, with forgery, embezzlement and nonsupport, and that a radio company by which he formerly was employed accuses him of purloining radio sets.

"The sentence will be one year and one day at Leavenworth," said Judge Wilkerson.

The state parole board, according to federal authorities, had not learned of Garbett's conviction when the government made inquiries about him. Had he kept silent and accepted the four months' sentence he probably would not have to serve eight more years at Joliet for violation of parole.

After Garbett is through with his prison terms, according to Mr. Wiles, he will face deportation to Russia because of his convictions.

ROB SALESMAN OF $150,000 GEMS IN LOOP BUILDING

Harry Beck, a diamond salesman employed by the S. Kaplan company of New York, was robbed of $150,000 worth of diamonds yesterday by two gunmen who seized him as he was waiting for an elevator in the building at 218 South Wabash avenue. The two men apparently had been awaiting his arrival in the building, one approaching him on each side with guns drawn.

Beck was on his way to call on Bernard Zlotowitz of the jewelry firm of Zlotowitz & Wexler, in response to a note sent to him at the Palmer house. The note had been delivered to the hotel clerk on Wednesday evening by Lester Ralph, 17 years old, a messenger employed by Zlotowitz, but Beck did not receive it until yesterday morning. As Beck stood in the lobby of the Wabash avenue building, the two men seized him and took two wallets containing $1 diamonds from his pocket. They fled with a third man who stood at the door as a lookout.

The police were conducting an investigation.

TARIFF, POLITICAL ALLIANCES ARE PRIMARY TOPICS

Senatorial Race Leaders Spend Busy Day.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

The tariff and "bipartisan alliances," soy beans and the Jones 5 and 10, the world court and the death of "Diamond Joe" Esposito were in the medley of themes and issues last night, as Ruth Hanna McCormick and Senator Charles S. Deneen drove the Republican senatorship campaign towards its finish in Cook county.

Senator Deneen dwelt upon the tariff and increased protection it places upon farm products at a dinner at the Saddle and Sirloin club and later at a massmeeting in the 7th ward, home of State's Attorney Swanson and U. S. District Attorney G. E. Q. Johnson.

Talks on Elmore Split.

The split between Howard W. Elmore, president of the sanitary district, and the Deneen group was projected into the campaign by Mrs. McCormick at her birthday rally at the Evanston Woman's club. Mrs. McCormick quoted Deneen managers as saying Elmore had "run out" and had "refused to obey orders." It came as the climax to an address in which Mrs. McCormick dwelt upon "the Lundin-Deneen alliance," the "Cermak-Deneen alliance," the "life, death, and funeral of Diamond Joe."

Mrs. McCormick rode to the rally in a sleigh at the head of students dressed in the costumes of the Mark Hanna and McKinley days of 1896.

"Citizens are bewildered by the ramifications of Cook county politics," she declared. "Three weeks ago a meeting of Deneen workers was held at 4654 Cottage Grove avenue. Mr. Jacob Allen, Mr. Deneen's manager, made his speech outlining the work in the last weeks of the campaign.

"Stenographer Ordered Out."

"Mr. Allen observed a public stenographer was taking down his speech and after he concluded his talk Mr. Allen walked down to the reporter, took his notebook away from him, and tearing out the pages containing the record of his speech, ripped them into bits. He ordered the stenographer to leave the meeting.

"What was there in that speech Mr. Allen was so determined to conceal? Why did he resort to melodrama? I will tell you. He had said in that speech that Howard W. Elmore, president of the sanitary district board, had 'run out' on the Deneen organization in the present campaign and that after his election two years ago, Mr. Elmore had 'refused to obey orders.' What were the orders Mr. Elmore refused to obey? When he was a candidate two years ago, Mr. Elmore had but one plank in his platform—that if nominated and elected he would conduct the affairs of the district with the same care that he exercised in his own extensive business. Reports place the saving of his administration in the district during 1929 at over $12,000,000, and that the employment scandal had been virtually cleaned up.

Wants to Know of "Order."

"With this record of honest and efficient administration of the sanitary district to his credit, I feel sure that the voters and taxpayers would like to hear from Mr. Allen, or some other responsible spokesman for the Deneen group, just what orders Mr. Elmore refused to obey.

"Quite possibly Mr. Elmore declined to load up his pay roll with workers of the Deneen group. More than likely Mr. Elmore, having gone into politics as a business man, proposed to 'stay in on his own terms, without sacrificing his own principles.' You have injected Mr. Elmore's name into Senator Deneen's campaign, Mr. Allen. Will you tell us what were those orders that Mr. Elmore refused to obey?"

Mrs. McCormick took up "alliances" and "regularity."

"Represents No Faction."

"I represent no faction," she said. "I have made no alliances with any leaders of groups or with any factions. My opponent is the head of one of the political factions. He is not only running for the senatorship, but he is sponsoring a slate of candidates, some of whom represent his political interests and others of whom were put on the ticket at the direction of Fred Lundin. This is popularly known as the Lundin-Deneen alliance. The coalition means, if it follows the usual political course, that the leaders of these two groups are under obligations one to the other.

"Senator Deneen has had a good deal to say about party regularity. He cites the fact that he always votes the way his party wants him to vote, and I assume he so votes without regard for his own opinions.

"It is difficult at times to determine what is a party's attitude. Take, for example, the tariff bill which was passed the other day in the senate and in which appears the debenture clause which President Hoover, the leader of the party, emphatically denounced a year ago. Without any direct information on the subject, I foresee that if the bill goes to Mr. Hoover with the debenture feature included in it the President may veto it. Senator Deneen voted for that bill, and it is difficult to determine whether, in doing so, he voted with his party colleagues in the senate or with his party leader in the White House.

"Senator Deneen voted for the Jones bill, doubtless on the usual ground that he was following his party's wishes, but he is now confronted with the fact that the chairman of the commission appointed by President Hoover has publicly declared that the Jones law is too drastic. Will Mr. Deneen change his attitude now to bring it into accord with that of his party leader's official investigating commission?

"I raise these points for the purpose of indicating that no matter how eager a man may be to vote as he thinks his party would have him vote, there comes a time occasionally when he must make a decision for himself."

Deneen Praises Tariff.

Senator Deneen in his address on the tariff pointed out that the new tariff bill places higher protection on farm products than ever before in American history. He said:

"The Democratic party was in power for eight years after March 4, 1913. The Republican party has been in power for eight years since March 4, 1921. During the eight years the Democrats were in power agricultural products were placed on the free list for the most part. When the Republican party come into power in 1921 an emergency tariff act was passed by the congress for agricultural products and the rates represented the views of the great agricultural associations.

"The present tariff bill has created higher tariff rates for agricultural products than any preceding bill in the history of the country. Illinois will be favored greatly by the rates on cattle, meats, poultry, eggs, dairy products, grains, soy beans, fruits, seeds, and vegetables. The rates have been published.

Tells of Farm Board.

"In addition the congress has created a federal farm board, has authorized an appropriation of five hundred millions of dollars to be loaned by the federal farm board at 4 per cent interest to farmer owned and farmer controlled cooperative associations.

"The farm problem may be considered from the standpoint of production, farm credits and financing, of warehousing, storage and orderly marketing, and from the cost of transportation to the ultimate consumer.

"Regarding the first there is no difficulty. About production, the problem relates to overproduction and surpluses.

"Regarding the second, to the various official agencies created by the federal government, the farmer can borrow money for 5 per cent and for 30 years.

"Regarding the warehousing, storage and orderly marketing the government has advanced as stated five hundred millions of dollars to effect credit agencies for orderly marketing so that the products of the farmer may be marketed as needed by the consumer.

Develop U. S. Waterways.

"Regarding the fourth, the government is engaged in developing our waterways on a comprehensive system, which when finished will afford nine thousand miles of navigable waterways in the interior of the continent.

"The domestic market is protected by an adequate tariff. These great legal forces which are being set up and set in motion by the federal government are bound to affect favorably American agriculture in this country in all of its branches."

James Hamilton Lewis, former senator, is to make his first Chicago speech in his campaign for the Democratic nomination for senator tomorrow. He is to appear at a women's meeting at the Sheridan Plaza hotel.

At McCormick headquarters yesterday Perry B. McCullough, Republican state chairman, and friend of Gov. Emmerson, announced himself for Mrs. McCormick.

GRUNDY TO REMAIN IN U. S. SENATE RACE; WILL FILE MONDAY

Philadelphia, Pa., March 27.—(AP)—Senator Joseph R. Grundy, candidate for election to the United States senate seat he now holds by appointment, still is in the field for the Republican nomination.

It was announced tonight that the senator's petition for the Republican nomination would be filed in Harrisburg next Monday, the last day for taking such legal action.

If the senator had any intention of withdrawing from the race as a result of the action of his running mate, Samuel S. Lewis, in getting out of the contest for the gubernatorial nomination, he has changed his mind.

There were widespread rumors that the Pennsylvania senator, dissatisfied with the support he was receiving from state leaders, might announce his withdrawal.

Neutral political leaders asserted tonight that they were convinced the Mellon-Grundy and the Vare factions finally would patch up a harmony agreement under which Grundy would be the senatorial candidate and Francis Shunk Brown the gubernatorial selection. Such an agreement would call for the withdrawal of Secretary of Labor James J. Davis from the senatorial race.

PADLOCK BILL REPORTED OUT BY COMMITTEE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 27.—[Special.]—One bill on the Wickersham commission dry law enforcement program, which has been at a standstill in congress for a month, moved forward a notch today. The house judiciary committee reported favorably the so-called padlock injunction bill.

Under the measure, if the owner of premises alleged to be a liquor nuisance cannot be located, a federal court may issue a substitute or dummy subpœna by publication and without serving it on the owner order his place padlocked. The Wickersham group recommended the bill in order to tighten up padlock proceedings against owners of cabarets, night clubs, and other places who now escape through the failure to find and identify them.

The padlock bill is the second of the Wickersham measures to reach the house floor, the first being that transferring the dry forces to the department of justice, which passed the house. None of the bills have been acted on by senate committees.

Discuss Jones Law Changes.

Chairman George S. Graham [Rep., Pa.] indicated that there was little discussion of the padlock bill, the committee devoting most of its time to the pending Stobbs bill to modify the Jones law by defining minor liquor offenses and setting penalties. No agreement was reached on this bill.

Several wets today were urging their leaders to invite as a witness Premier G. Howard Ferguson of the Province of Ontario, Canada, to refute the testimony of former Premier E. C. Drury, who appeared yesterday for the drys. Mr. Ferguson, in press statements today, challenged Drury's declaration that the government control system has failed and suggested that the committee call "some responsible official" to testify as to its success.

Premier Would Decline.

TORONTO, Ont., March 27.—(AP)—Premier Howard Ferguson of Ontario indicated today that he would decline if an invitation were tendered him to appear before the judiciary committee of the United States house of representatives in its investigation into prohibition conditions.

How Konjola Ended Five Years of Suffering

Strange, but true, Konjola, the new and different medicine, seems at the peak of its powers in the stubborn cases that have defied all else tried. Read, as proof of this, the words of Mr. Robert A. Miller:

MR. ROBERT A. MILLER

"In Konjola I found the right medicine, after trying many medicines and taking bottle after bottle of magnesia. I became so bad that I underwent the X-Ray. My trouble was acidity. A friend recommended Konjola, and after the first bottle I began to improve. I have used six bottles, and no longer suffer with sour stomach and can eat any kind of food. I have been in the postal service in Chicago for 22 years, and am recommending Konjola to all my friends."

MRS. McCORMICK SAYS SHE'S 50 WITH A SMILE

Birthday Cakes Add Joy to Campaign Day.

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.

Ruth Hanna McCormick was fifty years old yesterday. Deliberately she overlooked the birthday which accompanied her so casually. For her own enthusiasms, her tireless brightness and her general gaiety put the stress of real truth into a birthday message that otherwise might have been commonplace.

Then she said, "I don't feel old," and looked as if she had a right to say it.

And her actions were still further proof. She got up about 4 o'clock in the morning. Optimistically, she caught a train out of Danville, hoping to reach Chicago for a morning conference. Pessimistically, she saw the sun pile higher about the coach windows as she drew into the station at noon. There was a gigantic birthday cake, built in the shape of the nation's Capitol (the senate side if you please), over at her headquarters, 12 East Huron street. Then a few conferences and she ate a sandwich.

This Another Birthday Cake.

The afternoon was a series of pilgrimages through the snow of the north shore and informal talks with women gathered in groups at Wilmette, Winnetka, and Glencoe. The evening began with another birthday cake at the Alpha Phi sorority house on the Northwestern university campus.

As she saw the students assemble for a parade, dressed in the costumes her sister's friends wore in the famous campaign of 1896, she still refused to feel the tediousness of years.

"Stop right there." She laughed as she said it. "I can't remember any further back than McKinley, even if it is my fiftieth birthday."

From the parade she went to the Evanston Woman's club, where more students stood on snowbanks and carried posters announcing that "You can't snow her under. Come and see."

"Here in Life Than Calendar."

And when she had addressed this enthusiastic meeting and another meeting of colored voters, she returned to Chicago to find flowers and telegrams of congratulation from all parts of the country.

"Frankly, I'm 50." She was willingly autobiographical. "And I honestly mean it when I say that I felt older when I was 30 than I do today. At 30 a woman is reluctant to give up the youth of 25, which isn't so far removed from the girlishness of 20. At 50 a woman is a long way from 25 and she knows there's much more in life than the calendar."

Another and more personal reason that fifty casts a happier shadow than thirty is that a woman today has so many more interests, Mrs. McCormick feels. After years of activity, she is now in the climax days of her greatest activity, a campaign for the nomination at the Republican primaries as United States senator.

"Not every woman can run for senator. Not every woman wants to. But every woman today has more opportunity to be of civic service than she had when I was a girl.

Gets Pledge of Support.

The afternoon sessions were open forums, where she sat down, took off her hat [without fussing around in front of a mirror] and asked the women to ask her what they would.

The first woman to follow her suggestion didn't ask a question; she made a statement.

"O, Mrs. McCormick," she began timidly, "my husband's a regular dyed-in-the-wool Democrat, but he thinks you're so fine that he's going to go over to the Republican primaries and vote for you." There was a ruffle of applause. "And he comes from Alabama; think what that means for you," she finished confidently.

Somebody in the back of the room—it was the drawing room of Mrs. Max Zabel, 1247 Chestnut avenue, Wilmette—added:

"How many women here have husbands from Alabama," and the meeting twittered for a moment.

Instantly, however, it grew serious again when another woman said:

"Now, Mrs. McCormick, if you're against the world court, does that mean that you want our boys to go to war?"

"I was brought up a Quaker," was Mrs. McCormick's answer. More specifically, then, she explained her position on the present world court, how she regards it as merely the vestibule, leading inevitably to the league of nations, and how she feels that the league of nations, for us in America, is a dangerous instrument of international broils, rather than a guarantee of peace.

Say Action Removes City Hall Label Charge.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Edward J. Brundage, former attorney general of Illinois, indorsed Howard P. Savage yesterday for the Republican nomination for county treasurer.

As Brundage broke away from the leadership of County Chairman Snow three months ago and announced he would go it alone, his formal backing for the former national commander of the American Legion is considered important. Politicians agree that it will do more than anything else that could happen to clear Savage of the city hall label that his opponents, Walter E. Bacon and John E. Stanton, have charged that he wears.

"Free From Secret Alliances."

When Savage's candidacy was announced it was not as a factional entry, but since that time he has been indorsed by the forces under Snow and has appeared and spoken at their meetings. His opponents charge that this has made him unqualifiedly a city hall candidates because the Snow organization includes all the Thompson units.

In his statement the former attorney general, who hitherto had indorsed only two county candidates, Francis Boutell for assessor and Louis Nettelhorst for Probate court clerk, two members of his own following, voices a conviction that Savage is free from "any secret alliances."

"The people of Cook county," read the statement, "are in a splendid position to send this high class business man into the important office of county treasurer. He has proved by his record as a soldier and business man that he has every high quality that is so badly needed in a major county office.

"Service Men's Candidate."

"He is a candidate brought forth by service men of the world war, and as such is not burdened or handicapped with any secret alliances, but rather will receive the unqualified support of all independent groups in the Republican party of Cook county.

"His record in business and civic affairs has been of such a high type that it needs no comment."

Other developments of the day in the local Republican arena were of a nature the opposite of the above. Two events were outstanding. One was the opening up of the real attack of the Deneen county ticket upon its opponents at the Grand theater. The other was a statement by President Elmore of the sanitary district criticizing Charles M. Moderwell, one of the candidates for the drainage board on the Deneen ticket, who therefore is running against the Elmore ticket for the same office.

Cornelius Opens Attack.

J. F. Cornelius, candidate for the board of review, who is to head the Deneen attack on the politicians allied with the city hall, tried out his material at the Grand briefly and met with such a response that he says he will use up some of his real ammunition at a similar meeting today.

"Oppressive taxes and inequitable assessments," he said in his first volley, "are the overshadowing issue of this campaign. No one can mistake the necessity for a change in both tax boards—the board of assessors and the board of review, nor the mood of the public for a new order of things in local governmental affairs generally."

Ald. Arthur F. Albert, candidate for president of the county board, attacked Otto F. Reich, Snow-Barrett candidate, and A. J. Cermak, the present president of the board.

Charges Moderwell Indictment.

"On March 25, 1920," read a part of the Elmore statement, "Mr. Moderwell was indicted by the federal court in Indiana with about 124 others for conspiracy in restraint of trade in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law.

"In my opinion Mr. Moderwell represents just the kind of man that should not be elected by the people of the sanitary district at this particular time because for a number of years he has been seeking public office, because he has the support of a political machine, and is masquerading under the guise of a candidate selected by a committee of the Association of Commerce."

Mrs. Deneen Honor Guest at Reception in Evanston

More than three hundred women attended the reception in honor of Mrs. Charles S. Deneen given yesterday afternoon at the North Shore hotel, Evanston, under the auspices of the First ward committee of the Evanston Deneen club, of which Mrs. Rufus C. Dawes is chairman. Mrs. Dawes, who presided, spoke on the "World Court" and Attorney Harold Ickes of Winnetka gave an address on "Charles S. Deneen." Mrs. Martin Kent Northam told of "Organization."

House Candidate Held to Grand Jury as Gun Toter

Peter Di Francesca of Melrose Park, candidate for the Democratic nomination for state representative in the Seventh district, was held to the grand jury on a charge of carrying concealed weapons yesterday by Justice of the Peace W. W. Ward in Morton Grove. His bond was fixed at $5,000. Di Francesca was arrested with two companions in the Grand River inn, at Grand avenue and River road on March 14, by investigators of the state's attorney's office.

BAR ANNOUNCES OUTCOME OF ITS JUDICIAL PRIMARY

Members Vote on City Court Aspirants.

The Chicago Bar association last night announced the result of its primary on candidates seeking nominations for judicial offices at the primary election of April 8.

Under the rules of the bar primary candidates must receive at least a third of all votes cast in order to merit the association's recommendation. Since 2,311 ballots were cast, the candidates who polled less than 771 votes failed of indorsement.

Four Democratic candiates for judicial offices are without opposition in the primary, and the bar association took no vote on them. They are Judge Edmund K. Jarecki, for County judge; Judge Henry Horner, for Probate judge; Judge John J. Sonsteby, for chief justice of the Municipal court, and Harold P. O'Connell, for the Finnegan vacancy in the Municipal court.

In the following list, showing the full results of the bar association primary, the names of those receiving the bar indorsement appear in black-faced type. Asterisks precede the names of the sitting judges. The initials following the names of some of the candidates indicate their factional support, as follows: [S], Snow; [D], Deneen; [R], regular Democratic organization.

GRAF FLIGHT BRINGS ECKENER MEDAL FROM GEOGRAPHIC SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., March 27.—(AP)—Dr. Hugo Eckener's name was inscribed on a roll of modern immortals in geography and exploration tonight when the National Geographic society presented him with its special gold medal for his globe encircling trip in the Graf Zeppelin.

In accepting the "exceptional honor," he said the glory was shared with his officers and crew and the United States navy department, "without whose support we could not have been successful."

Diplomats of 26 nations, members of the cabinet and of congress, ranking officers in the army and navy, and others high in the federal and social life of the city and nation paid their respects.

Rear Admiral Byrd, speeding homeward from conquests of the Antarctic, cabled his congratulations.

Dr. Eckener will confer tomorrow with navy department officials to arrange for the use of dirigible facilities at Lakehurst for the May flight of the Graf. He expects to leave Germany May 10 for South America and proceed to North America to arrive in New Jersey May 20.

Arrangements for transporting mail on the trip were made today in a conference between the skipper and Postmaster General Brown. Postage on the return trip from the United States to Germany was fixed at $1.20 an ounce for letters and 60 cents for post cards.

INDEPENDENTS TANGLE COUNTY BOARD CONTEST

Their Candidates Land on Rivals' Ticket, Too.

BY PARKE BROWN.

One of the developments of the local Republican campaign held responsible for frequent allusion to it as a multi-ringed circus—although an unexciting one—is the contest over nominations for the county board.

Here, as in connection with the sanitary district, there is an independent nonfactional movement behind a complete set of 15 candidates in addition to the slates of the Deneen group and the Snow-city hall organization. This has had the effect, politicians admit, of separating it somewhat from the main show and making it what some of them call a sideshow by itself.

The anti-city hall angle has been taken out of this situation to a large extent because none of the members of the present board previously allied with the city hall is a candidate for renomination. But here, as in connection with other contests, the warning against letting the Thompson forces slip into political power through a three cornered fight is being sounded.

A Battle Against Cermak.

Another unusual feature of the line-up is that, although the election is not until next November and he has said he will not be a candidate at that time, the shooting of the Republican candidates for the presidency of the board is all aimed at A. J. Cermak, the present president, who is a Democrat. So far the Republican aspirants have had little to say about the other fellows Cermak must lick on April 8, but two of the three considered the leading contenders have been battling with Cermak—with Cermak completely responsive.

Some of the complications concerning individual candidates also are unusual. Neither the Deneen nor the Snow ticket is complete in itself. The former camp pleads that it is embarrassed by the self-declared addition of two candidates in the country towns that it refused to slate, and it has been compelled to drop two city candidates from its original slate because they wouldn't remain regular. And the Snow people, with an incomplete ticket, have picked up two of the candidates on the independent ticket to fill out the ten for the Snow city ticket.

Back Independent Ticket.

The independent ticket in this case is backed by the Republican Business Men's organization, Frank J. Loesch, honorary chairman, and Robert McCormick Adams, executive chairman. The unit was started more than a year ago by Axel Lonnquist, subdivider, among sectional business men's organizations. Some of these associations brought forth candidates at dinners in their honor and an executive committee completed the list, now headed by Lonnquist for the presidency.

Possibly by more than coincidence, politicians say, Chairman Snow of the Republican county central committee used a similar method in selecting his city ticket. He left the selection of the five candidates from outside the city to a country towns group headed by Commissioner J. P. Carolan Jr., the only member of the present board on the Snow ticket; but he called a conference of representatives of neighborhood business associations, local improvement associations and similar organizations, and from this emanated the eight city candidates on the original slate.

Deneen Slate Hits Snags.

So far as has been disclosed, the Deneen organization slate committee picked its entire county ticket headed by Ald. Arthur F. Albert for the presidency. But the slate ran into two snags. The first and biggest one was its "luck" in the order of filing at County Clerk Sweitzer's office. The uninitiated believe there is really a matter of good fortune in obtaining favorable places on the ballot, but the Deneen people now deny it.

They point to the fact that on the Republican list for the board presidency, Otto F. Reich, supposedly backed by William H. Weber and Charles V. Barrett, and now included in the Snow slate, was placed at the top, that Lonnquist landed in second place, that a political unknown was third and that Albert was fourth.

Then they show that after a few pieces of individual "luck" such as Reich's again coming out on top for city membership on the board, the Snow ticket, with the exception of one former Democrat, was the first bloc of candidates on the list, that the Lonnquist group came next, then some unknowns and then a garbled Deneen slate, Albert, the first man on it being in twenty-fifth place.

Two Dropped from Ticket.

That garbling was another influence on the Deneen program. Among the individuals who fared well on the city commissioner list were Commissioner Harry Newby, second place, and Charles Bostrom, Lundinite, second place. They had filed individual petitions although their names were on the Deneenite petition that put the slate of ten in as a unit. County Clerk Sweitzer had treated their own petitions nicely, but the Deneen management insisted that the two "lucky" ones drop down some twenty places and run with their associates. This Newby and Bostrom refused to do and they have been dropped from the ticket.

Then, on the country town list, Commissioners Jaranowski and Schmidt, who had not been slated by either major faction, landed first and second places immediately ahead of three Deneen candidates, Commissioners Busse and Kriz and George A. Miller, a former commissioner. The remaining two Deneen candidates were far down among the unknowns.

Almost as soon as this situation developed, Commissioner Jaranowski, the Deneen people charge privately, began to spread the word that the Deneen ticket in the country towns consisted of the first five on the ballot, although he had been told point blank that he could not have the Deneen indorsement. He and, to a lesser extent, Schmidt, who also was unslated, began appearing at Deneen meetings. Thereupon one of the Deneen candidates in the suburbs, Mayor Orner of Wilmette, withdrew his petition, leaving the Deneen ticket short in one sense but long in another because of the disseminated idea that it included Jaranowski and Schmidt.

That is the way the three tickets were made up. In their present form they are as follows:

LONNQUIST.	SNOW.	DENEEN.
A. O. Anderson.	Otto F. Reich.	A. F. Albert.

G. Lieber.	W. McFeeley.	G. A. Miller.
C. B. Miller.	Frank Houcek.	G. H. Gibson.
T. E. Roberts.	P. A Anker.

In addition to the 26 on these three city slates there are 33 other candidates who filed for the city commissioner ships. And, in addition to the 14 on slates for the country town places, 10 other Republicans, including Jaranowski and Schmidt, filed for this office.

WOMAN GOES TO JAIL PROTESTING THAT HER RUM IS "EVIDENCE"

Pampa, Tex., March 27.—(AP)—Miss Beulah Allred, self-styled dry crusader, today was indicted for transporting liquor which she claimed she was taking before a grand jury as evidence. She was arrested yesterday while showing the liquor, which she said was bought to prove her assertion that officers were protecting the liquor traffic.

Officials said her case would be treated as any other in which liquor was seized on persons not legally authorized to carry it. Miss Allred remained in jail, refusing to make $500 bond. She said she was awaiting word from the state Woman's Christian Temperance union, which she claims to represent.

HE ASKS LOWER FINES FOR TRIO; GETS JAIL TERM

Joseph Rashkow, 3427 North Clark street, repented yesterday of his action in having three friends arrested for stealing goods from his grocery and as a result he was in jail last night serving out a five day sentence for contempt of court.

After the three men, Henry Bowman, 37 years old, and Nick Bowman, 32 years old, 1746 Newport avenue, and Paul Flavin, 22 years old, 1215 Addison street, had been fined $5 each for taking a case of canned goods from the store, Rashkow told Judge Alfred O. Erickson of the Town Hall court that he thought the fines were too heavy.

"What do you know about being a judge?" Judge Erickson asked.

"Nothing, but I know groceries, and I don't think you should fine them so hard, if at all," Rashkow replied.

"You're just trying to back out," the judge said. "You're a coward and I'm going to send you to jail for contempt of court."

ACQUIT WOMAN HOME BREWER IN U. S. COURT

Springfield, Ill., March 27.—(AP)—Mrs. Cecilia Diczgan was acquitted tonight of charges of selling intoxicating liquor. A jury in United States District court took five and a half hours to reach a verdict.

Mrs. Diczban and her husband, George, were charged with having sold a pint of whisky to L. H. Campbell, federal agent, at her home. She denied it, but said she sometimes made home brew, though never selling any, "because she liked cold beer on a hot day."

Those familiar with court routine were surprised at the length of time the jury's deliberations consumed. The husband was freed because the agents could not identify him.

Cora Jacobsen of Quincy, Ill., mother of several children, was put on probation by Judge Louis Fitzhenry, after pleading guilty to charges of violating the liquor laws. Sheriff K. A. Elmore of Quincy was made her probation officer.

G. O. P. Ignores Democrats' Publicity Demand

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 27.—[Special.]—Republican leaders in the house today completed their plans for pushing the tariff bill into conference if possible by next Tuesday or Wednesday.

Speaker Nicholas Longworth and Chairman B. H. Snell [Rep., N. Y.] of the rules committee announced that they expect an agreement upon procedure and introduction of the rule under which the bill will be handled on Monday. It will then lay over for one day to be acted upon probably Tuesday.

The question yet to be decided is whether the house shall be allowed separate votes on controversial senate amendments, particularly on sugar, lumber, and cement rates. Speaker Longworth said that "a substantial" group of Republicans were demanding an opportunity to go on record on these items and indicated that to satisfy them the votes may be allowed.

"But," said Mr. Snell, "whatever is decided will be decided among the Republicans themselves. This is going to be a Republican and not a Democratic bill."

To this Speaker Longworth added the observation that the talk by Representative John N. Garner [Dem., Tex.], Democratic floor leader, about publicity on conference sessions is "mostly poppycock."

DELAYS GRAND JURY ACTION ON SLAUGHTER CASE

CRIMINAL COURT.

Richard McRay, robbery; sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary by Judge Philip Finnegan.

Stanley Sutula, larceny; sentenced to 1 to 20 years in Pontiac reformatory by Judge John J. Sullivan.

State's Attorney Swanson decided late yesterday not to bring the Slaughter case before the grand jury today despite the fact the city is being put to an expense of nearly $100 a day in maintaining nine witnesses at a hotel.

Charges of politics flew back and forth yesterday at the inquest called by Coroner Bundesen after Swanson's office on Wednesday had refused to allow witnesses to the killing to go before the grand jury, although they were at the door of the grand jury room.

Richard Prendergast, leader of the Deneen campaigners in the Forty-second ward, was at the inquest, representing John Pamplnella. Two women said they had seen Pampinella sneak up behind William H. Slaughter, a colored preacher and anti-Deneen poll worker, and shoot him in the back of the head.

Witnesses Cross-Examined.

Assistant State's Attorneys Harry Gabel and C. E. Lounsbury remained silent as the two women, Mrs. Macie Hadley, 1166 Larrabee street, and Mrs. Ella Officer, 1145 Larrabee street, both colored, were severely cross-questioned by Prendergast and Attorney Louis Hart. The direct accusation of Pampinella as the slayer of his political opponent was brought out in questioning of the two women by Coroner Bundesen.

They said they were at a window in Mrs. Hadley's home and they saw a short Negro walking toward them in an alley and then saw Pampinella, whom both women knew, running up behind Slaughter. They saw the shooting, they declared on the witness stand.

Jones Gillespie, 14 year old colored boy, said Pampinella had run out of a grocery store where the boy was employed after school and that he had returned a few minutes later, panting and red-faced. A revolver, ordinarily kept in a cheese box in the grocery, was missing, the boy testified.

"Saw Pair Enter Alley."

Benjamin Fuller, 1321 Byron street, an employé of the city, said he saw Slaughter and Pampinella go into the alley a few minutes before Slaughter was found there, mortally wounded. With Prendergast pointing a finger at him and keeping up a barrage of questions, Fuller admitted he had been afraid to tell in full what he knew about the killing at a previous session of the inquest.

Quesse Surratt, 531 Division street, a colored expressman, said he saw Pampinella running north in Cambridge street at about the time the slaying was believed to have occurred. Another man was behind Pampinella and was urging Pampinella: "Run, John, run!" the witness stated.

Lieut. Otto Erlanson of the homicide squad said he had other witnesses but didn't believe it necessary to call them at the inquest.

Bundesen Blames Feud.

Coroner Bundesen, who is a Democrat, explained by saying that a Republican factional feud was involved in the killing. He had called the inquest for yesterday at the request of the police, who complained that though the slaying occurred two weeks ago, they were unable to have their witnesses placed under oath at any formal inquiry.

Pampinella had been released on bonds of $7,500 when assistant state's attorneys informed the court they had no evidence against him, according to the police. He was free until Wednesday night when he surrendered at the Chicago avenue station. He was taken to the county jail after the inquest and the police expressed the hope they could obtain an indictment today.

"Swanson in No Hurry."

"There is nothing unusual about this case," said Assistant State's Attorney Gabel when reference was made to its similarity to the murder two years ago of Octavius Granady, a colored worker for Senator Deneen, and which resulted in expenditures of more than $300,000 by State's Attorney Swanson and his first assistant, Frank J. Loesch, in prosecutions which failed to establish the identity of Granady's slayers.

"Mr. Swanson said there is no hurry about taking the witnesses before the grand jury. He wants to read the transcript of the inquest testimony before doing so."

Lieut. Erlanson had to be content with that, saying the police had done their part in arresting Pampinella and producing eyewitnesses to the killing, who named Pampinella as the slayer. The police kept the custody of the witnesses, however, after Prendergast had endeavored to have the state's attorney's office take them in charge.

90 YEARS OLD

Brunswick, Ga., March 27.—[Special.]—George F. Baker, the "grand old man of Wall street," celebrated his 90th birthday anniversary on Jekyll island, 8 miles from here, today. He has been here on a mid-winter vacation since early in January. He is in excellent health.

The island is owned by the Jekyll Island club, an organization of 100 wealthy men, most of them like himself, New Yorkers. During previous trips here the chairman of the First National bank of New York has conferred with the leading financiers of the country, including J. Pierpont Morgan, James J. Hill, James Stillman, and Theodore N. Vail.

His latest birthday finds the banker still in harness, taking an active interest in the many big enterprises he has helped to build up.

For nearly sixty years now Mr. Baker has had a hand in the development of the big industries of this country. At one time he was a member of the board of nearly fifty big corporations.

CAR'S GAS KILLS BOY AND GIRL IN CEMETERY LANE

Hillsdale, Mich., March 27.—[Special.]—The bodies of Cecile Nye, 17, and Lowell Durfey, 17, of Jonesboro, Mich., were found this morning within the tightly closed automobile belonging to young Durfey at a spot some distance from the main entrance inside the village cemetery.

Discovery of the tragedy was made by Emery Nye, the father of the girl, and a friend, who was aiding him in a search which was started Monday night when the two young people failed to return to their homes.

They had attended a basketball banquet at the high school early in the evening, at which both were honored as members of their respective teams.

An open switch, an empty gas tank, and the closed windows proved without a doubt, according to officers, that death was due to carbon monoxide poisoning and had occurred in all probability within a few moments after they had stopped the car in the driveway.

TAKE FIREMAN'S BODY FROM RIVER.

The body of Edward Schneck, a member of the crew of the fireboat Graeme Stewart, was recovered from the Chicago river at La Salle street yesterday. Schneck fell into the river on Jan. 9, while stepping from the boat to the dock. The body was identified by fellow firemen.

3 KIDNAPERS TIE WOMAN TO CAR; MAKE HER DRIVE

Detroit, Mich., March 27.—[Special.]—Mrs. Elsie Mills, who was kidnaped late yesterday by three men who forced her to drive them from Detroit to Bad Axe after they had bound her to the steering wheel of her automobile, reached home late today.

She telephoned her husband, Arthur Mills, late last night and told him about the kidnaping.

Mills had reported to police last night that his wife was missing. Two hours later a telephone message from Sheriff John L. Hoffman of Bad Axe, saying she had been found there, and had told of eluding three kidnapers, cleared up the mystery.

The husband reported her disappearance when she failed to keep an appointment to meet him at the corner of Van Dyke and Marcus avenues. He suspected foul play, he said, because he had learned she received two threatening letters earlier in the day.

Two brothers, Jacob and Ervin Ogden, were arrested on a farm near Sandusky, Mich., in connection with the case. They denied any knowledge of the affair.

ERLANGER'S KIN ACCUSED OF PLOT BY THE "WIDOW"

His Bitter Denunciation of Them Is Quoted.

New York, March 27.—[Special.]—Mrs. Charlotte Fiscal Erlanger, who will seek tomorrow to have her status as common law wife of the late Abraham Erlanger fixed by a jury, today filed affidavits in the Surrogate's court in support of her claim for a widow's share of the 75 million dollar estate left by the theatrical producer.

"The only time," the woman set forth, "from 1926 until the day of his death, that Mr. Erlanger was separated from me was from Feb. 5 to to Feb. 12, last year. Then his brother, Mitchell Erlanger, a former justice of the Supreme court, and a lawyer, Saul J. Baron, jointly conspired to spirit him away from me."

Bitterness Is Alleged.

The great theatrical operator is quoted in the woman's affidavit as having been bitter against both his brother, former Justice Erlanger, and his sister, who share the estate.

"'To think,'" the affidavit quotes the magnate as saying, "'that I, who have given these two everything they have in life, should listen to their judgment and leave my home and wife. They would hold me up for my money, these two conniving, deceiving, underhanded money lovers.'"

"They actually got my husband to go to Mitchell Erlanger's home, where they attempted to fill him with stories, rumors and gossip concerning me," she continues, "but on Feb. 12 Mr. Erlanger was sufficiently recovered to improvise the ruse that he desired to go to a hospital. He spent one night in the hospital and on the following day returned to our home on Riverside drive."

Doctor Supports Her.

In support of this charge, Mrs. Erlanger submitted an affidavit from Dr. Robert McConnell, president of the French hospital medical staff, who attended Erlanger.

The physician asserts that "many times, even as recently as the week of Mr. Erlanger's death," the brother urged him to help separate the couple.

"I need not declare that I would have nothing to do with the suggestions he made," he states. "As far as I was able to observe in the period I treated Mr. Erlanger, his wife gave him wholehearted and undivided attention and devotion. His attitude toward her seemed to be on the basis of extreme fondness and true affection."

Mrr. Madeline Dillon, who was Erlanger's private secretary for many years, supports the claim made by Mrs. Erlanger that he was bitter toward his brother and sister.

BOY ARRAIGNED AS MURDERER OF HIS SISTER

Joseph Portugese, 18 year old high school student, who is charged with the murder of his sister, Mary, 22 years old, was arraigned yesterday before Judge Francis Allegretti in the Boys' court. The case was continued until April 4. Evidence was offered to show that the young woman committed suicide.

Miss Portugese was found dying in her bed on Tuesday, a piece of a bullet in her head. An empty gun was found near by. A coroner's physician held that she had been struck on the head, but Sergt. Edward Balata of the Maxwell street police station said he believed she had been murdered. He found an empty shell on the floor, and other evidence.

Her brother said he had surprised his sister when she was about to shoot herself and reached for the revolver after she fired a shot at him. She then shot herself, he said. The youth later admitted he struck his sister on the head, but subsequently denied this.

Jury Hears Sculptor Tell of His Many Love Affairs

Buffalo, N. Y., March 27.—[Special.]—Henri Marchand, artist and sculptor and father of five children, on the witness stand here late today branded himself a philanderer without so much as raising a hand to save his ex-inamorata, Lila Jimerson, from the fate that is overtaking her.

The gray haired widower of Clothilde Marchand, for plotting whose murder Lila now is on trial, told the story of the love affair with Lila. He had no love for Lila, he insisted, only pity, sympathy, and compassion. The love letters he wrote her from time to time, he said, were just the expression of his French temperament to make his paramour "feel good."

Marchand said he knew nothing of the murder plot, that he had no intention of marrying Lila, that he had had no idea of getting a divorce, and that "many, many times" he had had affairs with other women after his marriage in Paris.

Bars Married Women.

The sculptor had so many affairs with women in France, the United States and Canada, on Indian reservations and in hotels that he could not come near remembering all of them. He made only one rule—never to become involved with a married woman—but he did not bar widows. Many times Prosecutor Guy B. Moore asked him:

"How many of these affairs have you had—five, fifty or five hundred?" and each time Marchand replied, pettishly, "How can I remember them all? I am 53 years old."

"What is your business?" Moore asked, when Marchand, clad in a shabby blue suit, with a red scarf stuffed clumsily inside his collar, mounted the stand, placed his hands behind his back and locked them, and faced the throng and the jury.

"I am an artist," he answered, proudly, "and have been all my life."

Hunts Bigger Opportunities.

Then he told how he studied in Paris, married Clothilde and there they had two of their five children, how looking for bigger opportunities he came to America, worked in New York for five years, mostly on big statues, and then went to Albany, where he was from 1914 to 1925. It was while he was living in Albany working at the state museum, that he first met Lila Jimerson.

Quickly the prosecutor brought the sculptor down to 1927, the year he left the Albany museum and moved his family to this city. He decided to make a group for the museum, and he went to the reservation early in the first year he was here and again met Lila. This time he hired a hut for week-ends on the reservation from her father, Anson Jimerson, who testified earlier in the day.

Lila, Marchand said, assisted him without being asked. His relations with her, he admitted after a moment's hesitation, were "very intimate."

Denying he had any real affection for the Indian girl, Marchand said he was intimate with her from "professional necessity."

Q.—And did you make love to her? A. It was not necessary.

Q.—Then you were doing it only for your art? A.—Yes, precisely.

Note Pulsing with Passion.

Prosecutor Moore turned to the jury and read a love letter Marchand wrote Lila from Bermuda, while he was vacationing there with his wife and children—a note pulsing with passion in which the sculptor said he was "panting for a real love meeting" on his return.

Q.—Did you mean that? A.—No.

Q.—Did your wife know of your relations with other women? No—er—I don't know.

Marchand admitted he and Lila had "an agreement" that she was to be intimate with no other man, white or red, and this, too, he insisted, he exacted of her only out of pity.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 27.—A strange story of modern piracy on British ships in Philadelphia's harbor was told by the captain of a British tramp steamer which arrived in Liverpool from America today. He alleged that thieves crept on board his ship, drugged him in his cabin, and absconded with $250 although he had taken the precaution of placing four armed members of the crew on guard. The Mercantile Marine service association of Liverpool issued a warning to all ship masters following the captain's statement.

STIMSON FEELS SURE OF A "BIG 5" NAVY CUT TREATY

U. S. "Consult" Proposal Peps Up Parley.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 27.—American Secretary of State Stimson returned from a meeting of all heads of the delegations this evening in the most cheerful frame of mind since the beginning of the London naval conference. It was said that for the first time he felt supremely confident a five power treaty will be reached providing for a real reduction of naval armament.

The American delegation will now keep on the sidelines while negotiations proceed between the British and the French and between the French and the Italians. It is already apparent that Mr. Stimson's offer to commit the United States to a consultative pact on condition that Great Britain gives a security guarantee acceptable to the French is one of the most important factors in the revival of an effort to procure a five power treaty.

Europe Claps Hands.

Europeans at the conference do not conceal their intense satisfaction at the prospect of the United States participating in consultations on measures which deal with the outbreak of war or the danger of war in Europe. Ever since the United States rejected the league of nations covenant, Great Britain, France, and other league powers have been maneuvering to bring America into an alliance with the league in case of war.

Europe now finds that a consultative pact is the closest approach it can get to what it wants.

European statesmen hope and believe that America, having joined in a consultation, would be unlikely to maintain neutrality, although not bound to employ armed forces. America, they believe, would respect the blockade of the offending nation declared by the league of nations.

The Pros and Cons.

A consultative pact leaves the back door to the league ajar for Uncle Sam, according to the European view.

That this would be the effect of American adherence to a consultative pact is hotly disputed by the advocates of Mr. Stimson's proposal. They say that, in agreeing to consult, the United States is going no farther than in the four power Pacific treaty, and in agreeing to do no more than consult she is confirming her traditional policy not to commit herself in advance to participate in war measures. To this argument critics of the proposal retort that America became a party to the four power Pacific pact because she has possessions in the western Pacific, whereas she has no possessions in Europe to justify participation in a European pact.

ASKS EUROPEAN PACT

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 27. — France's struggle for a security pact began again in earnest today with Foreign Minister Briand's return to the naval conference, and it is believed he has brighter chances of success than when the conference went into a deadlock three weeks ago.

M. Briand now has the advantage of the active assistance of the American delegation, which is said to be pressing Mr. MacDonald to pledge Great Britain to defend France, and in return, promising Great Britain that the United States will enter a consultative pact of some kind or other.

Morrow Backs Up France.

Authoritative sources say Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow has pressed Mr. MacDonald to meet M. Briand's demands. He is said to have promised to handle the United States' senate if Great Britain will agree to reduce the Rapidan figures to 1,000,000 tons and induce the French to come down in proportion. This would fix the French figures at about 600,000 tons. But, it would not meet the Italian demand for a parity if Great Britain still insists on the two-power European standard. This is one of the remaining snags.

A grandiose scheme was unfolded to the delegation chiefs by M. Briand, and the project is considered as the first concrete step toward realization of his pet plan—The United States of Europe. France's new proposal for a guarantee is an unlimited European pact, open to Asiatic nations and South Americans as well, with the hope that some time the United States will join up.

Start Drafting Pact.

Steps toward drafting the pact were begun immediately with the nomination of a special political committee of three, including Sir Robert G. Vansittart, Britain's under secretary of state for foreign affairs, H. W. Malkin, legal advisor of the foreign office, and Count Rene Massigli, political director of the French foreign office.

"A pact of mutual understanding" is Briand's new name of the proposed instrument to promise France security. He was careful not to mention "security sanction, military intervention," or any other phraseology smacking of the use of arms or employment of force.

"Public opinion throughout the world would never comprehend why these five powers here, controlling almost the entire sea power of the globe, have failed to agree to stop war," said M. Briand tonight. "Slowly and gradually our work is beginning to move through our individual efforts."

Not Asking Protection.

M. Briand stresses that France is not asking protection from anybody.

"There is considerable misunderstanding of our position," he said. "We have not suggested that anyone promise to defend us. We propose a mutual understanding among the powers to prevent war."

Chiefs of the delegations will meet again Monday, with the next plenary session scheduled for next Friday.

FRANCE SINGS PRAISE OF U. S. FOR ACTION ON CONSULTATIVE PACT

PARIS, March 27.—(AP)—French opinion tonight lauds the United States for the honesty of the United States in declining even to appear to be hoodwinking France by inducing the French to reduce their naval program on a basis of supposed American military assistance in case France is attacked. France thinks the United States now will participate in a general consultative pact. This is agreeable to the French, but they do not deem it enough to warrant a big naval reduction.

League Greatly Satisfied.

GENEVA, March 27.—(AP)—The possibility of the London naval conference developing a consultative pact with the United States participating is viewed with great satisfaction in league of nations quarters. It is felt here that such an agreement would expedite the success of the league's preparatory disarmament commission work and the ultimate general disarmament conference, and also would go far toward eliminating the vexing problem of sanctions.

"FRIEND" ANNOYS COUPLE ONCE TOO OFTEN; IS JAILED

Wally Powell, 23 years old, 722 Grace street, was such a good friend of William J. Overweiser, 22 years old, 919 Waveland avenue, and his wife, Verna, that the Overweisers didn't like to have him arrested, even though he insisted on annoying them over a period of six months. So Mr. and Mrs. Overweiser separated to escape Powell's friendly visits, the husband going to live with his parents and the wife with her sister.

But Powell discovered where Mrs. Overweiser was staying and began to annoy her there. Still the Overweisers were patient, certain that Powell would get tired of bothering them. Then, on Wednesday, their tormentor found them in a drug store at Waveland avenue and Broadway and without any prelude began calling them unkind names.

"Even in the midst of a blizzard you have to bother us," Overweiser shouted. He called the police and yesterday Judge Alfred O. Erickson fined Powell $200.

"Even friends can go too far," Overweiser said as his friend was led away to serve out the fine in the Bridewell. "Now we can live together again, Verna."

AVOID SECURITY PACT AND WARS! SENATORS INSIST

Borah Calls Navy Meet Plan "a Pious Fraud."

"It is apparent that many of the governments represented at the London conference are more interested in pledging partners for the next war than they are in disarmament," he said. "The delegates representing other governments are not apparently interested in disarmament.

"They ask, 'Who will America play with in the next war?' We say we will not play with any one. And so the question now before the conference is 'Will you agree to consult about it?' To agree to consult is to agree to decide. To agree to decide is to agree to act. To agree to act is to agree that we are going into the next war. They call this the road to peace. That is what they called the triple alliance, and the triple entente and the quadruple alliance."

George Seen by Hoover.

Senator George's statement was made following a conference with President Hoover at the White House. On emerging the Democratic senator said that he agreed with the view the President holds that it would be an unwise move for the United States to enter any consultative pact that in any manner might force this country to use military force to back it up.

He predicted a stubborn fight in the senate against any consultative arrangements offered there.

"Even though such a pact might not carry any military sanctions, some senators would fear that, in time of crisis, American obligations might be misinterpreted by other nations and thus involve this country in war."

Senator James E. Watson [Rep., Ind.] announced that if the consultative pact "has any tendency to drag the United States into any kind of a security agreement for France I shall most strenuously oppose it."

Dry Padlock by Mistake Shuts the Wrong Place

A clerical error in the United States district attorney's office resulted in the padlocking of a barber shop at 738 South Wabash avenue, it was revealed yesterday, when Deputy United States Marshal Joseph Spizzirri went out and removed the lock. A permanent injunction granted by Federal Judge Wilkerson on March 21 called for padlocking the entire premises. It was discovered that the lock was intended only for a saloon at the rear of the place which was raided several months ago by federal dry agents. Joe Cusick was said to have been the operator.

GUN TOTER, 19, SENTENCED TO YEAR IN CELL

Jacob Woods, 19 years old, 2739 Hampden court, was sentenced to a year in the Bridewell yesterday by Judge Alfred O. Erickson in the Town Hall court on a charge of carrying a revolver. Woods was arrested on March 19 in the North Shore ballroom by Detective Emil Boetcher, who searched him after being informed that Woods was carrying a gun.

"I took it from my pal, who was drunk," Woods told the judge. "I was afraid he would hurt somebody."

Boetcher, however, said that when he was arrested Woods declared he had found the gun on the lake shore, remarking "that's where Al Capone finds his guns."

IN THE BLINDING BLIZZARD ON WEDNESDAY (MARCH 26)—THE WORST IN THE HISTORY OF CHICAGO—THE ELEVATED LINES CARRIED 857,322—A FIGURE EXCEEDED ONLY TWICE IN THE HISTORY OF THE "L," AND THESE LATTER WERE BRIGHT, SUNSHINY DAYS.

It took several thousand extra men and all of the regular force working almost continuously for three days to keep the 19 inches of snow moving to let the trains through.

It cost us many thousands of dollars more than we took in—but that is "one of those things" in railroading.

To our regular riders—the old standbys—we again say "Thanks for your patience and your cooperation." To the fair weather automobile riders who got a "lift" and asked our regulars to "move over" and give them part of their space, we say "Glad to have been of service to you" and "Come back again any time. 1,200 CONVICTS REBEL; 20 HURT; QUIT FACTORIES

Tear Bombs Used to Rout Rioting Prisoners.

Jefferson City, Mo., March 27.—(AP)—An uprising of more than 1,200 convicts in the Missouri penitentiary today, the second within twenty-four hours, was speedily put down with the use of tear bombs and clubs to subdue about 400 of the most rebellious prisoners.

Twenty convicts were injured, none seriously, in the melée, which took place at noon in the main prison dining room after 750 convicts had refused to leave the hall. Prison guards and state militiamen dislodged about 400 of them after the others had fled outside under threat of an attack.

Earlier in the day a strike against work by more than 500 convicts had forced suspension of operations at prison factories and about 80 per cent of the penitentiary's population had been locked in cells.

Machine Guns Trained.

No shots were fired during the riot, but machine guns were trained on the prison court, scene of the disorder. The convicts had no weapons.

Warden Leslie Rudolph said tonight the situation was well in hand, but he was uncertain as to whether the backbone of the mutiny had been broken. He said no effort probably would be made to operate factories tomorrow.

In an address late today in the main prison courtyard to 600 to 800 convicts who did not take part in today's disorders, Warden Rudolph laid down a new and drastic set of penitentiary rules designed, he said, "to make this a real prison instead of a kindergarten."

Refuse to Work.

Today's clash climaxed a rebellion which started immediately after breakfast, when fifty convicts refused to go to work in the chair factory. This spread rapidly to five other factories, where convicts, with no threat of violence, simply quit work.

The riot in the main dining room was started by the same 750 who yesterday mutinied for two hours because they objected to stew that was fed them for lunch.

Later in the day Warden Rudolph received reports from convicts that the outbreak was planned overnight as a general strike with a possible attempt to burn two or more of the factories so as to get out of work.

Escape Plan Nipped.

Ionia, Mich., March 27.—(AP)—A plot in which machine guns and an airplane were to have helped six prisoners to liberty was believed to have been frustrated at the Michigan state reformatory today.

Details of the plot were contained in letters written by the six inmates and intercepted by Warden Charles Sheau. Five of the prisoners are said to have confessed.

N. Y. Dealer Buys Romney Painting for $150,000

New York, March 27.—Romney's portrait of "Mrs. Morris and Child" was bought by Carroll Carstairs for the firm of M. Knoedler & Co. of this city, of which he is a member. The price paid for the painting was said today by the firm not to have been $90,000, but $150,000.

Admiral Hughes Recovers from Stroke of Paralysis

Washington, D. C., March 27.—(AP)—Admiral Charles F. Hughes, chief of naval operation, has recovered from a mild stroke of paralysis and has officially returned to duty.

GANGSTER SLAIN AFTER REFUSAL TO MAKE PEACE

"The Clutching Hand" Shot Down.

New York, March 27.—[Special.]—"The Clutching Hand," known to police as Giuseppe Parranovich, who was thrice arrested for murder and each time "beat the rap," was dealt the sterner justice of gangdom today and died rolling in a gutter in the Italian colony of Red Hook, Brooklyn, with six bullets in his body.

The slayers used methods made notorious in Chicago gangland, methods that eastern critics have regarded hitherto as peculiar to the Chicago killers.

Three men sat in an untenanted apartment on the top floor of a three story brick house on Sackett street and waited until the "Clutching Hand" strolled by. Then they emptied their three pistols at him, and six bullets tore into him, while at least nine others splattered against the wall of the house he was passing.

Reserves Called Out.

When the police arrived the neighborhood was in such an uproar that reserves were called from two police stations. The block in which Parranovich was killed was surrounded and a house to house search was made by thirty detectives.

But the assassins had escaped, probably down the fire escape in the rear of the house.

After a preliminary investigation, the police said that Parranovich was killed while he was on his way home after a conference with leaders of a rival bootlegging gang. Parranovich, who is said to have headed Brooklyn's most powerful alcohol ring, is believed to have invaded the territory of his rivals.

Prepared for Refusal.

A conference was called to sign a "peace treaty." Parranovich, the detectives said, refused to agree to the terms, and departed. Apparently his enemies were prepared for his refusal and had their killers posted before the conference began.

"The Clutching Hand" was 45 years old, a ripe age for a gangster. He was a friend of Frankie Yale, who was shot down two years ago, and an ex-convict. His gaudy title was given him because of a deformity of his left hand, which was paralyzed so that his fingers were bent into a clutching position.

WHERE ILLINOIS LAGS AND WHY.

Illinois ranked fifth among the states in 1929 in the number of automobiles owned by its residents. Illinois was third in population and wealth according to the latest estimates of the census bureau and may be second in its manufacturing industries. In 1928, the last year for which reliable estimates are available, Illinois was fourth in the value of its agricultural production.

Illinois lags in the matter of automobile ownership because the state has not built adequate roads in and near Cook county to make automobile ownership more attractive to residents of Chicago. Money taken in license fees and latterly in gasoline taxes from Chicago motorists has been spent in building roads downstate. This has been done to curry political favor in the rural districts, but its unfortunate results even in the rural districts are now evident. If more of the road fund had been spent in the metropolitan region for widened arterial highways and grade separations, the increase in automobile ownership and gasoline consumption in the northeastern corner of the state would have been sufficient to provide all the money needed for completing the program downstate. As it is, neither downstate nor Chicago has adequate roads and, until Chicago is better served, money will be lacking to build them.

ONE WAY TO REDUCE FARM SURPLUSES.

The department of agriculture and the department of the interior are in violent disagreement over the government's reclamation policies. The department of the interior would like to go on reclaiming desert and swamp lands of the west and south for farm use; the department of agriculture wants to reduce acreage to keep crop surpluses as small as possible in the interest of existing farm lands and present day farmers. In this controversy the residents of the central states and their representatives in Washington ought not be of two minds. The welfare of this region demands that farm competition and production be held to a minimum.

In another matter the two government departments and the spokesmen of this region can be in complete accord. That is the matter of reforestation. The federal government can encourage owners of marginal lands, acres which are of doubtful value for the growing of annual crops, to grow timber. The states can coöperate by exempting such lands from taxation at least until the trees are cut. This policy has the double advantage of offering a means of reducing the crop surpluses and of replacing the forest lands which are being depleted.

Farmers and owners of farm lands in many states are discouraged from increasing their wood lots because of the tax burden. Taxes can be paid only out of production and growing trees yield no cash income until they are cut down, a matter of twenty years and generally more from the time land is given over to tree growth. If the tax burden could be lifted from woodlands the farmers should find it to their advantage to increase their acreage in timber, knowing that each year would add measurably to the value of their farms as real estate, regardless of price movements in wheat, corn, cotton and live stock.

THE HIGH HAT FROM THE PAST.

A silk hat magazine writes, considering prize fighters old and new, refers to Mr. Dempsey as a good second rater. This is going too far, far too far, and the court will hear more evidence, and better. The higher criticism of the ring is forever putting a ghost in to answer the bell against a contemporary and counting the contemporary out some time in the first round.

Pugilism is now a developed science with a mathematic accuracy. Frequently the referee knows the winner before the men have come out of their dressing rooms. The superior stamina of the fighters, as well as their superior skill, must be conceded by unprejudiced observers. None of the old-timers would have known how to deliver such entirely regular foul blows and none would have been able to withstand so many of them. Mr. Scott, the British boxer, is a holdover from the old school and his failure in the American ring indicates his inability to box under the improved rules.

John L. Sullivan is endeared to memory and his legend grows, but it is giving too much to romance to believe that he could have been hit over the head with a water bottle as he sat in his corner, tripped by the third man in the ring as he rushed and socked as he was trying to get to his feet, and have given a good account of himself. He probably never could have been anything but a good willing boy for the preliminaries.

Most of the good old times is nonsense, palpable fairy tale. Whenever the competition is one of records available for comparison the new constantly betters the old, and the bygone days cannot be permitted to tower above the present in ghost shapes which cannot be socked and brought down. This may not be the best of all possible worlds, but it is the best of all its possible times, in everything.

CONGRESS AND GREAT ISSUES.

Recent speeches of Representative James M. Beck suggest that the house of representatives may replace the senate as the great forum of constitutional debate. There have been times in the history of congress when the popular chamber has been more conspicuous, at least, and more formidable in its rôle of law giver and molder of national opinion. When Henry Clay was in the house, and after the civil war, this was perhaps for a time the situation. But usually it has been the senate where the great issues of our constitutional history have had their decisive discussion.

There has been nothing more significant in recent years than the decline of the senate in this respect. Although issues as momentous as any in our national existence and revolutionary departures from constitutional principle and tradition have been not only proposed but in some vital instances accomplished, the senate has contributed little that was noteworthy or memorable to such deliberation as has been given to them. If the shades of Washington and Jefferson, of Marshall and Madison, of Webster, Calhoun, or Clay have revisited in recent years the scene of their immortal achievement they must have bowed their shadowy heads in sorrow. The senate has had, and has today, many able and high minded members, but it has lacked sadly great expositors of constitutional principle and even vigilant guardians.

These may rise up in the house and, in fact, from Representative Beck we have an inspiring example which may very well open a new chapter of congressional history. The time, we are convinced, is ripe for such statesmanly discussion of the great issues of constitutional principle which mere politicians, time servers and partisans are not prepared to or dare not face. There is great need of public men like Representative Beck who understand the processes of constitutional change and deterioration, who have the courage to expose them and the forensic gift to awaken the public mind to momentous issues.

WISE POLICY AT NORTHWESTERN.

Northwestern university is to be congratulated more than its faculty upon the 33 per cent increase in the salaries of professors in the college of liberal arts. This action has been made possible through the beneficence of the late Milton H. Wilson, who left eight and a half million dollars to the university without strings. Gifts to colleges tend to go for buildings or special funds which will perpetuate the name, if not the memory, of the donor, but the Wilson legacy was not so restricted. Therefore the trustees of the university, President Scott and the faculty have very wisely determined to put the money into building in another and higher sense, the building of the human structure or the scholastic edifice which is the fundamental being of the university.

There was an urgent need for more adequate compensation in the college of liberal arts. In the professional schools in all universities salaries are higher than in the academic departments because they have to be. Men who are experts in law, medicine, engineering, in the applied sciences, cannot be induced to limit themselves to teaching and at the same time to a bare existence. Teachers of literature, language, history, the arts are not able to command high salaries in the world outside the school unless they have a "side line" or special gift commercially available, and their salaries have reflected this economic weakness.

But it is not good policy to underpay the scholar and teacher, any more than it is to underpay the manual worker. The highest type of scholar and teacher does not seek wealth and often ignores even livelihood. But an institution cannot afford to exploit this disinterestedness or base a continuing policy upon it. Its policy should be sound economically and, though it aims, as it does, at producing the higher values to which the scholar is devoted, it is nevertheless not absolved from the economic considerations which control if they do not always consciously influence the scholar.

This is what is meant when we say that Northwestern university, the institution, more than its faculty, is to be congratulated upon the raising of the salary level of teachers in the college of liberal arts. Northwestern's plan of development has been very interesting in recent years, and this latest advance is important. It will enable the university to advance standards of scholarship, retain specially gifted teachers and scholars and add to their number.

If we are to have a humane civilization we must have more regard for the humanities than we have been showing in recent years.

Editorial of the Day

WISCONSIN AND TEXAS BUYERS.

[Beloit, Wis., Daily News.]

As though the ordinary hazards of business were not enough, Wisconsin producers and manufacturers are now confronted with a hostile attitude on the part of buyers in a great state because of a policy originated in the Wisconsin Real Estate Brokers' board preventing Texas companies from being licensed to sell their land in Wisconsin.

Probably $40,000,000 worth of Wisconsin products are bought annually by residents of Texas. Beloit alone sells every year approximately $3,000,000 worth of its products in the state of Texas.

To retaliate for what the Texans believe is discrimination against their state on the part of Wisconsin, the Lone Star state legislature has called upon people of the state of Texas to boycott everything produced in Wisconsin—whether by factory or farm.

If this boycott were completely effective it would have a most serious effect upon Wisconsin. If it is only partially effective it will be embarrassing, irritating and harmful.

ADDING INSULT TO INJURY.

She was the kind of woman who could be relied upon to say the wrong thing wherever she was. At a recent dinner she turned to her neighbor and said: "Doctor, can you tell me who that horrible looking man is over there?"

"I can," replied the medical man. "That is my brother."

There was an awkward pause while the woman racked her brains for something to say. The doctor was enjoying her discomfiture.

"O, I beg your pardon," she stammered, blushing. "How silly of me not to have seen the resemblance!"

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

how he loses interest in things. The old family doc took us in hand yesterday and told us to cough for him. We did our best, but seeing he didn't look overly pleased, we tried to make it louder and funnier. He just said, "Tck, tck, tck," and shook his head. Apparently our cough wasn't going over very good; we got afraid that the audience (that was the doc) would not only walk out on us but demand his money back. The doc said the cough was all right, as coughs went, but we could see that we wouldn't get much time if we tried to book it over the Orpheum vaudeville circuit.

"What do you think the delegates to the naval parley over in London are going to do?" asked the doc (the sly old devil was trying to divert our attention so as to catch the cough perfectly natural). "T'ell with the naval parley," said we. "You've been having a great time," went on the doc, patiently, "talking about Mr. Legge and his plan of asking the farmers not to plant much wheat this spring. Do you think Mr. Legge will succeed in raising the price of wheat very much?"

"Legge?" asked we, listlessly. "Never heard of 'im." "But the new tariff," said the doc, with the air of one who had tracked us to our lair. "It's going to add a lot to the price of living, didn't you say?" "T'ell with the tariff," said we. "Suppose you are making your plans to go back to Europe," said the old doc, watching us keenly. "What do you think of Paris anyhow?" "Lousy," said we. "You've got to take care of yourself if you want to get well," said the doc, solemnly. "We don't want to get well," said we. "What's the use!"

The doc sat and looked at us like a butcher looking at a fat steer at the stockyards. Then he started again. "Do you think we'll ever get whisky, wine, and beer back in this country?" "T'ell with whisky," said we, "t'ell with wine, and ditto for beer."

"Gosh!" said the doc, "you really are sick!"

IRISH SQUIRE TO HIS DAUGHTER.

Ay, steady, me colleen, hold a high rein,
Sit tight in the saddle and jump.
Just be havin' a care when ye bump.

What likely lad's that, turnin' 'way from your door?
'Tis shame on ye—not worth your salt!
I'm thinkin' 'twas maybe her fault.

'Tis shrivlin' and sourin' ye'll be.
But, saints, me young gossoon, whatever ye do,

JUDY SHEA.

AT HARVARD, out of 3,356 students voting on the prohibition thing, 2,646 said they drank alcoholic beverages, against 914 who declared they didn't. Now, then, Bone Drys—all together—sing! "Don't send my boy to Harvard, the dying mother said——"

AND SIXTEEN COLLEGES throughout the east and middle western states vote overwhelmingly for modification or repeal of the existing likker laws. Dear, dear! This is very sad and most distressing to the Drys. They will probably revise the old question, "Does a College Education Educate?" and start off with saying it does NOT!

Or 'Tis Indeed an Ill Wind, Etc., Etc.

Ah! Dick—you are right! "There is nothing to talk about but the goshdinged storm." But consider the sad plight of Jean. Having spent all but one thin dime shopping, at noon (why not? A dime had always gotten Jean home), she emerged from the office gay. The boss had let her go home early. But what to do? No buses! The "L," of course. No "L"! Jean visited her brother's office to effect a loan. Not only was the brother gone but the office was closed. Of course, she would get a taxi and go home C. O. D. No! You are wrong; she did get a taxi, and rode grandly up the boulevard.

At the Tribune Tower the car stopped for the traffic light and a man knocked on the window. "I am going north, will you let me ride with you?" Now Jean knew what was proper under the circumstances, but consider the exigencies of the storm. He got in.

At the Drake two men knocked on the window. Again the query. The two men got in. When these last two men emerged at the Belden-Stratford they handed Jean two dollars to pay their share of the cab bill, and most profuse thanks for the lift.

Farther north the first man de-cabbed and gave Jean $2 as his share of what was owed the taxi driver. At Wilson avenue a girl tapped on the window. Not waiting for the familiar query, Jean said: "Get right in, I'll take you anywhere." At the Edgewater Beach said girl handed Jean 50 cents. "For the ride," says she.

One block farther Jean had arrived home—the taxi ticker said $2.65. Not so bad? What!

ELLIN.

THE ITALIAN Crown Prince has broken out on the front page by breaking out with the measles. Measles being the only thing the royal family in Italy can get without the permission of Mussolini.

"YOU NEVER can tell," said Lita Grey Chaplin, the divorced wife of the w. k. Charley, when asked in Paris if a reconciliation was in prospect. "The kiddies may bring us together." Well, it's Charley's business; but if we had a divorced wife and she called 'em "kiddies," we'd leap from some tall cliffs before we could ever forgive and forget. "Kiddies!" Oh, Lita, Lita, how could you?

Add Most Embarrassing Moment Dept.

Dick: I'm Irish! Why, my family is well spoken of all over Killarney, and they tell me that my great-grandfather was the terror of Kilkenny. He was The O'Meara, not the O'Meara, but The O'Meara, which is the same as the title of King in England. And me great-grandfather, The O'Meara, was the reason, so he was, why the Caseys and the O'Malleys emigrated to America. And, indeed, 'tis so! Well, now, I get out of the cab the other day down in th' loop an' I says to the cabby, "How much?" "A dollar five," sezze. Well, having exactly a dollar five in me pocket an' no more an' no less, I give him a dollar five. I start to go away, and in a hurry, I may say, when I hear the chauffeur yell after me, "Hey, feller, come back; you forgot your bagpipes!" DONO MEARA.

WE SAW A MAN yesterday standing on his back porch swinging a golf club with might and main practicing driving. And we pulled off a shoe in the snow on his front sidewalk where the drifts were six feet deep. R. H. L.

MEASURING CHILD'S MENTALITY.

DR. GESELL holds that the mental capacity of a child grows according to a pretty definite schedule. By measuring performance by this schedule we can judge whether the child is running late or not. If he is found to be running late the reason should be sought for without much putting off until tomorrow. Noting that the child is behind time lies within the range of tasks of the parent. Finding the cause is the job of some one of greater experience and more training. In some instances the cause is removable.

A baby one month of age shows some power of discrimination in feeling different parts of its mother's face. At the end of the second month he follows with his eyes the movement of objects. At the third month he makes crude movements to grasp a rattle. At four months he grasps toys. At five months he can pick up toys with some trace of skill. At six months he reaches for things that he sees. At seven months he can pick up a tiny pellet. At eight months he will look about for his spoon. At nine he associates a spoon with a cup in connection with eating. At ten he picks up a pellet with precision. At eleven he can pass a rod into or through a hole. At twelve he can articulate one or two words.

In addition, there are acts such as sucking, breathing, crying—the capacity for which is acquired by the normal child before birth. There are also the better known capacities, such as holding the head up, sitting, and such.

The growth rate of mentality is greatest in the first month of life. It declines thereafter at a rather definite rate. Gesell, assuming the rate of increase of mentality at two months of age as 100, gives the rate of increase by months thereafter as follows: Third month, 50; fourth, 33 1-3; fifth, 25; sixth, 20; seventh, 16 2-3; eighth, 14 2-7; ninth, 12½; tenth, 11 1-9; twelfth, 9 1-11.

The slowing up of the rate of mental growth continues. He says, taking the rate of mental growth at two years as 100, that during the third year should be 50. If we substitute the word year for the word month in the table just given we get his idea of the progressive decline in the rate of mental growth during childhood and up to twelve years of age.

HOW TO KEEP FEET WARM.

J. P. T. writes: You implied recently that there wasn't any handy cure for cold feet in the office. Now, I wonder!

Electricity is fairly cheap. How about putting a big fan or two in strategic places on the floor and shooting a heavy stream of cold foot air right up into the ceiling of hot air? Wouldn't it spread and crowd downward the hot air there? It occurred to me theoretically that this might be more effective than putting the fan overhead and blowing the hot air down as the foot cushion of cold air might dam that off the floor. Then, too, if the apartment below admits, how about a couple of gratings in the floor to let the warm air up through and the cold air down through?

Condemn a few architects to do their office work in just such a room and wear slippers, and it's dollars to doughnuts they would find a cure. As it is 'tis not their feet that get cold.

DOES NOT PROVE ANYTHING.

J. L. H. writes:

1. Is there any danger in putting the arms above the head while sleeping at night?

2. I was told a person died sleeping that way.

REPLY.

1. No.

2. If so, that does not prove anything. Most people die with the arms by the side. Nobody claims that the arms in that position cause death or precipitate it.

NOBODY KNOWS CAUSE.

J. E. C. writes:

1. What is ichthyosis?
2. What causes it?
3. Is there a cure?

REPLY.

1. The common name is fish skin. Another name is alligator skin.
2. Nobody knows. It is generally congenital.
3. Some cases get well spontaneously. If the condition persists into adult life cure is highly improbable.

HOW TO END BELCHING.

M. T. G. writes: As to belching, you hit the trouble in its various phases exactly and understandable to the layman. Efforts to raise are futile. Sending the offending gas down is the thing to do, as you say, and this is how I accomplish it. A liberal swallow of mineral oil immediately on arising, upon an empty stomach, ends belching that day for me, and might for others.

NOTICE ON RENT BILL.

Chicago, March 24.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—The following stamped notation appeared in the corner of my monthly rent bill for a furnished kitchenette apartment: "Thirty days' notice must be given management before leaving apartment." 1. Can I be held for the 30 days' rent? There is no lease involved. The first bill which I received and have retained has no such qualification, and (2) it was in no way a part of the original contract. K. F. H.

In the absence of any other valid agreement it should probably be held that the placing of this notice on the receipt amounted to an offer by the landlord such that if you remained in possession you would be regarded as accepting the offer. 2. If we are to construe an "original contract" we must have the document before us.

The foregoing answers are on the assumption that there was no writing.
TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

OIL BURNER IMPROPERLY REGULATED.

Chicago, March 8.—[Friend of the People.]—Starting shortly after midnight and continuing until 3 a. m. a steady cloud of heavy smoke is discharged from the chimney of a garage in the 3100 block of Broadway, and we unfortunates who occupy sleeping rooms to the west must either close our windows or become gassed. F. L.

Our engineer found that the smoke and gases were caused from improper regulation of an oil burner, occurring principally during the night hours.

The owners were notified to take the necessary steps to abate the nuisance, and several recent investigations indicate that the trouble has been corrected. The complainant has also advised the department that the nuisance has not occurred recently.

SMOKE NUISANCE.

Chicago, March 7.—[Friend of the People.]—Will you refer the nuisance caused by a smoking chimney in the 543 Aldine avenue building to the proper authorities? W. C.

Notice was served on the agent to instruct janitor to be more careful in firing of boiler, and instructions were also given the janitor in proper methods to be employed in firing.

Subsequent inspections have been made on these premises and our inspector reports that the nuisance is abated.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 28, 1865.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Gen. Grant reported to Secretary of War Stanton that in the battle of March 25 on the Army of the Potomac front the loss of the 2d corps was 51 killed, 462 wounded, and 302 missing, and of the 9th corps 68 killed, 338 wounded, and 506 missing. After the engagement of the 9th corps orders were given the 6th corps to attack on the left of the line in front of Fort Fisher. Gen. Seymour, commanding the 3d division, was selected to make the assault, and in a short time his force had possession of the entire line of rifle pits of the rebels. He took 600 prisoners, while his loss was trifling. In another fight at Hatcher's Run the 2d corps took over 400 prisoners, making the total prisoners taken during the day 2,875, including nearly 100 commissioned officers. President Lincoln witnessed the attacks by the 2nd and 6th corps. It is reported Gen. Gordon, in command of the rebels in the early engagement, was seen urging his men to fight, and at times swearing at them for cowardice, ending with the exclamation: "By God! Just as I thought! The men won't fight!" After which he was not seen.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Gen. Grant is in receipt of a report from Gen. Sherman detailing his operations from the time he left Fayetteville up to March 22. It shows hard fighting, resulting in heavy losses to the enemy in killed and wounded and more than 2,000 prisoners in our hands. His own loss since he left Savannah, Sherman says, will not exceed 2,500, many of them but slightly wounded.

CHICAGO.—The Young Men's Christian association elected these officers: President, H. W. Fuller; vice presidents, the Rev. J. H. Vincent and J. F. Gillette; secretaries, S. Johnson and O. C. Gibbs; treasurer, L. J. Gage, and, managers, S. M. Hunt, H. W. Adams, F. M. Rockwell, Walter L. Hunt, C. J. Bishop, W. H. Rand, and D. L. Moody.

CHICAGO.—Victor F. Lawson purchased from Archbishop Feehan the northwest corner of Burton place and Lake Shore drive for $125,000.

CHICAGO.—Jacob A. Riis, the Moses of the anti-slum movement in New York, after a tour of Chicago's slums, declared that Chicago's best tenement district is far worse than New York ever knew. He said he found countless evidences that the authorities intrusted with the enforcement of the city's sanitary regulations were grossly negligent. He declared the sidewalk garbage boxes he saw must go.

SUFFIELD, Conn.—Sidney A. Kent of Chicago is dangerously ill at his summer home here, where he has been for several months with his family. His condition has grown critical and New York specialists were called today. Mr. Kent formerly was one of the foremost grain speculators in Chicago, and it was through his efforts that the various gas companies of that city were organized into the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company.

CHICAGO. — Father Dennis A. Tigue, pastor of Holy Angels' Roman Catholic church, died of pneumonia, following an operation two weeks ago. He was 49 years old. He was ordained in 1874 and at the age of 26 was given pastoral charge of the entire territory embraced in the villages of Hyde Park and South Chicago, in all of which there was not at that time a single Catholic church.

LONDON.—Jagersfontein and Fauresmith were occupied by Gen. Clement's forces, and were welcomed with open arms. No mention is made of fighting, so it is supposed Clement met no opposition from the Boers. Reports indicate that the southern part of the Orange Free State is overrun by the Boers.

CHICAGO. — Several of Chicago's largest coal dealers were indicted by the federal grand jury in Indianapolis on March 11 on charges of conspiracy among 125 operators and union miners in the central bituminous district to limit production and maintain excessive prices of coal. Among the indicted Chicagoans are Francis S. Peabody, Dr. F. C. Hannold, George B. Harrington, Charles M. Moderwell, John T. Connery, Walter S. Bogle, E. C. Searles, Harry C. Adams, R. W. Couffer, and Warren J. Smith.

CHICAGO. — An agreement was reached between the Carpenters' District council and the Carpenter Contractors' association whereby the carpenters are to be given a minimum wage of $1.25 an hour, effective May 1, 1920.

BERLIN.—Formation of a new cabinet for Germany with Herman Mueller as premier and foreign secretary was announced. The minister of labor is Herr Schlicht, a Socialist, as is Herr Mueller.

WARSAW.—Poland has sent a wireless message to the Russian bolshevist government proposing April 10 as the date for meeting soviet delegates with a view to negotiating for peace.

THE UNEMPLOYMENT PROBLEM.

Chicago, March 26.—Captains of industry have conferred and threatened to spend millions in building, etc., simply because the employment cycle has reached its lowest level, but really is this what the average individual is looking for? It is a fact that the present situation is going to be helped and we all have a great respect for these men, but conferences [at regular intervals, to keep current] to reduce fluctuations and maintain steady employment constantly would certainly be better and would represent an investment in future as well as present conditions. They have so far only taken into consideration the present.

It is well known that idle men are buying few products, are deteriorating in skill and morale, are accumulating a fund of industrial ill will and they are certainly not raising the level of industrial standards, yet this condition is allowed to exist. Unemployment is an indictment of incompetency against management.

After a survey of a quarter of a million corporations statisticians showed that the majority were making no profit, 70 per cent were making less than a salary of a good executive, and that only 5 per cent knew what their goods cost them to make, evidence of the fact that they were not attacking their problems scientifically. This being the case it is hardly possible for them to correct this evil, but if the minority of scientific managers established a system founded on the same sound principles as the federal reserve they would be pioneers in solving this plague.

Why not scientifically correct this situation now as well as in the future? Is it not possible to make this common depression to our sons and daughters the same as Greek wars to us—history? It is; but only with the proper coördination of scientific management of industry and scientific control of unemployment. J. BRADY.

HE BLAMES THE UNIONS.

Chicago, March 25.—In an editorial this morning you say: "Depression, it seems to be pretty generally conceded, commonly results from an accumulation of goods in excess of the purchasing power of the public."

Why have not the public the necessary purchasing power? Because of unemployment. Is there unemployment on account of scarcity of work needing to be done? Not by any means; not in Chicago, anyway. I have never seen so much work in this town that needs doing. The city is really shabby. Stores, miles of them, need painting outside and decorating inside, also flats, halls, movie houses, and other public and private establishments. The streets need repairs; so do many of the business and dwelling houses. They also need alterations, extensions, and repairs of every description. The call for new work, though not so urgent as of late years, is still tremendous. There is no end of work that sorely needs doing and the people have money on hand to pay for most of it—the rest is easy to borrow on reasonable terms.

Then why don't they start doing things? Because the labor costs are too high. These are largely labor jobs, and mostly must be done by union labor.

I have often wondered by what divine right union men demanded twice as much money as nonunion for the same class of work. I know I hate to pay a man $15 a day when I, in business, with large investment of money, time, and experience, cannot earn half that amount. Others feel the same way, consequently some 40 to 50 per cent of union labor has been idle this winter. The union officials and the few workmen who attend meetings at union halls seem to act on the assumption that there is only just so much work to be done, and that they must do as little of it as possible for the largest obtainable amount of money. That is an old and long exploded theory and the sooner the aristocratic gentlemen who manipulate labor union policies realize that fact and act reasonably the better for them and the public generally.

AN UNINVITED TEAM.

Chicago, March 26.—The news that Wendell Phillips has not been invited to the national interscholastic basketball tournament of the University of Chicago is a great surprise to me. If any public high school in the city deserves an invitation it is Phillips. Any other public high school accepting in its place is rather presumptious.

The only reason I can perceive for the omission is the color of the players. It rather shocks me to see that the University of Chicago has stooped to draw the color line.

The only thing the university authorities can do now is to invite Phillips. Some of the southern teams may find it rather galling to be forced to play a colored team, but that is their own tough luck. M. BERNARD SAMUS.

THE NEED FOR A SUBWAY PROVED.

Chicago, March 26.—With millions of dollars lost each day in Chicago due to paralysis of our antiquated transportation system as we are now experiencing a more potent argument could not be brought before the tax paying public for their rights in their demand for a subway to lift Chicago out of this antediluvian existence. A subway would solve the problem nicely. Would New York or Philadelphia find workers stranded and unable to go to and from their business? About all of the offices and stores are half manned due to the tieup causing needless loss. I suggest that when the snow is being shoveled that the shoveler not stop until he has dug a hole in the ground long enough and wide enough to run trains in.

THE COLLEGE REFERENDUM.

Chicago, March 26.—The majority of college youths have expressed themselves as opposed to prohibition. So much appears to be beyond question. But why say, as you do in your editorial today: "Their opinions today explode the noblest theory of the noble experiment. It hasn't their sanction. They have watched it work and they do not want it."

The fact is, boys and girls of college age know nothing from personal experience about conditions before prohibition. Very few have read the history of the prohibition movement. They see drinking going on about them, and they jump to the ridiculous conclusion that prohibition is to blame for conditions as they are today. Can they honestly say that they would drink less if the law were modified? I doubt it. Any one who remembers when Princeton campus was surrounded by a ring of saloons knows better than that.

The economic benefits of prohibition have been proved. Most poor people have had to give up their liquor, as the records of the Salvation Army and factory conditions prove. The moral issue is still clouded by the selfishness of a small group who represent "society" and who are not willing to make a personal sacrifice. Men who would willingly die for their country will not give up drink for it. They have not awakened to the vision of what this country could accomplish if prohibition were an actual fact, or they could not block the wheels of progress as they do. Education and patriotism will do what stricter enforcement can never do, reach the hearts and fire the imagination of the college boys and girls, who in the next ten years have it in their power to make prohibition not only a noble experiment but a glorious achievement which will make our country a shining example to the rest of the world.

YOUTH ON PROHIBITION.

Franklin Grove, Ill., March 24.—Your editorial, "Youth on Prohibition," simply means that many of our youth are trailing along in the wake of biased wet propaganda of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and other wet newspapers. The majority of these young men growing up today, of voting age and past, were only little chaps in the days of the open saloon and never saw the drunkenness, debauchery, and suffering caused by the spending of countless thousands of pay checks in those licensed dens. Any modification of the prohibition law would bring us again the open saloon.

FAHERTY AGAIN TO ASK SUBWAY PLANNING FUND

Meets Property Owners on Assessment Plan.

The initial proceeding in the preparation of plans and specifications for a subway in State street was started yesterday by Michael J. Faherty, president of the board of local improvements. He began drafting a letter to the council finance committee requesting the appropriation of $647,000 with which to finance the drawing of subway designs.

Faherty's decision to go to the council for the money, which was denied him two years ago by former City Comptroller Fitzmorris, was made after an informal public hearing with State street property owners in the council chambers yesterday. By a vote in which less than ten voices were heard, from the crowd of 150, Faherty was urged to demand the appropriation.

Ettelson Outlines Program.

Later in the day Faherty received a communication from Corporation Counsel Ettelson in which were outlined other preliminary steps which the board must take before a subway ordinance can be presented in legal form to the council for passage. These steps, Ettelson said, are as follows:

"1. The passage of a first resolution describing in detail the proposed improvement and setting a day for a public hearing on the same.

"2. The preparation of an engineer's estimate giving the cost of the elements of the proposed improvement.

"3. The public hearing, at which a second resolution must be passed adhering to or altering the scheme of the proposed improvement.

"4. The preparation and adoption of an ordinance describing the proposed improvement and the recommending of this ordinance to the city council for passage.

"If it is the intention of the city," Ettelson's letter said, "to build a subway, or certain sections of it, which are to be paid in part or whole by special assessment, unless the steps above described are taken the ordinance passed will be invalid."

Puts Cost at $50,000,000.

During yesterday's hearing Faherty announced that the cost of a four track subway in State street between 22d street and Chicago avenue would be approximately $50,000,000. He said that a recommendation would be made to the court that an assessment of 55 or 60 per cent of the cost be made against the property owners, the remainder being paid by the city as a public benefit.

The highest assessment against property owners for building the subway on that basis, according to Harry Goldstine, one of the board's experts, would be $312 a year for forty years on a lot 25 feet by 100 feet.

From Kinzie street to Harrison street, which includes the loop property, the estimates of Goldstine on the yearly assessment for lots 25 feet by 100 feet ran as follows:

Property—	Amount.
Michigan avenue	$ 94
Wabash avenue	156
State street	312
Dearborn street	156
Clark street	78
La Salle street	48
Wells street	39
Franklin street	19
Market street	13

Among those who indicated a favorable attitude toward the special assessment plan was G. R. Schaeffer, representing James Simpson of Marshall Field & Co., one of the largest property owners on State street. Mr. Schaeffer announced that the company would not oppose any special assessment that was fair.

Edgar R. Hart, representing the Chicago and North Western railroad, raised an objection. He said the subway should be financed by a bond issue instead of by special assessment. He contended that a subway is a general and not a local improvement.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, March 27.—Pope Pius will soon be in independent communication with the outside world by means of the radio given him last summer by American Catholics. The new wireless station was donated by American Catholics last summer.

EINSTEIN LINKS UP GRAVITATION AND ELECTRICITY

Presents 2 Solutions of Uniform Field Theory.

BERLIN, March 27.—(AP)—Prof. Albert Einstein has presented to the Prussian academy of sciences a new paper he has written with Dr. W. Mayer on two strictly static solutions of the field equations of his uniform field theory. It connects gravitation and electricity.

These solutions were described as follows: These field equations can be rigorously solved in two cases. The first case is that of a spherically symmetrical field in space, for example, the external field of an electrically charged sphere of fixed mass. The other case is that of the static field of any number of uncharged mass particles at rest with respect to one another.

Scientists Hail His Work.

New York, March 27.—[Special.]—Prof. Einstein's new contribution to his uniform field theory was hailed by scientists here today as another important advance in the field of physics. While none of the scientists would venture to comment extensively pending the receipt of the text of the new paper filed by Prof. Einstein and Dr. Mayer with the Prussian academy of sciences, they indicated their belief that another significant milestone has apparently been attained in the effort to unravel the real nature of the universe.

"The solution which Einstein has just made of his own field equations marks an important culmination of his fifth paper presented a year ago," said Prof. H. H. Sheldon, physicist of New York university. "He has apparently solved his equations for two important cases—first, for a charged sphere, and second, for a number of isolated charged points in space. Both these cases are representative of things in actual existence. The first should give us a representation of electro-gravitational relation on the earth; the second should give us the same thing, as the relations concern the universe.

"If the solutions he has given are found not properly to represent facts, as we may observe them, there must be either an error in his fundamental assumptions or there must be phenomena effective whose presence we have not hitherto suspected. Presumably it has been found that his solution fits the facts so far observed. If so, it constitutes a strong proof of his original hypothesis. But the greater test of the strength of his theory will be in the future observation of facts which it shall undoubtedly suggest to fertile scientific minds."

Prof. Breit Comments.

Prof. G. Breit of New York university, another well known physicist, said:

"Until now there has not been a theory which would enable one to get a completely rigorous solution for the cases mentioned in the Berlin dispatch. It is very satisfactory to have a theory giving an exact solution. The significance of Prof. Einstein's latest work lies in the fact that heretofore it has not been possible to have a calculation for the field due to the combined effect of the gravitational mass and an electrical charge. The two natures of the electro-magnetic field around an electron is even now not completely understood on account of the modifications due to the Quantum theory. It may be hoped that an ultimate solution can be reached by combining this advance with other researches."

MOTHER HANGS SELF AFTER SLAYING HER THREE LITTLE BOYS

Harriman, Tenn., March 27.—(AP)—A troubled 28 year old mother killed her three young sons and hanged herself in her log cabin home some time last night at D'Armond, a hamlet near here, John Hendrix, Harriman chief of police, said today.

The mother, Mrs. Dorothy Welsh, left a note addressed to an aunt, Lizzie Hammond, saying she was "in trouble" and asking her aunt to forgive her for her act.

Mrs. Welsh's husband, Sherman Welsh, left this section recently to find work in railroad yards in Cincinnati. Hendrix said his investigation indicated that Mr. and Mrs. Welsh were on good terms and that the husband recently had sent money for the support of his wife and their three children, Freddie, 8; Edgar, 7, and Sherman, 5.

Relatives today found the body of Mrs. Welsh hanging from a rafter in the kitchen of her little house and recovered the bodies of the three children in a pond near the home. The body of each child was wrapped in blankets, tied at each end.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 27.—Capt. William Rind, skipper of the United States liner President Harding, died suddenly of apoplexy early this morning while standing on the bridge navigating the vessel toward Eddystone lighthouse. Capt. Rind was 55 years old and had been apparently in the best of health. His body will be embalmed at Cherbourg and then returned to New York, probably aboard the President Harding. The captain was in the American navy during the war and took command of the President Harding in February, 1927.

INDICT KOESTER FOR CON GAME IN ESTATE CASE

Charge Ex-Convict Collected $100,000.

Edward C. Koester, ex-convict, who tried to probate a will claiming the estate of Edwin B. Jennings, eccentric multimillionaire recluse, who died Oct. 31, 1923, was named in an indictment returned by the grand jury yesterday charging that he has operated a confidence game on various persons, whom he induced to invest in his hoped for share of the fortune.

Assistant State's Attorney Henry Ayers charges that Koester misrepresented to his victims that the estate was about to be closed in his favor, whereas the fact was that the courts had already decided against him.

Summon His Supervisor.

As a result of the failure of the prosecutor's detectives to find Koester a forthwith subpoena was issued yesterday calling for the appearance of Dr. F. Emery Lyon of the Central Howard association, 608 South Dearborn street, before the grand jury. Koester is paroled to Dr. Lyon and it is charged by the state's attorney's office that he is either protecting him against the authorities or he has failed to keep proper supervision over the man paroled to him.

Dr. Lyon could not be located yesterday afternoon in time to be served with the subpoena. He was reported making a speech in the county.

Prosecutor Ayers said that at first Dr. Lyon refused to tell him Koester's whereabouts and later gave an address which turned out to be incorrect, and now claims not to know the ex-convict's whereabouts.

The particular case in which Koester is indicted is that of Mrs. Amanda Van Horne, whose address is being withheld. She invested $2,241 with Koester on the promise of a return of $10 for every $1 put up to finance his fight for the will. The prosecutor charges that he has information that Koester collected upwards of $100,000 from school teachers, nurses and others on the promise of $10 return when he received the estate for every $1 invested.

Wife Is Granted Divorce from Wilmette Physician

Mrs. Ruth H. De Vere, 1019 Oakton street, Evanston, yesterday won a divorce from her husband, Dr. Clement J. De Vere, physician and surgeon, at 1535 Forest avenue, Wilmette, before Superior Judge Sabath. She charged cruelty. She was granted a $3,000 settlement in lieu of alimony. The De Veres were married on May 3, 1924, and separated March 3.

Robbers Bind and Gag Girl; Loot Candy Shop

Two bandits yesterday bound and gagged Miss Sally Platt, 460 Belmont avenue, and left her lying in a rear room of the Ledell candy shop at 127 West North avenue, where she is a clerk, while they looted the cash drawer of $14. Miss Platt freed herself.

RECORDS PROVE ROBBERS LOSE IN GUN DUELS

Odds Are 2 to 1 Against Chicago Bandits.

Chicago's streets during the winter added to the revolver fire of forty pitched battles between the police and citizens on one side and criminals on the other. Of the forty slain in these encounters twenty-eight were bandits with only eight citizens and four policemen were killed in action.

These figures for the months of November, December, January and February were announced yesterday by Chief Bundesen. He pointed out that the survey reveals the city's police and citizenry as deadly shots who were more than a match for the thugs.

Chances Against Robber.

"The impression has gained strength that a policeman or citizen is at the mercy of an armed gangster," the coroner remarked. "These records indicate that when a hoodlum stages a holdup or burglary and shooting starts, the chances are more than two to one that the bandit will be the man slain."

Although a comparison of the statistics with those of former years was not advisable, the coroner said it was his belief that the percentage of bandits killed by police or citizens was higher than ever before and that banditry is becoming an increasingly hazardous occupation in Chicago.

In the twenty-eight battles in which the police and citizens were victorious the former accounted for seventeen of the dead bandits. In eleven instances citizens, held up at the point of a gun, drew their own weapons and killed their assailants.

OTHER OFFICERS FACE CHARGES IN INQUIRY ON KRAFT

Col. Charles J. Kraft, ousted commander of the 202d Coast Artillery, Illinois National Guard, was not accused alone in connection with the alleged misappropriation of state and federal property and funds at the armory armory, federal investigators revealed yesterday. They said the names of several officers will be presented to the federal grand jury next week, along with that of Col. Kraft.

According to the investigators, who have been at work on the armory books for six months, one high officer of the Illinois National Guard is involved in the charges.

The fund shortages are alleged to have exceeded $100,000 over a period of seven years. Some of the amounts were small, and the exact defalcations, the investigators say, may never be known.

Lieut. Col. Edward McTammeny, executive officer of the coast guard artillery, succeeded Col. Kraft. The federal order designated Brig. Gen. Abel Davis, Brig. Gen. John J. Garrity, and Brig. Gen. Frank Schwengel as a board of inquiry, and they will meet next week to determine whether state charges will be instituted against Col. Kraft.

Every advance in science makes new demands of Antiseptics—

3 Absolutely safe to use; non-poisonous, non-caustic.

4 Passes all tests of the Bureau of Chemistry of the United States Government, and is approved by three nationally known laboratories, and The Lancet of London, outstanding medical journal.

PENETRATION TEST OF LISTERINE ANTISEPTIC Staphylococcus Aureus Nutrient Agar + 10% Blood Serum (From an actual photograph. Note the larger area free of germs, proving Listerine's effectiveness.)

Laboratory tests show that full-strength Listerine kills not only the pus and typhoid germs in 15 seconds, but also such dangerous invaders as the Streptococcus, pneumonia, catarrh, influenza and acidophilus odontolycus germs type I and type II.

In the prevention and treatment of disease, medical science has made mighty strides forward in the last decade.

As a result, greater efficiency is demanded of antiseptics and germicides. Those which cannot meet these new requirements are rejected. Those which can meet them find wholesale acceptance. Listerine has successfully passed every scientific test to which it has been put. More than adequately, it has met every modern requirement.

These triumphs, preceded by fifty years of use in the hands of physician and layman alike, establish it as the antiseptic best suited to personal use—safe and healing in effect, yet with power to kill germs in the fastest time possible to measure accurately.

Listerine passes germicidal test in three great laboratories

The standard method used by the Bureau of Chemistry of the U. S. Government to test germ killing power and the penetration of an antiseptic in the presence of body fluids, is the Reddish Germicidal Method. Using this exact technique, three bacteriological laboratories of national repute in New York, Philadelphia, and Boston, have tested Listerine repeatedly.

Their records show that full strength Listerine Kills Staphylococcus Aureus (the pus germ) and Bacillus Typhosus (the typhoid germ) in counts ranging to 200,000,000 in 15 seconds.

Kills twenty times as fast as U. S. Government requires

To qualify as an antiseptic or germicide, under Government standards, a preparation must kill Staphylococcus Aureus (the pus germ) within five minutes.

Note that full strength Listerine kills this germ in 15 seconds—twenty times as fast as required.

Special Note: In the measurement of killing power, 15 seconds is the quickest time science has been able to record accurately. Any claims by others of speedier killing are open to serious question.

Listerine's penetrating power enables it to reach germs readily

To destroy germs a germicide must first be able to reach them when they lie below the surface of tissue. Obviously penetrating power is vital to the value of any solution. Listerine has this power to an amazing degree. Using the accurate Petri dish method, the three laboratories mentioned above show Listerine to actually have penetrating power equal to a 3% solution of carbolic acid.

Acclaimed by "Lancet," high medical authority

No higher endorsement can be given an antiseptic and germicide than that of The Lancet of London. This great medical journal never bestows approval on a practice or a product until it has been thoroughly tested. After conducting its own research, The Lancet unreservedly endorses Listerine as a safe antiseptic of high germicidal potency.

Listerine—non-poisonous, non-toxic, absolutely safe

Listerine may be safely used full strength in any body cavity. It is non-poisonous, non-irritating, and actually has a soothing and healing effect on tissue.

Contrast these qualities with those of harsh, metallic, or poisonous solutions which damage tissue. This factor of safety cannot be overestimated, especially if any antiseptic is to be kept in a home where there are children.

Listerine has been found to be an excellent treatment for a great many ailments. Many of these ailments are alike in that they are caused by germs. And Listerine's success in checking them is due primarily to its germicidal power.

As a mouth wash and gargle it is highly successful in preventing colds and sore throat which are of germ origin and in checking them once they have taken hold.

Many dermatologists agree that dandruff also is a germ infection. If this be true, you can understand why Listerine is accepted as a superior treatment for dandruff. In addition to its germicidal action, Listerine has remarkable cleansing powers. Moreover, it dissolves and removes the loose particles of dandruff.

Halitosis (unpleasant breath) yields to Listerine first because Listerine is a powerful deodorant. When halitosis is caused by infections of the nose, mouth, gums, or throat, Listerine gets at the seat of the trouble by attacking the infection itself.

It is always wise to use Listerine full strength; in this way you are certain of its effect. Lambert Pharmacal Company, St. Louis, Mo., U. S. A.

CHINESE BANDITS SLAY 3 FINNISH MISSION WOMEN

SHANGHAI, March 27.—(AP)—Fears for the safety of 16 American Catholic missionaries, ten priests and six nuns, at Kanchow, Kiangsi province, continued tonight in missionary circles here, notwithstanding reports from Canton and Nanking that the bandit and communist armies besieging the city had been dispersed by Nationalist government troops.

Mission headquarters here also were anxious regarding three Finnish women missionaries captured by Chinese bandits Feb. 3 in northern Kiangsi and reported killed.

Bandits Control Telegraph.

Supporting the belief that the communist forces still surrounded Kanchow, missionaries here said their Kanchow colleagues informed them a month ago that they would report the dispersal of the Reds whenever it took place. Telegraph wires have been controlled by the besiegers, cutting off communication with Kanchow.

The three Finnish women missionaries, it was explained, were captured more than seven weeks ago, and, although the Finnish government had pressed the Chinese government for information concerning them, none has been supplied. From central Kiangsi came a missionary report that the women were murdered a few days after bandits seized them aboard a native boat in the Kan river between Kianfu and Changshu.

Find Clothes of Women.

Natives told missionary investigators who found women's clothing on the bank of the stream that the women had "been in the river three days."

Communist or bandit disorders which have scourged Kiangsi, Fukien, and a part of Kwangtung provinces for many months were reported today to be continuing in Kiangsi.

INSULL AND DUCE TO CONFER UPON WORLD OF OPERA

Chicago Conductor to Be Present.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, March 27.—Matters of international operatic interest will be discussed tomorrow between Premier Mussolini, Giorgio Polacco, conductor of the Chicago Civic opera, and Samuel Insull, Chicago traction magnate. The interview between Il Duce and the two Chicagoans was arranged today by Ambassador John Garrett.

Mr. Polacco and Mr. Insull landed at Naples yesterday for a brief European trip, and came on to Rome today. After their call on Premier Mussolini tomorrow in the Palazzo Venezia, they will go to the Vatican and have an audience with Pope Pius.

Attend Rome Opera House.

Tonight the two Chicagoans attended a performance of Mascagni's "Isabeau" at the Rome Royal Opera house. They will go to Milan Saturday, where they expected to hear several performances at the famous Scala opera.

Il Duce has been conceding a considerable amount of his dictatorial time these last few days to interviews with prominent American visitors. He gave an audience yesterday to Poultney Bigelow, the noted American historian, and within a few days he will see Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university, who is in Italy for an extended visit. Dr. Butler had an audience with Pope Pius this morning.

Finance Leader to See Duce.

President Edward H. Simmons of the New York Stock Exchange, will also have an interview with Premier Mussolini within a short time. During his stay here Mr. Simmons expects to discuss international finance with prominent Italian bankers.

Schireson Asks for New Hearing on Suspension

Henry J. Schireson, former self-styled plastic surgeon, whose license was revoked by the state department of registration and education after a prolonged hearing on charges of malpractice, yesterday filed the praecipe of a petition for a writ of certiorari for a rehearing in the Superior court. Another petition, asking that Schireson be permitted to practice pending the hearing of the writ by Superior Judge Michael McKinley, is to be filed shortly, attorneys promised.

RUSSELL ORDERS POLICE ACTION TO CURB AUTO TOLL

Increase in Accidents Is Reported to Captains.

An increase in the number of automobile accidents in Chicago during February last night brought an order from Police Commissioner Russell instructing all captains to exert especial efforts in their districts toward curtailing the number of traffic accidents. Figures compiled by Maj. John Bowder, police drillmaster, showed that there were 905 motor accidents during February in which 924 persons were injured and 35 killed.

In January there were 844 accidents, with only 697 injured and 42 killed, while February of 1929 showed a total of only 743 accidents, with 807 injuries and 46 deaths. While 450 persons were injured and 24 killed during February in intersection accidents, only 250 were injured and 8 killed at crossings where there are traffic signals.

Four deaths yesterday raised the Cook county motor toll for 1930 to 206. The victims:

Mrs. Elizabeth Walsh, 60 years old, 5547 Quincy street, fatally injured when she was struck by an ice truck driven by Nels Lundgren, 30, a driver for the Huron Ice company, at State and Jackson streets. She died on the way to St. Luke's hospital.

Esther Edwardson, 5 years old, 3429 North Rutherford avenue, killed when struck by an automobile last night as she was playing in the street in front of her home.

Stella Miclino, 21 years old, 849 North Hermitage avenue. Died in St. Mary's hospital of injuries incurred on Sunday when she was struck by a hit and run automobile at Hermitage avenue and Augusta street.

Mrs. Catherine Rutschmann, 60 years old, 4157 North Richmond street. Fatally injured last night when struck by a Checker cab at Irving Park boulevard and Sacramento avenue. Andrew Jorgenson, 919 Irving Park boulevard, the driver, was held.

George Norgar of Chicago, a bond salesman, was found guilty of involuntary manslaughter yesterday by a jury at South Bend in connection with the death of Isabelle Wentzel, 16 year old high school girl, who was killed by Norgar's automobile in South Bend last October. The conviction carries a sentence of one to ten years.

"LARRY" O'BRIEN SURRENDERS TO U. S. MARSHALS

State Representative Lawrence C. O'Brien [Dem., 27th] yesterday surrendered to a bench warrant in the hands of deputy United States marshals and gave bond of $15,000 on his indictment charging nonpayment of income taxes.

As he left the federal building Mr. O'Brien said he had been unjustly accused. "The government only learned one side of the case," he said, "and the report of auditors who are going over my books will show that I don't owe the government anything.

"My indictment was inspired by politics, and I am sure my friends will bear with me and defer judgment until the truth is known."

The indictment charges O'Brien owes the government $102,368 in taxes and penalties and that he failed to file returns on an income of $344,563 during the years 1926, 1927, and 1928, said to have been derived from contracts with the city of Chicago, the Lincoln park board, and the sanitary district.

GUNMAN LOCKS UP 3 VICTIMS.

Alexander A. Rothstein, president of the Liberty Smelting company, was robbed of $9 and jewelry valued at $1,275 yesterday by a gunman who locked him and two employes in a rear room of the company's offices at 3340 West 31st street. The robber took $3 from Stanley Franks, 4110 Montgomery avenue, a clerk.

ENDORSED by Chicago Newspapers for Sanitary District Trustees

Editorials strongly endorsing the Civic Ticket for Sanitary District Trustees emphasize the trend to this group of outstanding candidates, chosen because of their known character and ability, and their record in the management and direction of large enterprises.

The Sanitary District Budget for 1930, amounting to more than $64,000,000, indicates what enormous sums are disbursed annually under the control of the Sanitary Trustees. This great responsibility makes imperative the election of honest and experienced executives.

Read the significant editorials below. See why it is vitally essential to elect men of such integrity and broad experience as those on the Civic Ticket. Cast your vote at the Republican primaries on April 8th for George B. McKibbin, Fletcher M. Durbin, Joshua D'Esposito, Ayres Boal and Charles M. Moderwell.

From Chicago Evening Post, March 12th

SANITARY DISTRICT CANDIDATES

Next November the voters will have an exceptional opportunity to strengthen the sanitary district board and to put an end to the factional fighting and bi-partisan deals which have been so discreditable a feature—and so costly—in the past.

Owing to two vacancies occasioned by death, five members are to be elected instead of the customary three, and five constitute a majority of the board. Hence there is the possibility of determining at a single election the control of the board.

There are three groups of endorsed candidates, and half a dozen or more individualists running in the Republican primary, affording voters of that party ample choice. Support of one of the three groups seems to be the sensible course, since by that means the combination in control can be determined by the voters rather than left to arrangement by the politicians after the election.

One group is composed of five men selected by a committee of citizens—the so-called Butler-Seabury committee. Its members were chosen largely because of their representative business character. Vocationally they comprise a real estate man, a manufacturer, a coal operator, an engineer and a lawyer—each man conspicuously successful in his own field and with an excellent reputation. This group entered the race with the idea that it would have no organized opposition. Its members did not expect to become a factional group. The Deneen faction promptly endorsed it, but the Snow faction failed to follow suit, and President Elmore elected on the Deneen ticket as a sanitary district trustee, decided he preferred to put a group of his own choosing in the field. . . .

The Elmore group is making its slogan "support the Elmore administration," for the honesty and efficiency of which it claims much. Its candidates assert that votes cast for any other group will amount to repudiation of the Elmore regime. But if the Elmore regime can be repudiated by nominating such men as Charles M. Moderwell, George B. McKibbin, Fletcher M. Durbin, Joshua D'Esposito and Ayres Boal—who constitute the Butler-Seabury group endorsed by Deneen—then there must be something wrong with it. We are satisfied that these men will give President Elmore loyal, intelligent and highly capable support just so long as his policies commend themselves to sound business sense and regard for public welfare. . . .

We doubt the wisdom of permitting the president of the district to hand-pick a majority of his board . . . we are disposed to think the public interest will be served more effectively if he has on his board men of independent character, whose support will be constructively critical, rather than a group which owes to him its selection. . . .

From Chicago Daily News, March 11th

CITIZENS' CHOICE OF CANDIDATES

Concerted action on the part of many Chicago citizens to bring about the nomination by the local political organizations of worthy men and women as their candidates for public office is an encouraging development at this time. The citizens very generally have been brought to realize by hard experience that political factions, if left to their own devices, commonly make the public interest secondary to selfish considerations on the part of individuals. Consequently there are in the lists of candidates seeking nominations at the primary election of April 8 a number of persons who were drafted for service by citizen bodies because of their special fitness. Their candidates represent, therefore, not greed for office, not personal ambition, but willingness to comply with a popular demand that they offer themselves to the voters as under pledge to give a businesslike administration of public business.

It is worthy of remark that some political agencies are employing an old device in efforts to defeat the citizen movements on behalf of non-political service in public office. They have brought in a flood of aspirants who seek party nominations to the board of sanitary trustees or the board of county commissioners, expecting thus to split up the independent party votes and so defeat the citizens' efforts to put in nomination candidates of special merit. In these circumstances it is important that the voters who desire only faithful and competent service should study the qualifications of the various candidates and so prepare to unite in support of the best.

Among the candidates seeking republican nominations for positions on the board of sanitary trustees the five who were chosen by a committee representing the Chicago Association of Commerce have received especially wide recognition as being exceptionally fit. They are citizens of the highest standing. They appear before the voters of their party because of their civic loyalty. Their records for faithful discharge of their duties as citizens commend them to all party voters. They are George B. McKibbin, Charles M. Moderwell, Joshua D'Esposito, Ayres Boal and Fletcher M. Durbin. The hearty response of organizations of business and professional men to the candidacies of those five affords further proof of their worth.

The work of the sanitary district trustees in the next few years will be of enormous importance to the citizens. The men here mentioned are of the mental and moral caliber to discharge great tasks ably and to inspire confidence in the federal authorities, which under existing conditions in the case of the sanitary district trustees is a matter of extreme importance to the community.

To the People of Chicago

THE Chicago Surface Lines organization appreciates the patience and sympathetic understanding shown by the public during the recent snowstorm, which disrupted street car service as never before. Men who labored from 36 to 48 hours with scarcely any sleep or rest are grateful that the people recognized the fact that every possible effort was being made to restore service.

As many as 20,000 men were employed with picks, shovels and all available mechanical equipment in digging the lines out. In money, the storm cost the Surface Lines approximately $1,000,000.

The disruption of service resulted from a combination of circumstances. The snowfall of 19 inches—the largest on record—alone would not have been disastrous. It was the coating of ice underneath, the wet quality of the snow as it fell and the interference caused by trucks and automobiles on the tracks, which made the situation serious.

When the storm struck Chicago Tuesday morning shortly after midnight, all the snow fighting equipment went into service at once. Up to 8 A. M. that morning all lines were in operation.

At that time, however, automobiles began making their appearance on the streets in large numbers and scarcely any of them were equipped with chains. They were stalled by the hundreds on car tracks all over the city.

Surface Lines emergency crews, although doubled in number, were unable to keep the tracks clear of these stalled automobiles. Trucks were hired and manned for the purpose, but even with this large force it was impossible to respond quickly to all calls.

The result was blockades on all of the lines, and by the time the blockades could be removed, drifting snow and the packing of snow and ice about the rails by automobile and truck tires made it impossible to operate cars. Snow fighting equipment was blockaded by stalled street cars.

The only recourse was man power. All the available picks and shovels in Chicago stores were purchased and men were set to work removing the snow and ice from the rails. It was discouraging work, for automobiles pulled the snow back on the track almost as fast as it was removed.

The battle was waged all through the night and all the next day and night on the 1,000 mile front. It is doubtful if a more tireless or more courageous fight to provide service ever has been made by any organization.

It is gratifying to them to know that the public understood the difficulties of the situation and sympathized with their efforts to restore car operation to normal.

The Tiger's Last Roar

Beginning in Collier's April 5th issue, on sale today.

"NEVER has there been anyone who had power to confer a reward upon me. There is a strength in looking to no one but oneself for anything."

—Georges Clemenceau

From the simple tomb in the Vendee echoes the voice of Clemenceau, Tiger of France, "Father of Victory." Clemenceau's Last Word—"During more than ten years I have preserved silence at all costs, despite the attacks that were never spared me."

The most distinguished offering of the year in American publishing.

Nearly twelve months ago, while The Tiger was absorbed in its preparation—literally writing against death—Collier's arranged with him for the presentation in America of this work which was to be his last and greatest.

These three articles will appear in the issues of April 5th—April 12th—and April 19th. They tell for the first time Clemenceau's side of the famous and bitter quarrel with Marshal Foch. They give his own vivid views of the making of the Versailles Treaty—of Wilson, Pershing, Colonel House, Lloyd George, Sir Douglas Haig, Balfour.

Financier Interested in 50 Corporations.

He had been ill since last autumn and spent the winter in Florida, attempting to regain his health. He returned to New York early this week, where little hope for his recovery was held out.

Mr. Brady, perhaps the dominant factor in the utility industry in this country, was 51 years old and actively interested in approximately fifty corporations at the time of his death. News of his passing suspended business for the day in the offices of the companies in which he had extensive interests. Flags were lowered to half staff and will remain so as a mark of respect for thirty days.

Active in Catholic Affairs.

A leading Catholic layman in the United States, Mr. Brady had received the title of papal duke from the pope and also of papal chamberlain. He was a warm friend of the late Cardinal Bonanzo, papal legate of the international Eucharistic congress held in Chicago in 1928. At that congress Mr. Brady was selected to represent the laity of this country in the legate's entourage.

Throughout his career Mr. Brady had been identified with the electrical industry, but he was well known also as a financier.

He was born at Albany, N. Y., and was graduated from Albany academy. He was a member of the class of '99 at Yale.

Became Family's "Inside Man."

A series of hearings before a tax appraiser and some litigation in Surrogate's court over the gigantic inheritance added to the early prominence of the young men. Nicholas became associated with the New York Edison company, soon was made treasurer, and subsequently became vice president.

Quiet and retiring, he always preferred to be the "inside man" in the activities of the family. His hobby was unostentatious charity. In 1926 he was reported to have given Pope Pius $1,000,000 for the church.

Since the death of his brother, Mr. Brady had entire control of his father's great estate and it was to him that Wall street looked for cues as to the next public utility merger in the series that recently have taken place.

Radio Revival of Piano Solos Wins Acclaim

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

The piano recital by Miss Florence Trumbull, from W-G-N, 8 to 8:30 last night, was something of a novelty in radio programs for these days. Piano recitals, once an everyday affair on the air, in recent years have been a rarity.

A piano arrangement of the minuet from Mozart's E flat symphony was the gem of the program. "In a Boat" [Zeckwer] introduced us to something new in modernistic writings. "Tales from the Vienna Woods" [Strauss-Schuett], with its numerous fancy runs and arpeggios, would appeal especially to those who wish a lengthy display piece. "March Mignon" [Poldini] proved to be a fitting companion piece to the popular "Dancing Doll" number by the same composer.

These highlights, together with the other numbers played, indicate that Miss Trumbull chose her program with a varied audience in mind.

Mme. Lucrezia Bori, soprano, was the feature soloist on the New York orchestral program through KYW, 9 to 10. Hers is a fine, soft toned voice, rather light, but always pleasing. She sang a number of Spanish songs with considerable brilliance.

FRENCH DEPUTIES BACK YOUNG PLAN IN TEST BALLOT

BY JAY ALLEN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 27.—At the close of today's debate in the chamber of deputies over the Young plan, it was evident tonight that Premier Tardieu will succeed in putting through the final act of liquidating the war with a tremendous majority.

The communists, of course, are sure to vote against it, as will a dozen or so of other enders of the extreme left, but these make at most only eighty votes.

The rest of the deputies are for the Young plan, and despite the uproar they made today and will probably make as long as the debate lasts, it is predicted that they will vote for it. Estimates of the government's majority run anywhere from 450 to 500 votes.

Expect Huge Majority.

Tomorrow deputies of the Right, the conservative wing of the chamber, will point out the dangers of the evacuation of the Rhineland. They see in it the destruction of the last remaining security for the execution of the treaty of Versailles. They will probably say a lot of harsh things about German good faith. But they will vote for the Young plan because it was for the Young plan because it was the part of M. Tardieu's supporters.

To the left, the Socialist and radical socialists will howl about the supercapitalistic Bank at Basel. But Edouard Herriot, former premier and radical party leader, strangely enough, is publishing that M. Tardieu let the matter off too easily on the sanctions issue. But the Left parties will vote for the Young plan, too, because they claim to have partially opposed it.

Bond Issue Is Incentive.

All parties want the vote rushed through so that the first slice of German bonds can get to the market before the summer doldrums. This did not prevent the radicals today from again trying to ambush the government. They launched a surprise attack by asking that the debate be postponed until Foreign Minister Briand gets back from London, claiming that M. Tardieu and M. Briand are on bad terms. M. Herriot started a near riot when he said that he thought it a pity that the Young plan should be espoused by a government majority which "was not for a policy of peace."

M. Tardieu immediately asked for a vote of confidence, and won by 319 to 262. This means that his position is unassailable until the middle of June, as the chamber of deputies goes on a vacation from Easter until then.

PUBLISHERS INDORSE CAMPAIGN AGAINST CENSORSHIP STATUTE

New York, March 27.—[Special.]—Newspaper publishers throughout the country are "100 per cent behind Col. Robert R. McCormick" in his fight, as president of the Chicago Tribune, against Minnesota legislation which is said to threaten the freedom of the press, according to an announcement made by the American Newspaper Publishers' association today.

Returns on a canvass of the association's membership of 500 indicate that the publishers support Col. McCormick's stand practically unanimously, it was said. More than 300 returns already have been received favoring the carrying of the litigation involved to the Supreme court. Edward H. Butler, president of the association, has complimented Col. McCormick on his championship of the "fundamental principles of a free press."

The Minnesota law, adopted in 1925, provides that District court judges may suppress as a nuisance any malicious, scandalous or defamatory newspaper. Col. McCormick is appealing a case which recently arose under the law to the United States Supreme court.

SUICIDE RECALLS STORMY LIFE OF BELLE SILVERA

Friend Here Tells of Her Bohemian Ways.

Some of the details in the romantic life of the former Chicago artist, Belle Silvera, 52 years old, which ended in suicide on Tuesday night in the New York home of Ralph Modjeski, internationally known builder of bridges, were given yesterday by her Chicago friends.

"A woman of genius, whose childlike simplicity led her to do many eccentric things, and whose purity of heart and mind caused her to strike her head against stone walls," was the description of Belle Silvera given by one of her close friends, Mrs. Mary North Wagner, 1445 Plaisance court, who was a fellow student of Miss Silvera's at the Chicago Art institute. There Miss Silvera attracted much attention with her pencil portraits.

Hits "Back to Nature" Tale.

Mrs. Wagner took issue with a statement made by New York detectives at the time of Miss Silvera's death that they had learned that "some years ago she went from Chicago with a man who was a back to nature advocate into a dense woodland and there the two lived in the nude for a month on roots and berries."

"Belle was modest almost to the point of prudery," Mrs. Wagner said. "But she got a name for being shockingly Bohemian when she wore short dresses in 1905. They came to her ankles! The rest of us wore them trailing on the ground.

"She did build a log cabin de luxe at Eagle River, Wis., following her doomed marriage to Wenceslaus Gorecki, stepson of Ignace Jan Paderewski, it is true, but there was no cult of the nude. His drunkenness and his beatings had become intolerable. In Paris, where they lived for a time, she had almost starved. He wrote for a magazine, and at times they dined on caviar when he pawned an overcoat or got a check for an article. At other times they starved. She built the cabin and lived there with him, hoping his vices would disappear away from cities, but, as usual, her idealistic hopes crashed. Later she divorced him.

"A Platonic Marriage."

"Still later she entered into a platonic marriage with an elderly man named Bradford at Eagle River, to care for him. But he refused to take morning plunges in the cold lake which she advised, and she divorced him. For the last seven years or so she has lived in an apartment on the top floor of Modjeski's home and has done drawings of the finished bridges he designed.

"Seven years ago she told me that when her illness—a sort of sleeping sickness caused by tubercular lesions in her back, originally caused by her husband's beatings—became intolerable, she would end her life. She had no religion, and no fear."

Gorski, then an officer in the Royal Northwest police, was secretly married to Belle Silvera after they had met in the home of Modjeski. Interviewed on their honeymoon, spent in picking flowers and rowing in Jackson park, he said: "My wife and I are so unconventional. She never wore a corset, and never a rat."

POLICE THWART SUICIDE ATTEMPT.

Earl Carrig, 35 years old, 2115 East 67th street, tried to commit suicide yesterday by turning on the gas jets in the kitchen stove. His mother, Mrs. Kitty Carrig, smelled gas and called the police. Carrig was revived by an inhalator squad.

PROMISES TO PAY $8 WEEKLY TO WIDOW OF MAN HIS CAR KILLED

Grand Rapids, Mich., March 27.—(AP)—Marinus Deraade, 22, must pay $8 every week for five years to the widow of the man whom he killed with his automobile.

These payments were made the condition of a parole granted to Deraade today by Judge Leonard D. Verdier after the offending motorist had pleaded guilty to a charge of negligent homicide in the death of George Tinkey, 32, who was struck by Deraade's automobile last December.

Judge Verdier said that the payments would give needed aid to Mrs. Tinkey and her four children and would at the same time keep the accident fresh in Deraade's memory.

Local Women Learn Soap and Hard Water Will Not Cleanse

CLIMALENE

Water Softener and Soap Saver

THIS city's water is too hard for the best washing results. Clothes become faded and "gray" with repeated washing in this hard water. The best soap is not effective.

Local housewives are turning to a new discovery that gives almost magic results in any washing. It is not a soap—but a water-softening cleanser that changes "hard" water to "soft"—stops fading—cuts washing time in half and requires only ¼ the ordinary amount of soap.

What It Is

It is a preparation called Climalene that you add to your washing water. Just a tablespoon or two.

Instantly, it takes all the harshness out of that water. Makes it soft as rain water. So soft that it does the work with ONE-FOURTH the soap you use now. And thus ends danger of "soap eat" to fragile things.

At the same time, due to certain bland cleansing agents, it instantly DISSOLVES all dirt, stains and grime. And thus cuts washing time, too—in either dishpan or washing machine—ONE-HALF or more.

Use the soap or soap flakes you ordinarily do. Then see for yourself the amazing results. During 1929 women used over 24,000,000 packages of Climalene for washing, for cleaning and in the dishpan.

Laboratory Proved

To assure results to you, we buy fine things, lingerie and delicate fabrics. Then by repeated washings, try to spoil or fade them.

We wash delicate lingerie, often 50 times—without perceptible fade. Children's rompers, 60 to 90 times. That's over a year's home washing.

We wash gold encrusted china hundreds of times—without a trace of gold gone. And thus prove the blandness of this way.

Consider, please, what those things mean to you. Consider, too, that the minute you put this creation into water, all harshness is taken away—your hands protected from roughness, made soft, smooth and white. Then try it.

Remember the name—Climalene. Your grocer has it. Sold only in 10c and 25c packages.

150,000 TO SEE GRAND NATIONAL STEEPLECHASE

Americans Bet on Sir Lindsay.

LIVERPOOL, England, March 27.—(AP)—Two score horses peered through the cold mist over a rain soaked Aintree course today as a world-wide crowd of 150,000 wended its way toward this historic track for the ninety-first running of the Grand National tomorrow.

The heavy mist, turning into a light rain late this afternoon, cast a gloom over tomorrow's renewal of the classic steeplechase event. The forecast of unfavorable weather augurs for heavy going in tomorrow's grueling test—the kind of going that spelled disaster last year for the American owned Hero, which twisted a shoe in the sticky course, but finished second after leading the field almost to victory.

England's weather, however, is notoriously unreliable and there's just as much chance of the sun bursting forth in the morning as there is for some 100 to 1 shot to win the world's premier steeplechase, which—as Grand National followers know—is possible.

Field to Number Forty.

Tomorrow's field is expected to number 40 unless there are a few last minute scratches. The number is 26 less than the record number that went to the post last year. Among the starters are four American owned horses, two of which are ranked among the favorites. They are John H. Whitney's Sir Lindsay and Victor Emmanuel's Royal Arch II.

Grakle, which finished sixth last year, was the favorite tonight for the big event. It will be his fourth attempt to win the race for his owner, Cecil R. Taylor, Liverpool. Grakle has had bad luck in other runnings of the famous steeplechase. In 1928 he suffered interference at the dangerous canal turn by Easter Hero and in 1927 was brought down by another falling horse.

Americans Back Sir Lindsay.

Sir Lindsay is receiving the backing of the Americans, though at long odds. The Whitney jumper gave a polished display of jumping in winning the National Hunt steeplechase at Cheltenham recently. Although his rivals were of the common sort, many experts consider him more likely than most of the National contenders to stand up over the extremely difficult Aintree fences.

The Irish horse, Shaun Goilin, also received a strong play today. The jumper from the Shamrock country knows the Aintree country well, having won over it in minor races. Grenlach, last year's long shot winner, appeared a probable starter, having apparently recovered from his injury received two weeks ago.

The Gosling, one of the lukewarm choices, changed hands today, going to Maj. Coats for 400 guineas ($2,000), with the proviso that an additional £1,000 ($15,000) be paid if the horse wins the race.

31 Fences on 4½ Mile Course.

The four American owned entries in the 4½ mile test over 31 fences have had considerable experience over the Grand National country. Sir Lindsay finished third in 1929 in the Sefton steeplechase, which is run over a part of the same course. The Whitney entry, a 9 year old, will have 146 pounds in the saddle tomorrow. Stephen Sandford's Sandy Hook, which will carry 152 pounds, has placed in lesser events, while Gordon Selfridge's Ruddyman II. has a record of finishing over the Sefton course. The last named has been handicapped with 142 pounds.

The Selfridge jumper also finished over the National course in 1928, but failed to complete the route in the Champion steeplechase, which also is over a part of the Aintree course. Victor Emmanuel's Royal Arch II. finished in the Fox Hunters' steeplechase in 1928 and 1929, but failed to complete the 1927 Champion steeplechase.

Newsboy and Derby Day II., which were reported scratched, appeared today on the list of the probable starters.

Nearly 150,000 tickets in the Liverpool commercial exchange national sweepstake have been sold for 16 prizes aggregating $255,000.

McLARNIN AND THOMPSON WAIT GONG AT GARDEN

New York, March 27.—(AP)—Jimmy McLarnin, smiling Irish kid with a clout that is deadly in earnest, and Black Jack Thompson, no mean hitter himself, completed their chores today and rested for their ten round battle in Madison Square Garden Friday night.

While the young sockers finished work Garden box office men neared the limit, too. So brisk has been the demand for tickets that the 18,000 seats around the famous battle pit probably will be sold by tomorrow noon. A gate of about $60,000 is in prospect.

Zbyszko Quits Wrestling to Become Ring Promoter

New York, March 27.—(AP)—Stanislaus Zbyszko, for years one of the outstanding heavyweight wrestlers, has retired from competition in the game to arrange matches for Madison Square Garden. Zbyszko's first card will be staged April 2 with Strangler Ed Lewis and Marin Plestina, heavyweights, in the feature bout.

HOCKEY, INFANT NOT LONG AGO, GROWS UP FAST

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 27.—The prize fighting industry has definitely yielded first place among the winter enterprises of the Garden corporation in New York and become a side line, second to hockey, which is now returning two dollars of profit for every dollar cleared on the fights.

Hockey was installed five years ago as a sort of stop gap, or taxpayer, to draw some customers on the dates between the weekly prize fights. Nowadays, with two teams based on the Garden rink and playing three nights a week, the hockey customers outnumber the patrons of the weekly prize fights more than two to one.

Recklessness Entices Fans.

In Boston, Detroit, and Chicago the customers have been manifesting a similar turn of interest from the inexpert, conservative and reluctant performances of the prize fighters to the headlong recklessness and fury of the Canadian young men who dash about the ice on a flashing blade not unlike the butcher's meat ax and, sometimes, in their temperish moments, go at one another with steel and cudgel. This madness of the hockey players doubtless has an important bearing on the growth of the industry just as the cautious restraint of the pugilists has figured in the alienation of the prize fight customers.

Given a ballasted bludgeon in his hands, a pair of blades on his feet, and a competitive spirit amounting, to frenzy in his heart, the hockey player gives himself to the game in a manner that holds forth a stimulating lure of bloodshed. Just why they do this nobody seems to know, for they are only employés after all, and the employés in other lines of the sport industry long since have learned to regard their opponents as fellow members of the employé class.

Don't Need to Be Stimulated.

Although professional hockey is not exactly an infant industry, the game was conducted on a modest, neighborly scale in Canada and a few American cities until five years ago. The great development has taken place in the last five years and perhaps, after a few more, the boys will fall to brooding over some matter of pay and decide that it is very silly, indeed, to take risks above and beyond the requirements of their contracts.

But for the present they are naïve and, far from having to stimulate them, their proprietors are much concerned about a code of fines and suspensions which have been proposed as a deterrent to the more atrocious forms of assault. Just now Ching Johnson of the New York Rangers is playing with thirteen feet of silver wiring in his lower jaw, which was fractured in seventeen places in a collision earlier in the season, and with his head and chin clasped in a steel protective frame.

Notwithstanding all this, a fellow member of the employé class, a Mr. Kilrea, employed by the Ottawa firm, attacked Mr. Johnson with the butt end of his stick after the whistle had blown in a game the other night and would have sundered the fragments of his jaw again but for the intervention of others. Col. John Hammond, the owner of the New York Rangers and employer of Ching Johnson, is indignant about this and is proposing a fine of $1,500 for malicious assault, first offense, and one year's suspension as the penalty upon a second conviction.

Prodigious Hospital Records.

In previous mishaps Johnson had experienced fractures of one shin, one ankle, one collar bone, and one wrist. Eddie Shore of the Boston team wears 112 scars of battle and there are many other athletes in the game with prodigious hospital records of which they are immensely proud.

Johnson's return to the game less than four weeks after his chin was so badly smashed suggests the difference between the hockey athlete and the major league ball player who has learned that if he works with a lame arm the arm may never be any good again and therefore humors the slightest twinge, real or imaginary. Then, for contrast with the prize fighters, there is the case of Fainting Phil Scott, who claims foul and retires when tapped on the hip.

Col. Hammond tells me that the proprietors of the hockey teams naturally have no wish to restrain the abandon of their players, which is the charm of the game, but he adds that homicide cannot be encouraged.

Frost Is on Cauliflower.

The personnel of the major league is almost 100 per cent Canadian, and Cal. Hammond doesn't believe American athletes ever will make the major league in any considerable proportion because there are so few opportunities of skating south of the Canadian line. Up there the kids take to the ice on double runners at the age of 6 or 7, and the municipalities maintain hockey rinks, clear of snow, from early fall until spring.

I seem to have dwelt more upon the commercial success of the game than upon the sporting aspects, but, after all, it is the commercial success which proves the appeal of hockey to the American customer. There have been no million dollar hockey series as yet, but then the top price of the league is $3.85 per ticket, and it is sufficient evidence of the game's spontaneous success to report that in New York, the world capital of the prize-fight industry, and in the new Garden, the hothouse of the cauliflower trade, the frost is on the cauliflower now.

FAREWELL TO MIDWAY

POTPOURRI

THREE minor changes in football rules, unimportant to the public but constructive in character, have been made by the rules committee.

That headgear, shoulder or elbow pads of the same color as the ball are confusing and unfair to opponents is conceded. That all four officials should be on the lookout for fouls or rule violations is just as patent. That the shift, from a time viewpoint, be definitely established is more important to coaches and officials than to spectators who seldom recognize the penalty any how.

So the public will not have to learn anything new in connection with the already complicated gridiron code. That does not imply that the public, or even all sport writers of which we are one, know all about it any way, but there is at least another year of inspection before any major changes.

Art Shires signed on the dotted line after a series of incidents intended to humiliate him. Shires last season figured in escapades subversive of club discipline, but whether you disapproved those acts or his superb egotism, you had to like the kid when you talked to him. We wonder just what will be the effect of this chastening. We trust he will not lose his personality. It's hardly in his nature, however, to become machinelike.

Glorious spring for the last three days! Any one wishing our end of it apply fourth floor Tribune Tower.

ST. PATRICK AND AQUINAS WIN WAY TO FINALS

Play for Title in K. of C. League.

Aquinas of the south division and St. Patrick of the central will meet Saturday night at the Chicago Stadium for the championship of the Knights of Columbus Basketball league.

Before a throng of more than 5,000 at the Stadium last night the two quintets won their semi-final clashes and earned the right to compete in the battle to determine the best team of the 45 who last November began play in the preliminary round of the league.

Kane Stars for St. Pats.

With Tommy Kane shooting baskets from every angle, St. Patrick had little trouble stepping into the final bracket at the expense of Loyola-Hyde Park of the south division, 36 to 22. Kane scored five of his ringers before the first half was ten minutes old, and when the period ended St. Patrick held a lead of 19 to 5.

Loyola fought desperately the second half, but the lead was too great to overcome, although at one time the south siders moved within nine points of the winners. Kane wound up with seven baskets and one free throw for a total of 15 points.

Marquette Turns Tables.

Marquette, which lost to Hennepin in the championship game last season, turned the tables on the west siders in the other consolation game, 26 to 18.

O'Connor evened things up with its old rival from the north division, DeSoto, by winning a 20 to 19 thriller to go into the final of the consolation bracket. De Soto led at the half, 11 to 10.

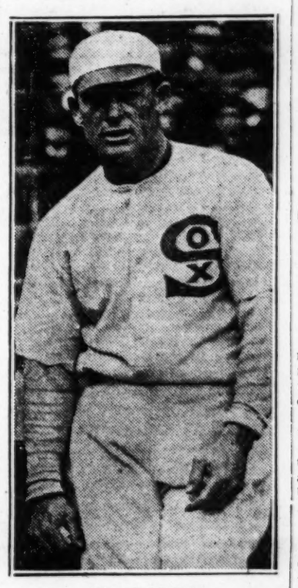
Less than a mile from the prairie where he first learned to handle a football, Walter Eckersall was laid to rest yesterday morning. Burial was in Oakwoods cemetery alongside the bodies of his father and mother.

Fifteen hundred mourners, including sport notables, neighbors and newspaper associates, attended the funeral services at Holy Cross church, 65th and Maryland. The church stands on a site where 30 years ago Eckersall learned football fundamentals in sandlot games.

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Dennis Dunne, pastor of Holy Cross church, delivered the sermon. The Rev. Lawrence Byrne was celebrant of the solemn requiem mass. The Rev. Patrick Molloy was deacon and the Rev. Edward McKenny sub deacon.

Active pallbearers were Harvey T. Woodruff, Charles Dunkley, Judge Walter P. Steffen, J. J. Lipp, John L. Griffith, and Frank Schreiber. Walking ahead of the remains were A. A. Stagg, under whose tutelage Eckersall reached All-American fame on the gridiron three times, John V. Clinnin, Sheldon Clark, H. B. Hackett, and Avery Brundage.

SERIOUSLY ILL



ED WALSH.

Meriden, Conn., March 27.—(AP)—"Big" Ed Walsh, Chicago White Sox pitching star of more than two decades ago, was fighting for his life in a hospital tonight after an operation for appendicitis and peritonitis.

His physician, Dr. I. S. Otis, said that Walsh was a "very sick man," but he held out strong hopes for his recovery. It will be several days, he said, before a crisis is reached.

Walsh, now a scout for the White Sox, whom he served so brilliantly on the mound in the past, was stricken Tuesday while returning from the south, where he had been visiting major league training camps. He arrived home Wednesday afternoon and this morning his physician advised an immediate operation.

Ban Trafton for Swoon in Carnera Bout

Kansas City, Mo., March 27.—(AP)—George Trafton, Chicago heavyeight novice, was indefinitely suspended by the Missouri boxing commission today for failing to offer any semblance of fight in his 54-second swooning session in the ring here last night with Primo Carnera, immense Italian.

Announcement of the suspension, which is expected to extend to other states affiliated with the national boxing association, was made by Harry Davis, Kansas City member of the state commission. While not criticizing Carnera for the outcome of the bout, Davis said the Italian would not be permitted to box in Missouri again unless a "worthy opponent" is produced.

Another Setup Tonight.

The European invader, who under the crafty managership of the French boxing stable owner, Leon See, has collected more than $100,000 by bowling over a dozen selected second and third rate foes on his tour of the United States, is scheduled to sacrifice Jack McAuliffe, one of the ancients of the industry, at Denver tomorrow night, despite the ruling of the Colorado boxing commission that the venerable Jack is not a "suitable opponent" for Primo.

The West Side Athletic club of Denver obtained a court injunction restraining the Colorado commission from interfering with the spectacle. District Judge Henry Bray decided the club had gone to considerable expense and should be permitted to go through with the bout.

Trafton Collects for Swoon.

Kansas City fans in protesting to the Missouri commission today bemoaned the price they had paid to see Carnera dispose of Trafton, who apparently had no desire to do any work for the $2,500 purse he received. The former Chicago football player took three trips to the canvas before he was counted out and he failed to land a clean blow on Carnera, who had a weight advantage of 40 pounds.

A. A. U. BOXERS FIGHT TONIGHT FOR FOUR TITLES

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Twenty-nine preliminary bouts last night at the Illinois Athletic club gymnasium prepared the way for the semi-finals and finals tonight in four classes of the Central A. A. U. tournament. The flyweights, feathers, middleweights and heavies are fighting for the right to represent the central states in the national boxing meet at Boston. The other champions have been determined.

Goldblatt Among Final Four.

Benny Goldblatt, defending 126 pound champion and member of the Golden Gloves team, reached the final four with little trouble, but there are three others who, from last night's performances, may wrest the crown from Benny. BLAKE, SHEALY SERVE HITS OF ALL DIMENSIONS

Moss Checks Buc After Damage.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., March 27.—T Cubs gave no indication today of bei the possessors of a National leag title. Their own bad pitching knock them so flat from the start that th couldn't regain their feet, so the Pira whipped them in the opener of a fo game series before about 9,000 custo ers. The official count was 15 to 10, it seems as if twice that many cros the plate.

Most of the blame for the unhap conclusion can be charged to She Blake. The Sheriff apparently is ready for stiff competition. In fo rounds the Pirate pounded him eleven hits and eight runs, five the latter going home in a bunch in fourth. There was one session, ho ever, which was even more viole This was the sixth, when seven sco before Al Shealy could retire thi men. After looking at this outbre Boss McCarthy called on Lefty M to keep things in order. He hand the assignment perfectly.

Pirates Get 8 Doubles.

The Pirates acted as if they h training all winter on the knack slamming balls down the base lin They did this from start to finish a accumulated eight doubles out of nin teen hits.

About the only edge the Cubs co earn for themselves was in the ho run line. The Pirates were guilty only one of this variety, but t champions made three, the auth being Zack Taylor, Grimm, a Stephenson. Hack Wilson could break into this class, but he collect four singles, two of them off Hei Meine, who twirled the first f rounds, and the others off Jess Pet

Blake's bad first inning began wh Brickell, acting center fielder pend Baby Waner's recovery from vi ous ailments, drove a two bag against the screen in right. Grantha was set down on a hard liner to Be Then Paul Waner bounced to sh but Beck booted. Clark followed w a double, Brickell scoring and Waner halting at third. P. Wa counted on a single by Suhr. A d ble play relieved Blake of worry the time being.

Sheriff's Single Helps.

Blake atoned for some of his t pitching by supplying a hit that the Cubs in on their first two r in the second. Cuyler opened the ning with a tap to Meine. Steph son tore off a long single to left, a Blair walked. They advanced Zack Taylor's infield out. Then Bla singled over second, Stephenson a Blair rushing home.

The five runs with which the Pira induced Blake to cease firing in t fourth opened with Bartell doubli to right. Hemsley beat out a hit which Bla made a great pickup cl to the bag. Bartell remained at s ond on the hit, but moved up alo with Hemsley when Meine bunte Brickell's two bagger scored the Grantham also doubled and Brick scored. Another double rolled off Waner's bat, and Grantham talli Clark completed the inning's dama by singling P. Waner home.

Shealy Gets Jarring.

The Cubs came up with t runs in their half of the fourth. Bla singled to center. Zack Taylor co pleted it by driving a homer over t wall in left.

Shealy did well enough in the fift but after those seven runs in t sixth he prepared himself for an ea departure back to St. Paul.

When Petty appeared for pitchi duty in the sixth, he handed the Cu a bitter pill. He fanned Blair, Za Taylor and L. Bell, who swung f luckless Shealy. The champs aton for this in the seventh, however. Wi one out, Grimm arched a homer ov the barrier in right. Hornsby a Wilson uncorked singles and Horns scored on Cuyler's sacrifice fly. Th Stephenson smashed a homer into t bleachers. The Cubs picked up t more in the ninth when with the ba filled Bartell let a grounder through his hands. Score:

WHITE SOX LEAVE SAN ANTONIO RAIN FOR WACO SLEET

Shires Is Scheduled to Report Tomorrow.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

San Antonio, Tex., March 27.—A spring training trip through the sunny south, har har har! The Chicago White Sox are waterlogged in their training camp stake-pulling ceremonies today and the consolation they got was a report from Waco that it was sleeting there, and another from Fort Worth and Dallas said snow was flying.

But the Sox will go to Waco tonight just the same and play tomorrow against the Waco Cubs if possible. Then they'll go to Forth Worth to stand by for the Saturday game with the New York Giants. Sunday morning they'll go to Dallas where another Sox-Giant game is tabbed and the betting is 8 to 5 that not one of the three games in the three different cities will be played.

Bush Releases Youngsters.

Manager Donie Bush was too softhearted to send some older athletes out into the storm and the scheduled batting swinging was postponed except in the case of young Red Corriden of Indianapolis and Walter Patrick McCarthy of Chicago. Corriden left for his home this afternoon and McCarthy will depart from Waco.

The visit to Waco probably will have its reward, however, for the great Shires is scheduled to report there. He wired that he had been trapped in the middle west snow storm but that he was sure to join up in Waco. Aside from Jimmy Moore and Vic Frasier, injured in accidents, the Sox are leaving their camp in fine physical shape. Except for two brief catches the weather here has been ideal and even the bad weather did not knock the boys out of daily workouts, thanks to the forehandedness of Manager Bush, who engaged an indoor hoss ring for the emergencies.

Sox Probably Will Return.

It is probable the Sox will be back here next year for their training. Mayor C. M. Chambers presented Mr. Bush with a key to the city and assured him that work will start soon on a new $150,000 stadium here, with training camp facilities holding a prominent part in the plans. No decision has been announced by the club, however.

BILLY HATCH, NEGRO BOXER, INJURY VICTIM

Pittsburgh, Pa., March 27.—(AP)—Billy Hatch, Pittsburgh Negro flyweight boxer, died at a hospital tonight following a bout at McKeesport with George Tomaskey, also of Pittsburgh.

There were several knockdowns in the fight, which Tomaskey won, but during the bout there was no indication that either fighter had been injured.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., March 27.—The Cubs and Pirates will stage the second of their series tomorrow. Manager McCarthy is going to let the Pittsburghers see Carlson for five or six innings and then a rookie. The Pirate pitchers will be French and Bednar, the latter a strikeout artist from the Nebraska State league.

Traynor, the Pirates' star third sacker, probably will not get himself ready until opening day. He is out because of eye trouble and not much improvement has been noted since he reported for spring work.

After three days of rest Lester Bell, the Cubs' regular third sacker, reports improvement in his throwing arm. He thinks the trouble was caused by cold settling in the muscles between the shoulder and elbow. English, the other Cub cripple, is about ready to jump off the charley horse which has got him on the sidelines for several days.

In Moss' three innings of pitching today the Pirates didn't knock a ball beyond the infield, barring one single by Bartell. He used his wide curve to good advantage.

If Blair can turn in many games such as he put on today as a third pitcher he may be able to give Bell a run for the job. The tall youngster made several sensational fielding plays and was prominent at bat with three singles and a pass. Experience is what he needs.

HERMAN TO JOIN ROBINS; MATES BEAT PHILS, 10-4

Winterhaven, Fla., March 27.—(AP)—Babe Herman, Brooklyn right fielder, who has been a persistent holdout, sent word today from New Orleans that he would report to Manager Wilbert Robinson tomorrow.

Herman has not yet settled his contract dispute but it is believed he will accept the club's terms. Runner up for National league batting honors last year, he demanded a salary of $25,000, but two weeks ago reduced the figures to $18,000. Robinson has stuck to his offer of $15,000.

The Brooklyn Dodgers pounded three Philadelphia National pitchers for 15 hits today to defeat Burt Shotton's team, 10 to 4. Jake Flowers with a home run in the third inning drove in four of Brooklyn's runs. Bill Clark and Adolfo Luque scattered the Phillies 11 safeties. Score:

YANKS LOSE AGAIN.

Jacksonville, Fla., March 27.—(AP)—Rube Marquard's Jacksonville tars rallied in the ninth to defeat the New York Yankees, 4 to 3, today. Pinch hitter Huttos' double in the ninth scored the tying and winning runs for the Florida nine.

Herb Pennock, the starting Yankee hurler, was nipped for two runs before he gave way to Henderson, who finished the contest. The Yanks have now lost eight of their 14 exhibition games. Score:

Jacksonville	010	010	002	4	12	2

BRAVES BEAT MACKS.

Fort Meyers, Fla., March 27.—(AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics bowed to the Boston Braves 5 to 3 today. For six innings Harry Siebold held his own with Lefty Grove, A.'s hurler. Then Grove wilted and singles by Sisler, Moore, Berger, and Maguire produced three runs. In the seventh the Braves added two more. In the ninth Chick Galloway made his first appearance in a game in two years. He batted for Rommel of the A.'s and bounced to the pitcher. Score:

DETROIT WINS IN 10TH.

Tampa, Fla., March 27.—(AP)—Dale Alexander saved the Detroit Tigers another defeat by a minor league outfit this afternoon when he slapped the ball out of the lot with Westling on base to beat the Toronto Leafs in the 10th inning, 6 to 4. Herring and Hogsett pitched for the Bengals. Score:

Cocker Spaniel Lead Entries in Chicago Show

BY BOB BECKER.

Sportsmen in Chicago and the central states who visit the twenty-ninth annual Chicago Kennel club dog show which opens today in the Fourth Regiment armory are going to see a classy bunch of sporting dogs of many breeds. When we looked over the entries that had been received a few days ago the hustling little cocker spaniel was leading all sporting classes with a total of fifty entries. Included in this number are cockers from as far west as California and as far east as New York.

One of the interesting side lights on the cocker entries as well as the entire list of sporting dogs to be exhibited in this show is that an unusually large number of women have placed dogs of hunting breeds in competition this year. Whether the ladies are going in for making pets of cockers, setters, beagles, etc., or are getting interested in hunting is a question that must interest all sportsmen.

English setters to the number of thirty-five have been entered in the show. Last year a setter, Champion Herewithem J. P., won best in the show. Besides the 50 cockers and 35 English setters 29 beagles will show their points in the show ring, as well as 23 Irish setters, 23 pointers, and 24 springer spaniels.

Among the women who will send their blue-blooded cockers against the pick of the country at the local show is Mrs. A. R. Moffitt of Poughkeepsie, N. Y. It was Mrs. Moffitt's Rowefliffe War Dance, a field trial cocker, that created such a sensation a few years ago in the eastern spaniel trials which we judged at Brewster, N. Y.

Trained and handled by Mrs. Moffitt, this sensational worker all but defeated the entire field of both cocker and springer spaniels in the free for all event for both breeds. Rowefliffe Royal is one of the two show dogs which will try for a blue ribbon at the Chicago show.

Among the Chicagoland entries in the sporting classes are Chinn o Avandale, an English springer owned by Walter Elnfeld of Oak Park; Little Dohdy, an Irish setter entered by J. L. Joyce of Highland Park; Kaiser's Duke, pointer, owned by Dr. J. M. Kaiser of Chicago, and Superfine Perfection, one of three beagles entered by John Rieblinger of Chicago. Ernest Smoot, son of Senator Smoot, is sending two of his Irish setters to compete for ribbons in the Chicago ring.

LAWRENCEVILLE AND HUN BATTLE

New York, March 27.—(AP)—Two teams of hard riding young poloists from neighboring New Jersey preparatory schools qualified tonight to meet in the finals of the national indoor interscholastic polo championships. The Lawrenceville school of Lawrenceville trounced Andover, 18½ to 0, in the second semi-final after the Hun school of Princeton had defeated Culver Military Academy, 8½ to 7½.

Princeton Meets Army for Indoor Polo Title

New York, March 27.—(AP)—Clever teamwork and accurate hitting carried Princeton's polo team into the final of the national intercollegiate indoor championship tonight with a 9 to 1 victory over Pennsylvania Military college. Princeton will meet West Point in Saturday's final game.

WOMEN BOWLERS SIGN FOR AURORA CHAMPIONSHIPS

Aurora, Ill., March 27.—[Special.]—Forty teams have entered the first annual interstate women's bowling tournament which opens April 6 at the Sylvan Dell alleys in Aurora. More than fifty fives are expected to enter before the last day for filing entries, March 30.

Chicago will be represented by a number of teams, but will have stiff opposition from fair bowlers coming from other parts of Illinois, Wisconsin, Indiana, and Michigan. Among the better known Chicago fives are the Jones and Bunrucker Jewelers, Finicane Ladies, Leo Schuenemanns, Chris Paschens, Bensingers, and Washington Shirt company.

30 Teams Enter Maroon Tourney; 2 More Needed

There are only two open brackets left in the University of Chicago national interscholastic basketball tournament which opens at Bartlett gymnasium Tuesday afternoon. Thirty teams are entered. The other two will be picked today or tomorrow.

Central Catholic High of Fort Wayne, Ind., yesterday accepted an invitation, thus giving the tournament its first Hoosier entrant since 1921. Central has won 15 out of 18 games this year.

St. Mel Withdraws Team.

St. Mel was forced to withdraw as the team has been hit by ineligibilities and injuries. Morgan Park Military academy was given a bid in St. Mel's instead. The other two city teams which will compete for the national championship are Morgan Park High, runner up for the city league title, and Central Y. M. C. A. Day school, winner of the midwest prep school championship.

Three powerful quintets from Texas are on their way to Chicago. Athens, defending national champion, is almost as strong as last year, with 31 victories out of 39 engagements. Coach Jimmy Kitt's boys scored 1,389 points to opponents' 760.

Reagan Third Texas Team.

Denton, the state champion, eliminated Athens in the semi-finals of the state tournament by five points but dropped three games to Athens during the regular season. John Reagan High of Houston, the other Texas entry, was runner-up for the state championship. Losing in the final, 19 to 14. John Reagan won 23 out of 25 games during the regular season. All three Texas teams are big and rugged.

Jena, La., is returning this year. In the 1929 tournament the bronze midgets from Jena went to the quarter finals, where they lost to Joes, Colo., winner of third place in the meet. Jena has an enrollment of 219 students and no gymnasium, all home and practice games being played on a dirt court out of doors.

SWIMMERS WIN LETTERS.

Bloomington, Ill., March 27.—[Special.]—The official "W" of Illinois Wesleyan university was today voted five members of the varsity swimming squad by the board in control of athletics. The men honored are Capt. George Withey, Springfield; William Lacey, Springfield; Edward N. Ketchum, Paris; E. Douglas Marshall, Bloomington, and Geo Houser, Delavan.

THE WORDS on the back of the package still mean what they say. No "extras," which do not contribute to the quality of the smoke, are included in the price of Camels. Just the utmost smoke-enjoyment that modern science can put into a cigarette.

That statement was on the first package of Camels manufactured and has been on every one of the billions of Camel packages sold from that day to this. When it was first written, other cigarette manufacturers were giving away flags, pictures of actresses, pictures of ball players—almost anything that would make the smoker think he was getting something extra for his money. The makers of Camels believed the smoker wanted a cigarette sold strictly on its merits, with all of its cost put into quality—a cigarette made of such excellent tobaccos—so perfectly blended—so mellow—so fragrant—that it would win its own way.

20 Schools Are Entered; Dedicate Pool.

Cambridge, Mass., March 27.—[Special.]—Swimming history is expected to be written here tomorrow and Saturday when 200 collegiate stars from 20 universities match strokes in the annual national intercollegiate swimming championships. The meet will dedicate officially the million dollar Harvard pool which has just been completed.

COACH ROBINSON.

Schools from the central states, including Michigan, Northwestern, Iowa, and Minnesota, are expected to set the pace for the rest of the field. These schools have entered record breaking performers in all events and the quest for the championship should be decided between them.

Wolverines Reach Town.

Coach Matt Mann's Wolverine squad of 11 men arrived today to complete the contingent of Big Ten stars. Northwestern and Stanford arrived yesterday, pulling in two hours behind schedule, due to delay in getting through the blizzard in the west. K. L. Wilson, athletic director at Northwestern, arrived here today in company with William J. Bingham, Harvard's athletic chief, who has been in Chicago on business.

Records in at least six of the eleven events are expected to be beaten, once the tank aces start their performances. Among the leaders in the record smashing efforts will be Capt. Al Schwartz, Northwestern, in the 50 and 100 yard dashes; George Kojac, Rutgers 150 yard backstroke; Austin Clapp, Stanford 400 yard free style; Ed Moles, Princeton, 200 yard breast stroke, and Michigan's strong 200 yard sprint relay team.

Three Way Fight for Title.

The battle for first place appears to rest between Northwestern, Michigan, and Rutgers, with the former having a slight advantage. Coach Tom Robinson, the Wildcat's mentor, stated that the new pool is to the liking of his boys and they should turn in the best performance of their career.

Wentworth Lobdell, Iowa's star fancy diver, went through his set of dives today and appeared to be in fine fettle. He won the recent Big Ten meet against a classy field and is a favorite to repeat here. Other crack divers are Walter Nappa, Minnesota; A. Rake, Michigan, and Ed. Throndson, Stanford.

Preliminaries in all events will be held tomorrow night with the finals slated for Saturday night.

CHARLESTON PRO LEADS PINEHURST GOLF TOURNEY

Pinehurst, N. C., March 27.—[Special.]—Henry Picard, a 22 year old assistant professional at the Charleston, S. C., Country club, held a one stroke lead in the north and south open golf championship at the close of the first thirty-six holes over the No. 2 course of the Pinehurst Country club here today. His score of 74 made in a high wind this morning tied him for second place in the standing of the first round returns, and he made a 72 this afternoon, with an 8 on the sixteenth hole.

MAUREEN ORCUTT WINS

Southern Pines, N. C., March 27.—(AP)—Miss Maureen Orcutt, Haworth, N. J., metropolitan champion, won the second annual mid-south golf championship for women here today over a field of golfers which included the national champion, Miss Glenna Collett, and several members of the American team which will sail for Europe soon.

Miss Orcutt made the title safe by her play on the first two rounds of the fifty-four hole tourney, when she scored a 78 the first day and a brilliant 76 today.

The metropolitan champion's total of 241 led Miss Collett by three strokes after the national champion turned the course in her final round today in 80 strokes to close the gap of ten which separated her and the leader before today's play started. Miss Collett showed a total of 244 for the fifty-four holes.

Mrs. O. S. Hill, veteran Kansas City golfer, who was runnerup to Miss Orcutt at the end of thirty-six holes, made a game struggle to head the metropolitan champion, but two disastrous holes put her out of the running. She turned in an 85 today for a total of 245 and third place in the tournament.

Blackhawks on Way Home; Talk of 'Goal'

BY HARLAND ROHM.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., March 27.—Chicago's Blackhawks left Montreal this morning unusually good natured in view of the fact that every man feels he was cheated out of the Stanley cup series with Les Canadiens last night. Perhaps the good Quebec beer had something to do with it, for after the game last night the Hawks as a team, their season ended, made full use of the privileges.

Until early morning, some of the players didn't go to bed before catching the 9:40 train, the boys sat around, quaffed the lager and bock and talked of the game which Chicago lost, 3 to 2, of the game, which Chicago lost, 3 to 2.

The game finished the regular season for the Hawks, but they aren't through with hockey. Most of the team will leave Chicago in a day or so to play a series of exhibition matches against teams of the Pacific coast league in Los Angeles, San Francisco, Portland, Seattle and Vancouver. After that they'll scatter to their summer jobs.

Vic Ripley will go to a northern camp as a guide. Ty Arbour, when his leg heals, will go back to farming. Mush March, after he gets out of a hospital, will once more start revamping the interior arrangements of Fords and Packards.

Meanwhile, the hockey playoffs continue with the New York Rangers playing Les Canadiens at the Forum here tomorrow night. Lester Patrick, manager of the Rangers, has had his team here since Monday, in the belief Les Canadiens would win the series from the Hawks. As a result they have their train ride behind them and are well rested.

CHICAGO POLO TEAM DEFAULTS CLEVELAND GAME

New York, March 27.—(AP)—The Cleveland Polo association's class C team of W. H. Zink, C. Radcliffe, and W. H. White reached the semi-finals of the national indoor class C championship tonight by defeating the Commonwealth Polo club of Boston, 8½ to 4.

The defending champion, the 124th field artillery of Chicago, was forced to default to the Ridgewood, N. J., Polo club when its ponies, delayed in shipment by the storm in the midwest, failed to reach New York in time for the game.

LOTT REACHES SEMI-FINALS IN FLORIDA TENNIS

Miami, Fla., March 27.—(AP)—George Lott, Chicago, and former University of Chicago star, advanced to semi-finals of the annual south Florida tennis championships today with his 6-3, 4-6, 6-1 victory over Robert McMillan, Oshkosh, Wis., former University of Wisconsin racquet wielder. Lott is scheduled to meet Jarvis Adams, Montauk Point, L. I., tomorrow. Adams defeated John Nixon, Miami, 6-1, 6-2.

4 Year Old Alight Wins Liverpool $5,000 Handicap

LIVERPOOL, England, March 27.—(AP)—Anthony De Rothschild's four year old brown colt, Alight, by Galloper out of Alma, today won the 83d running of the Liverpool spring cup, a handicap plate of $5,000. Edward Esmonde's Larking, another four year old brown colt, was second, and Mrs. Alastair Mackintosh's Regain, four year old, French bred bay colt, was third.

MICHIGAN BOY BETTING CHOICE IN N. O. DERBY

New Orleans, La., March 27.—[Special.]—Despite the mediocre field which will go to the post in the renewal of the $10,000 added Louisiana Derby tomorrow afternoon, much interest in the outcome of the race was shown here tonight.

In the overnight betting all the support was divided between Michigan Boy, the favorite, held at 6 to 5, and the H. C. Hatch entry of Brother Rank and Bad News Bob, quoted at 8 to 5. Hatch, a Canadian turfman, purchased Brother Rank and Bad News Bob from Col. Edward R. Bradley only a short time ago.

Eleven were named overnight for the $10,000 race but little attention was paid to any of the probable starters except the favorite and the Hatch entry. It was cloudy here tonight, but if there was no rainfall the race will be decided over a lightning fast track. The Derby field, arranged according to post positions, follows:

Starter.	Wt.	Jockey.	Prob. odds
Cabildo	114	R. Deprina	5-1
Reveille Boy	117	J. Kelfum	6-1
Ell-Weir	114	C. Landolt	15-1

CHICAGO STOCKS ZIGZAG AND END DAY IRREGULAR

Auto Interest Shifts to Cord, Borg-Warner.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

After about an hour of energetic trading following the opening, Chicago stocks yesterday began to zigzag and finished the day in an irregular fashion. Sales volume was comparatively large, transactions for the day approximating 390,000 shares.

Interest in automotive shares shifted from Bendix to Borg-Warner and Cord Corporation. Both stocks were heavily traded in and, though finishing under the day's best prices, showed some improvement. With the annual report out, interest in Bendix dwindled and the price eased moderately. The balance sheet of Bendix as of Dec. 31 shows current assets of $25,573,141 and current liabilities of $3,542,312.

Initial Trades.

Among the utilities, American Utility and General corporation voting trust certificates were initially traded in around 13¾ on sales of 12,000 shares. Twin States Natural Gas A, another newcomer, closed at 14½, Middle West eased a minor fraction. Seaboard was quiet and unchanged with announcement of listing on the New York exchange.

In the investment group, American Equities advanced 2¾. Sales in the issue, which is usually quiet, amounted to 1,500 shares. Burnham Trading was slightly higher.

Jefferson Electric was a strong spot of the industrial specialties, gaining ½. Reports attributed its strength to eastern buying, the identity of which was not known. Brown Fence "A" was up 2¾ on rather light trades and Kalamazoo improved similarly. Castle and Winton eased moderately.

Hall Printing Company Reports.

W. F. Hall Printing was quiet and unchanged. The company last night reported earnings for the fiscal year ended Jan. 31 of $1,511,652, compared with $1,005,309 in 1928.

President R. M. Eastman stated that 1929 was the most prosperous year in the company's history. The 1929 earnings were equivalent to $4.03 a share on the 375,000 shares of common stock outstanding, against $3.35 a share in 1928 on the 300,000 shares then outstanding.

The balance sheet as of Jan. 31 shows current assets of $4,001,966 and current liabilities of $980,465. The current assets included $1,126,125 in cash and call loans.

FINANCIAL NOTES

Lee, Higginson & Co. have given out the following official statement by the German government: "A German syndicate headed by the Reichsbank and an international syndicate to be formed under the leadership of Lee, Higginson & Co. have undertaken to discount the proceeds of the $125,000,000 loan to be made by the N. V. Financieele Maatschappij Kreuger & Toll of Amsterdam to the Deutsches reich. As is known this loan is payable to the reich in two tranches, one of a face amount of $50,000,000 on Aug. 30, 1930, and a second of a face amount of $75,000,000 on May 29, 1931." As to the terms discount Lee, Higginson & Co. disclose that the rate for the first tranche is 4½ per cent and for the second tranche 1% per cent above the New York Federal Reserve bank rate on June 16, but not less than 5½ per cent or more than 5½ per cent, adding that the entire transaction is subject to enactment of the necessary legislation by the reichstag.

The Harris Trust and Savings bank and the First Union Trust and Savings bank are offering $500,000 Rockford, Ill., sanitary district 4½ per cent bonds, due serially March 1, 1931 to 1950, and offered at prices to yield from 4 per cent to 4.25 per cent.

The American Commonwealths Power corporation has called all of its convertible debentures 6 per cent series, due 1949, at 2½ per cent premium and interest as of May 15. The privilege of converting debentures into class A common stock ceases May 5.

Offering of $14,000,000 city of Detroit 3.64 per cent tax anticipation notes, priced to yield 3.45 per cent, was announced yesterday. The notes are dated next March 31 and are due Aug. 11, 1930.

PENNROAD CORP. BUYS SHARES OF TWO MORE ROADS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 27.—The Pennroad corporation announced today it had bought stocks of the Southern railway and the Atlantic Coast Line railroad.

The corporation also confirmed officially its ownership of common and preferred shares of the New Haven and the Boston and Maine railroads; stock and bonds of the Detroit, Toledo and Ironton and the Detroit and Ironton railroads; and stock of the Pittsburgh and West Virginia railway. The amounts of the holdings were not stated.

"The aim of the management has been to invest in securities of companies yielding steady returns and those having attractive future possibilities," said Henary H. Lee, president, at the first yearly meeting of stockholders of the corporation in Wilmington, Del.

"At the end of 1929 the corporation had on hand $16,710,925 in cash and demand loans, and securities costing $120,538,051. The stock of the corporation outstanding at the end of 1929, therefore, aggregated 9,090,000 shares. Voting trust certificates representing the stock are in the hands of approximately 145,000 holders."

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, March 27.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was firmer today, with prices higher and refiners showing more interest. Sales reported included 56,000 bags of Porto Rican for April and May shipment to outports refiners at 3.59c, 35,000 bags of Philippines and 28,700 bags of Porto Rican to a local refiner for April arrival at 3.61c, and 28,000 bags of Philippine for April-May shipment to an operator at 3.65c. The higher spot market and a growing belief that the single selling agency will not be dissolved led to more active covering in raw futures and prices were higher from the start, closing with net gains of 2@5 points. Closing prices: July, 3.69c; September, 3.78c; December, 3.86c. No. 1 prices follow:

EATON CLAIMS ENOUGH PROXIES TO BLOCK MERGER

New York, March 27.—The fight over the $1,000,000 merger of the Bethlehem Steel corporation and the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company took a new turn today with Cyrus S. Eaton, Cleveland financier, claiming enough proxies pledged to block the deal and Eugene G. Grace, Bethlehem president, scoffing at the assertion.

Proxies for 510,756 Youngstown company shares have been pledged in favor of the merger and 412,571 shares against it, or definitely agreed not to vote for the plan, according to Mr. Eaton. A total of 395,201 shares are all that are needed to stop the deal in this greatest of steel proxy battles since the formation of the United States Steel corporation, according to Mr. Eaton's figures.

This statement, Mr. Grace said, "is not in keeping with authoritative information I have from Youngstown people."

Warren Foundry and Pipe.

H. R. P.: Warren Foundry and Pipe corporation, incorporated in 1927 as successor to Replogle Steel company, is engaged in the manufacture of cast iron pipe, mining iron ore, and the manufacture of pig iron.

The corporation's report for 1929 shows a substantial improvement in earnings over the year before. During 1929 the corporation leased two of its inactive mining properties and arranged for the sale of its two railroad properties to the Central Railroad of New Jersey for $1,250,000.

The leasing of the ore properties eliminates annual overhead costs of approximately $75,000 and the sale of the railroad properties aids the corporation's cash position.

Gross revenue in 1929 was $4,441,393 and net income was $293,517, equal to $1.47 per share earned on 199,300 no par shares. Gross revenue in 1928 was $4,169,841 and net income was $15,743, equal to 6 cents per share on 250,000 shares.

As of Dec. 31, 1929, current assets were $3,697,377 and current liabilities were $285,229, leaving a net working capital of $3,412,148.

Dividends have been at the annual rate of $2 per share, since an initial quarterly dividend of 50 cents was paid Jan. 2, 1930.

Missouri Portland Cement.

D. E. G.: Net profit of Missouri Portland Cement company and its subsidiary for 1929 amounted to $4.39 per share on the 299,284 shares (par $25) outstanding. This compares with $4.28 per share earned on a like number of shares in 1928.

The company last year turned over its sand, gravel, and retail business in St. Louis to a subsidiary company in exchange for stock in the latter. For this reason the company's own financial statement for 1929 cannot well be compared with that for 1928.

As of Dec. 31, 1929, current assets were $2,783,028 and current liabilities were $209,094, leaving a net working capital of $2,574,834. Surplus was $4,534,755.

Regular dividends are at the annual rate of $2 per share. An extra 50 cent dividend was paid Nov. 1, 1929.

Laclede Gas Light.

V. C.: Laclede Gas Light company $5,500,000 first mortgage collateral and refunding 5½ per cent bonds, series D, dated Feb. 1, 1930, and due Feb. 1, 1960, are high grade, a suitable investment for a business man's funds.

BROKERS' LOANS PACK SURPRISE; SHOW DECREASE

BY O. A. MATHER.

What a surprise the big and little speculators got yesterday when the weekly report on brokers' loans appeared! Everybody was all set for a big increase, in view of the more active stock markets and advancing prices in the last week. But when the figures came out after the close of the market a decrease of $21,000,000 was shown.

The bears had predicted another increase of upwards of $100,000,000 and sold stocks accordingly. The bulls had expected a sizeable increase, but maintained it would only prove that the "public" is in the market again. But on the basis of the figures, everybody concluded that the "big fellows" who put up heavy margins and institutions that buy outright have been picking up stocks.

Increase N. Y. Loans.

Anyway, loans to brokers extended by the New York federal reserve member banks now total $3,820,000,000, which is $1,829,000,000 less than a year ago. In spite of easy call money rates, the New York banks increased their own loans by $158,000,000 in the last week and are lending $331,000,000 more than a year ago.

On the other hand, the interior banks withdrew $53,000,000, which brought their total $562,000,000 under a year ago, and corporations and other lenders took down $126,000,000, bringing their lendings $1,620,000,000 below a year ago.

The New York Federal Reserve bank made no change in its 3½ per cent rediscount rate and the Bank of England maintained its 3½ per cent rate. It would seem that officials of both institutions believe that money rates in both countries have become stabilized around their current levels and that the international movement of gold also is stabilized. This latter belief was supported by the fact that the only gold received in this country in the last week was $253,000 from Latin America, while no gold was exported and there was no change in gold earmarked for foreign account.

Release Additional Credit.

The desire of the federal reserve authorities to maintain relatively easy money rates for commercial purposes, whether or not the stock market takes advantage of it, is again manifest in the weekly statement of the reserve system issued last night. The reserve banks boosted their holdings of bankers' acceptances by $71,465,000 and reduced their government securities by only $32,440,000, thus pouring considerable additional credit into the money market.

The member banks increased their borrowings by $1,195,000, bringing the total to $206,829,000. Total deposits exceeded $68,969,000, but note circulation exceeded $10,801,000. Gold and total reserves increased $14,965,000 and $20,000,000, respectively, but the ratio of reserves to liabilities sagged to 81.8 per cent, compared with 82.5 per cent a week ago. This was due chiefly to the big increase in deposits.

The report of the New York reserve bank shows that the member banks increased their borrowings by $6,048,000, bringing the total to $36,858,000. But the reserve bank also took on an additional $98,319,000 of bankers' acceptances. Deposits jumped $53,113,000. Reserves declined $9,138,000 and the reserve ratio fell to 77.7 per cent, compared with 82.2 per cent last week.

The statement of the Chicago reserve bank shows that member bank borrowings declined $1,492,000 to a total of $22,685,000, while the reserve bank also reduced its bankers' acceptances by $3,052,000. Deposits expanded $1,326,000. Reserves increased $9,121,000 and the reserve ratio rose to 83.3 per cent, compared with 85.7 per cent a week ago.

General Level Rises.

Improvement in employment conditions in the middle west and an increase in savings deposits are reported by the Chicago Federal Reserve bank in its monthly review.

"Some improvement of manufacturing employment was reflected in slight increases in both number employed and pay rolls at 1,771 plants," the review says. "The general level for ten groups is brought by this gain to approximately that in the middle of December, but continues lower than for the corresponding period of last year. "In nonmanufacturing activities continued declines occurred in all lines except coal mining. Deposits in regular savings accounts for 195 banks showed a very small increase on March 1, compared with Feb. 1, although the number of accounts fell off slightly.

FINANCING PROGRAM OF ROCK ISLAND RY. MAY BE MODIFIED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 27.—Conferences on the subject of modification of the financing program of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railway are proceeding actively between officers, bankers and certain large stockholders of the road, it was learned today.

Two weeks ago, when the dissatisfaction of some of the stockholders, led by United States and International corporation as the owner of 41,400 shares, first came to light, officials of the company stated that they had no intention of reconsidering their plan for selling $32,228,000 convertible 4½ per cent bonds to shareholders. That they have granted the series of conferences now under way is not necessarily a sign that they will yield, but is probably an indication of the support which their opponents have mustered.

Issuance of the bonds and certain necessary amendments to the articles of consolidation depend upon approval by stockholders at their annual meeting on May 1. The absence or dissenting vote of one-third of the outstanding stock, or approximately 430,110 shares, would block the plan.

Underwriters of the issue are Speyer & Co., National City company and J. & W. Seligman & Co. If they decline to modify their agreement an open proxy fight looms as a distinct possibility.

Those aligned against the bond issue have suggested an alternative plan to provide for retirement of present outstanding preferred stocks, issuance of a new preferred in series at a lower coupon rate, and an offering of additional common stock to shareholders.

ADVANCE-RUMELY SHOWS 1929 NET LOSS OF $395,503

The company, which manufactures agricultural power machinery, suffered a net loss of $395,503. In 1928 the company had net income of $750,143, which was equivalent to $6 a share on the cumulative preferred stock. No dividends have been paid since Oct. 1, 1926. Dividends in arrears on the preferred now amount to $35.25 a share on 125,000 shares.

After deducting 1929 loss, the surplus stood at $1,175,928. Inventories were $6,416,454. Current assets were $14,753,913 as of Dec. 31, and current liabilities $4,564,852, a ratio of 4.13 to 1.

Finley P. Mount in his remarks to stockholders said that the drop in sales volume as the result of the crop failure necessarily resulted in a substantial loss on sales expense incurred before the crop failure became apparent.

"Together with a slowing down in the factories and its consequent increase of burden and heavy carry over of unsold machinery incurring increased interest charges and other expenses, this resulted in the loss as shown in the income account," he said.

Omnibus corporation reports consolidated net income for 1929 of $957,549, equivalent after adjustments amounting to $8,796, and preferred dividends to 39 cents a share on the 625,623 shares of common stock outstanding. This compares with 27 cents a share in 1928 and 39 cents a share in 1927.

Omnibus is a holding company owning the Chicago Motor Coach company, Depot Motor Bus Lines and Grey Lines Motor Tours company. The profits reported do not include income from an 86.9 per cent interest in the outstanding stock of the New York Transportation company. Net income of the latter concern was $1,499,318.

Continued Curtailment Is Ordered for Okla. Oil Pools

Oklahoma City, Okla., March 27.—(AP)—Continued drastic curtailment of oil production in flush pools of Oklahoma for 90 days after April 1 was ordered today by the corporation commission at the request of the operators. The order contains virtually the same provisions as that issued by the commission last January.

Total operating revenues of the Chicago and North Western Railroad company in February were $9,895,110 compared with $10,950,401 in February, 1929. Operating expenses meanwhile dropped from $8,758,611 in February, 1929, to $7,997,977 last month, the road reports.

M'FADDEN HITS AT WORLD BANK, MORGAN FIRM

Reparations Bonds Illegal, Is Claim.

Washington, D. C., March 27.—(AP)—Attacking the Bank for International Settlements and the banking house of J. P. Morgan & Co., Chairman McFadden of the house banking committee, in a radio address tonight, warned the American people against absorbing German reparation bonds, which he charged were illegal securities.

Speaking under the auspices of the Daughters of the American Revolution on a coast to coast network, the Pennsylvania representative asserted that the international bank had been formed "to head the financial division of the league of nations" and for the purpose of mobilizing American financial resources with those of Europe "through the sale of billions of dollars' worth of German reparation bonds to our people here in exchange for our gold."

Sees League Plot.

"They know that these entangling alliances," he said, "will eventually drag us into the world court, the Bank for International Settlements, and, eventually, into the league of nations."

McFadden said he was calling upon the state department to advise the American investors as to "whether or not these commercialized German reparations bonds are legal."

"The agreement signed by Germany," he said, "under the Dawes and Young committees, is held by good authority to be void in law."

He added that while the Young committee was sitting in Paris last April "there was an extraordinary flow of gold out of the German Reichsbank to Paris, New York, and London. So great and rapid was this outflow that a currency panic manifested itself in Germany and a flight from the mark like that of 1923 was threatened."

As a result, he said, President Schacht of the Reichsbank announced there was no alternative but to sign the agreement, and "it was to prevent catastrophe in Germany that the German delegates signed the Young report."

Given "Valuable Franchise."

McFadden asserted that the house of Morgan, besides being fiscal agents in this country for Great Britain, France, Belgium, and Italy, had under state department "edict" assumed American representation in the international bank. "The action of the state department in forbidding any further participation by the federal reserve banking system in the Bank for International Settlements," he said, "turns over to the Morgan firm one of the most valuable franchises which any private banking house in the world has ever possessed."

McFadden charged that the federal reserve system had lent itself to a "scheme of the foreign bankers to get a further grip on our banking resources" in 1927 by changing its policy, lowering rediscount rates, and "causing the release of a large volume of credit, which resulted in the export of over $500,000,000 worth of gold to Europe."

MILWAUKEE RY. PLANS OFFERING OF $15,000,000

Washington, D. C., March 27.—(AP)—The Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad sought authorization to issue and sell $15,000,000 of its 4¾ per cent general mortgage bonds in an application today to the interstate commerce commission.

The bonds would be sold to Kuhn, Loeb & Co. and the National City company at 98 per cent of par and accrued interest.

Proceeds amounting to $14,700,000 would be used as follows: $12,400,962 to reimburse the road's treasury for expenditures for road and equipment already made; $1,305,476 to purchase new equipment, and $993,561 for additions and betterments.

NATIONAL DAIRY CORP. REPORTS BIG GAIN IN EARNINGS FOR 1929

New York, March 27.—(AP)—The annual report of the National Dairy Products corporation shows net profits for 1929 of $20,758,898, equal to $4.04 a share on 5,135,645 shares of common stock outstanding at the end of the year.

Combined net profits for 1928 were $15,175,461, or $3.03 a share on 1,889,749 shares outstanding at the end of that year.

Thomas H. McInnerney, president, in his report to stockholders, pointed out that during 1929 a total of $31,479,000 was expended for redemption of bonds, mortgages, preferred stock, and debentures, and for cash considerations for companies acquired and for property and plant extensions. The company acquired during the year properties in Washington, Wilmington, Hartford, Buffalo, Detroit, Akron, Cincinnati, Toledo, Peoria, and Louisville.

On Dec. 31 the company had cash on hand amounting to $21,021,327, amply in excess of current liabilities, it was stated.

DREDGING FIRM REPORTS GAIN IN NET INCOME

Net last year amounted to $224,851, which, after preferred dividends, was equivalent to $6.25 a share on the outstanding common stock. This compares with 1928 net profits of $177,324. After payment of dividends a sum of $155,291 was added to surplus, which now stands at $545,078.

The balance sheet shows current assets of $769,232, of which $493,171 is in cash, call loans and short term marketable securities, and current liabilities of $168,192.

Says Low Prices Have Cleared Used Cars Rapidly

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 27.—Automobile production during March will be considerably above February, Alfred Reeves, general manager of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, said today.

"While production levels have been conservative," he said, "retail sales have registered increasing activity. During January and February dealers devoted their time to selling stocks of last year, both new and used cars. By placing very low prices on used cars the industry has cleared them rapidly in preparation for 1930 output."

Discusses Mileage Scale in Railroad Rate Structure

BY SCRUTATOR.

Why the railroad systems of the United States as a whole do not make more money is a question that has never been solved satisfactorily by any set of reasoners.

There is a school of thought, including many railroad men and their supporters, which believes they could have the entire 5¾ per cent allowed them by law if rates were only made higher. This view includes at least the assumption that traffic will not fall off as fast as the rates go up.

The interstate commerce commission is anxiously striving to get the earnings of the railroads up to the figure named by law as a fair return. It is trying also to reduce all freight rates to the common figuring basis of the mileage scale and classification of commodities.

Oppose Mileage Scale.

This predilection for a mileage scale is, wherever it is possible to apply, a detriment to the railroads, in the view of many able traffic men. It will tend to cut down the length of haul and take completely out of the hands of executives of individual railroads all chance for them to relate their rates to the needs of their own shippers.

The essence of the mileage scale is cost of operation. The reasoning is that if it costs so much to carry a certain carload of bricks, for instance, a distance of 100 miles, it costs a certain percentage more to carry it 200 miles. A ratio of increase is established and adhered to.

"What Traffic Can Bear."

But classification is based on another factor, which is the value of goods hauled. Electric lamps may be first class and sugar in bags sixth class, with the second rate only 27½ per cent of the first. Yet it costs little or no more to move a carload of glass than a carload of sugar. Unquestionably the first commodity can bear a heavier charge than the second.

The railway freight rate structure was built up on the "traffic can bear it" theory. Competition regulated rates. Because these were often secret, abuses crept in. But it was a system that kept railroad men struggling for all the traffic they could get, at any price that gave volume.

Under a mileage scale there would be a certain rate, as an example, on whale oil to be used in soap, from New York to Buffalo. It might be fair and satisfactory to the railroad and the man in Buffalo who used it. But the mileage scale might make this product too costly for use in Chicago. The railroad, willing to get business in the west, could agree to reduce classification so the longer movement could be accomplished. But to do this it would have to reduce the classification to Buffalo shipments also and lose part of the revenue it was already getting there.

Some Products Adaptable.

Some products seem to lend themselves to mileage scales. Steel is one and steel men ordinarily do not dislike the idea. One mill is satisfied to market within a radius of 500 miles or so and to keep competitors out by the same token. On the contrary, newsprint paper is produced in restricted sections and used all over the country. It is difficult to see why a newspaper in southern Illinois should have to pay a rate high on the distance scale while one in New York pays a small one because the source of supply is near the latter.

It is the inflexibility of the mileage scale and its tendency to zone the country, to destroy the national market, that is disturbing. Possibly a better lineup would be to allow shippers and traffic managers of railroads as units to get together and agree on rates, rather than to make the rates fit a slide rule.

Newark, N. J., March 27.—(AP)—Receivers of the Kolster Radio corporation, which was declared bankrupt and suddenly closed several months ago, today reopened the plant at Thomas street and Mount Pleasant avenue with 650 men at work. Receivers said they may employ another 400 men to fill an order for 15,000 radio sets.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 27.—Today's stock market was full of air pockets. Some of the high flyers of the new bull boom dipped dizzily at times and price movements were kept bobbing up and down all over the field under such contrary influences as continued business revival talk, growing public participation, tightening money rates, and fears of a "serious" increase in the brokers' loan total for the week, which were later proved unfounded.

Launch Bear Drives.

Trading started off at a furious pace again and prices surged forward all along the line, a good hundred issues of assorted classification sweeping up to brand new 1930 peaks. As the ticker fell further and further behind floor operations, however, traders began to show a disposition to go cautiously. Commitments fell off and profit taking set in. The call rate, which had renewed at 3½ per cent, was raised to 4 per cent, and this furnished fresh impetus to the selling.

By noon the advance—which had

Factors making for HIGHER Bond Prices . . .

A BOND yield is made up of two things. The first is the pure interest return, reflecting the current price of money. The second is very largely compensation for risk. Both of these have undergone changes which point to lower yields and higher bond prices.

A real change has taken place in the risk factor. In the last few years, industry generally has enjoyed high prosperity. Most companies with bonds outstanding have added substantially to their assets. The risk factor involved in their obligations is accordingly smaller than it was. The compensation for risk should therefore be smaller and a recognition of this fact should contribute to lower bond yields and higher bond prices.

The decline in the pure interest return has reflected the world-wide ease of money. In New York, bankers' acceptances are at 2½%. The New York Federal Reserve rediscount rate is 3½%. The Bank of England rate was again reduced (the second time within the month) to 3½%. The rate in France is 3% and in Germany 5%. To the extent that bond yields are a reflection of the price of money, they should decline with the decline in interest rates and bond prices should continue their upward course.

Market wise, the factors are demand and supply. Here again, both favor higher prices.

The low price levels which bonds reached last year were in part a reflection of high money rates and in part of lack of interest in them. Many investors who normally constituted a large part of the market for bonds were absorbed in the stock market. They not only were not interested in buying bonds; they were actively engaged in throwing them overboard in order to buy more stocks. While we believe that general interest in common stocks will continue, investors may be expected to keep in mind more actively the desirability of maintaining adequate balance in their investment accounts through bond holdings. The interest in bonds accordingly may be expected to continue.

Finally, the supply of bonds in the last year has been decidedly below normal. Recent offerings have reached a large total but these have had primarily an institutional appeal and have not been particularly suited to the average investor. Coupled with this have been large prior retirements of domestic and foreign issues. The market is therefore in good technical position for a sustained forward movement.

WHEAT PRICES EASE ON QUIET DAY'S TRADING

Market Reacts After Bulge on Short Covering.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Covering of several lines of short wheat by local professionals was largely responsible yesterday for an early bulge of around 1¼c, but when the buying stopped the market reacted as rapidly as it had advanced.

Prices declined 1⅛@2⅛c from the high and the finish was about the bottom, with net losses of ⅛@⅛c, May closing at $1.08⅛@1.09⅝, and July, $1.05⅝@1.05¾. Trade in the aggregate is so light that the market responds quickly to any good buying or selling, and speculative operations rather than the news accounts for the erratic fluctuations.

Argentine shippers were reported as having bought May wheat in Liverpool, with the latter market gaining 1½@1⅝d. The undertone was firmer, although the demand for cash wheat continued slow. Winnipeg was erratic and finished ⅝c lower, while Buenos Aires was ¼c higher to ⅝c lower, the former on May, which was nearly 7c under Chicago at the last.

Crop News Less Favorable.

There has been a rather marked change in the general character of the crop reports on winter wheat from the southwest in the last few days, and both official and private returns indicate that moisture is now badly needed in the western third of Kansas and Oklahoma, and a somewhat heavier abandonment of acreage than anticipated a short while ago is looked for.

A decrease of 3.7 per cent in the prospective spring wheat acreage as indicated by returns to the department of agriculture had little effect on values, although a comparison with the actual returns of previous years indicates that the area seeded normally falls short of the intentions to plant.

Chairman Legge of the farm board intimated that his reports suggested a larger decrease. A normal yield per acre on the estimated area would indicate a crop of around 252,000,000 bu, against 228,000,000 bu harvested last year. A corn crop of 2,790,000,000 bu would be secured on the same basis, or 168,000,000 bu more than in 1929, while the oats crop might be 1,278,000,000 bu, compared with the short yield of 1,239,000,000 bu last year.

Foreign demand for cash wheat was again inactive, with sales of only 300,000 bu. Manitobas estimated in all positions. Argentine exports for the week were placed at 2,756,000 bu, against 1,487,000 bu the previous week and 5,468,000 bu last year

Corn Closes Lower.

Corn was firm early on an active demand for cash grain and light country offerings, and there was also buying of that grain against sales of rye. Later in the day, however, there was pressure on the market as the result of a reversal of the spreads with rye, and also selling of corn against purchases of wheat, and the close was at net losses of ¼@⅜c, with May 83¾c, and July, 84⅞@85c. Local shipping sales were 120,000 bu, with the spot basis steady to 1c higher. Purchases to arrive aggregated 18,000 bu.

Cash houses were on the buying side of May oats early, with commission houses taking the deferred deliveries. The bulge was not held, however, as locals turned to the selling side when other grains started downward, and the close was ⅛@¾c lower, with May, 43½c, and July, 43⅛c.

Shorts were on the buying side of May rye early, but spreading operations caused a reaction and the finish was ⅛c higher to ½c lower, with May, 62⅛c, and July, 67@67⅛c. Exports of domestic rye for the first 8 months of the crop year were only 2,430,000 bu, against 8,584,000 bu last year.

As the result of receiving $311,634 in back mail pay earnings of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad were slightly higher last year. Freight revenue showed a small increase, but passenger revenue declined. Net earnings after all charges were $200,823 for 1929, compared with $136,892 for 1928, according to the annual report issued by President Thomas C. Powell. Last year's earnings were carried to surplus, which now stands at $4,015,606. No dividends have been paid on the preferred stock since Jan. 1, 1924.

Central Power & Light's Income Totals $2,470,551

Central Power and Light company, an Insull property operating in central and southern Texas, reports net income for 1929 of $2,470,551 as compared with $1,889,906 in 1928. After payment of dividends $319,323 was transferred to surplus.

LARD TRADE FAIR

Commission houses yesterday were on both sides of the lard market at times with packers satisfying the demands of buyers with hedging sales. Prices had a narrow range and closed the same as the previous day. Bellies were bid up 10c early, only to react and close 2½c lower on May and 5c lower on July. Cash trade generally was moderate. Liverpool lard was unchanged to 3d lower, the latter on September.

Exports of lard were 1,047,875 lbs. and of bacon 307,500 lbs. Cash bellies were quoted at $14.00. Hog prices were generally steady, with the run at western markets larger than a week ago but smaller than last year. Prices follow:

The Ace of Spades

By WILLIAM MACLEOD RAINE

SYNOPSIS.

Jim Rutledge, accompanied by Sim Hart, is sent out with a herd of cattle to fulfill a contract made by his father, Chandler Rutledge. On the trail they are overtaken by some men from the Moss outfit, enemies of Rutledge. The Moss men start a stampede and drive off some of the Rutledge cattle. Jim recovers them, but in doing so shoots and injures one of the Moss raiders. The men of the Moss outfit swear to be revenged for the injury and pursue him. Jim takes refuge in a ranch house, where he finds Ellen Lawson alone in the house. She hides him when the Moss gang comes to the house inquiring for him and sends them off on another trail, even though she learns that he has injured her brother. Jim rides on into the town after saving Ellen from the unwelcome attentions of Pete Moss. Shear, the town marshal, threatens to arrest him for the attack on Steve Lawson, but Harrison Pendleton, an old trail driver, arrives on the scene in time to save him from arrest. Shortly afterward Shear kills Doc Brown, who, he claimed, had threatened his life. This causes a great deal of excitement in the little cattle town. Jim goes into the local gambling den and is astonished to find Ellen Lawson there. She tells him she has come to speak to her brother, Steve. Jim guides her to where Steve is sitting in a poker game with Shear, Buck Roe, and others. As they reach the table the lights go out, and when the room is again lighted Shear is found crumpled in his chair dead, with Jim's knife in him. Ellen's right hand is covered with blood. She had become separated from Jim in the dark and some one had jostled her. In putting out her hand for support she had touched the crumpled figure. Jim and Ellen are questioned by the sheriff, Sanders, and Jim is arrested, but is later released. Jim is determined to find the murderer to clear himself. Ellen arranges a meeting to warn him against Dave Moss, and Jim learns that Moss is trying to force her to marry his son, Pete. He suggests that she marry him, and they are quietly married. He goes about his investigation and is led into a trap by the Moss gang. Old Dave Moss tells him he has not long to live. Chandler Rutledge comes to town, and when Ellen tells him Jim has been out for some time he and Pendleton decide to go in search of him.

INSTALLMENT LIII.

DISASTER.

Already Jim's pursuers were on horseback and in motion.

From the cries carried to him Jim judged they were spreading out. In the darkness they did not want to miss him. The fugitive knew it was a question of speed, and before he had covered five hundred yards he began to fear that the buckskin was not fast. At least one of the outlaws was gaining on him. He could hear the hammering of the hoofs on the sun baked soil.

Jim began to edge toward the left. If he could get beyond the outermost rider before they were too near he might slip away and let the pursuit sweep past him. But to do this he had to work his way over very gradually, for he had to keep enough distance in advance not to be seen.

It came to him presently that he was not going to make it. Would it be possible for him in the darkness to pretend he was one of the Moss outfit and gradually to let himself drop to the rear? Hardly. But it was his only chance. He slackened the pace.

"That you, Pete?" he called.

Then, in the winking of an eyelid, chance decided the issue. The buckskin stepped into a gopher hole, stumbled, and flung his rider headlong. Jim was dazed, probably not more than a few seconds, but long enough to complete the disaster. Before he could rise a man dragged his horse to a halt, threw himself from the saddle, and ran forward with long strides. A Colt's 45 covered Jim.

An exultant whoop rang out. "I've got him!" It was Clay Moss.

Roughly they tied the hands of their prisoner. As they jerked at his arms he judged that the fall had broken a collar bone. Just now that was of no importance. Hope had gone out of his heart. He was lost. They would never give him another opportunity to get away.

Clay mounted. Jim was hoisted to the back of the horse and his arms were tied around the body of the man in the saddle.

"I'm about played out," Sam went on crossly. "Didn't know how much that wound had taken it out of me."

"You would come with us," Dave said curtly, "spite of my advice to stay home."

They rode back to the house and dismounted. Dave Moss and Buck Roe, each gripping tightly an arm of the prisoner, led the way into the cabin.

The posse organized by Chandler Rutledge rode fast. The cattleman knew he was taking a chance in accepting the suggestion of Steve Lawson, that he was gambling on the life of his son. But the one essential was to reach the scene in time. They could not wait to follow a trail in the darkness, even if he had been sure of keeping to it. A good guess with some reason back of it was better than to potter along and arrive too late.

Rutledge rode beside Steve. Not once did the boy hesitate, dark though it was. What troubled him was not a doubt as to the direction, but one as to his wisdom in assuming that Devil Dave was headed for the homestead. If he turned out to be wrong Jim Rutledge was lost.

More than once the tortured father asked how much farther the cabin was. When at last they topped the slope that looked down upon the claim the thermometer of young Lawson's hope plunged down. The house was dark. The party approached from the rear.

Chandler flung himself from the saddle and strode into the house. He struck a match. One impression registered on his mind. There was a fire in the kitchen. The men he wanted had been here very recently. Another match flamed up. He saw a lamp on a shelf and lighted it. A running iron, red hot at one end, projected from the stove into the room. What was it doing there?

The other members of the posse had trooped into the house. They followed Rutledge into the parlor. What they beheld was astonishing. The room looked as though a cyclone had swept through it. Chairs were smashed and the table upset. Fragments of a shattered lamp lay scattered over the floor. A window had been demolished, the woodwork between the panes smashed violently.

Chandler Rutledge stooped and picked up a paper from the floor. It was a corner torn from a piece of coarse brown paper used for wrapping parcels. Upon it was some writing. He read it to himself, then made a comment aloud, his voice not quite steady, "Jim's handwriting."

"What's it say?" asked Garrick.

Chandler read aloud: "'I got to the end of my rope. Tonight I killed Mame Dugan. She wouldn't keep still about what I'd done to her and about how I stabbed Joe Shear.'"

"Good God!" cried Pendleton. "Confesses he did it!"

"That's not all he has written," Chandler went on. "Listen: 'Not a word true. Dave Moss trapped me. He says he killed both——' That's all. His broke off there."

"It don't make sense," Pendleton complained, his forehead wrinkled in a puzzled frown. "First he says he did, then he says he didn't do it."

Show at Hotel Sherman Opens at Noon.

Flower and garden enthusiasts today begin their trek toward the center of interest in nature in Chicago the next few days. For the fourth annual Chicago Flower and Garden show opens this noon at the Hotel Sherman. The ceremonies will be held in the hotel ballroom, with Col. Robert Isham Randolph, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, delivering the address.

That event will be under the direction of Mrs. Marc Fowler, president of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, and Mrs. Charles Caldwell, state garden chairman. A city official representing Mayor Thompson will welcome the show to Chicago.

Truckloads of last minute blooming plants were under way yesterday, pulling through the snowdrifts to reach the show after having been nurtured through months of greenhouse and hothouse care. A total of 761 women's clubs, representing 130,000 clubwomen of the state, are sponsoring the show and will hold their annual state federation board meeting during the day.

An unique feature of the show will be the first sky garden, the first modernistic garden, and the first model town ever to be exhibited at a flower show. Hundreds of entries of flowers and garden arrangements done by both professionals and amateurs were in place last night for the opening competitions today. The show continues until April 5.

Leaders in society and club circles have signified their intention of attending the first convention of the National Council of State Garden Club Federations, to be held in conjunction with the Central States Garden and Flower show at the Chicago Stadium, 1800 West Madison street, April 5 to 14.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, March 27.—The American filming of Erich Maria Remarque's famous war book, "All Quiet on the Western Front," now being done in Hollywood, was attacked by a foreign office official in the reichstag today.

Geheimrat Sievers appeared before the reichstag committee on education. He declared he had information from Hollywood that Remarque's book was being filmed in an anti-German manner.

He said that the part of the story devoted to the brutalities that noncommissioned officer, Himmelstoss, inflicted on recruits in a training camp, was being given undue length of film footage, and too much emphasis.

Sievers declared that foreign movie directors not only frequently make anti-German films for allied consumption, but also sell them to Germany after cutting and changing parts offensive to the German audiences. He suggested a change in the film censorship law through which foreign films would have to be passed on in their original, unchanged, and uncut version by the German censorship board.

Expert Warns Parents Youth Heed Examples More Than Commands

Indianapolis, Ind., March 27.—Parents are apt to be just as annoying to children as children are to them. That was explained here today by Dr. Garry C. Myers, head of the division of parental education of the Western Reserve university.

"When we annoy our children most, we realize it least," Myers said. "We scream at them instructions to speak quietly and we catch them up sharply for being rude to others."

When papa has opened little Wilbur's letters for him, it was explained, he needn't be surprised to find his own steamed open some morning. If papa has shaken down the baby's dime bank to aid the family budget, papa can look forward to a blown safe somewhere in the child's future.

The wailing parent, the inquisitive parent, the cross-examining parent, and the humorless parent received censure. Parents were advised to aid the development of their children's sense of humor, and to indulge their reading of comic strips.

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Question.

The Answers.

N. L. Pierce, 7250 East End avenue, credit manager—I would have liked it better if it had come in winter instead of spring. So much snow has left it sloppy under foot. For transportation I use the Illinois Central, and it gave good service despite the storm.

Mrs. W. B. Stein, 2743 Washington boulevard, housewife—I certainly did. It was one of the most spectacular storms I ever saw. Having the city blanketed in white at this time of the year is unusual as well as beautiful. I enjoy getting out, even though the next step may land you several feet below the what you thought was the surface.

Nathan Bromberg, 2034 Lincoln avenue, real estate—I do not see that the storm has done anybody any good, nor has any line of business benefited directly from it. It hampered transportation, commerce, and industry temporarily, and, unfortunately, it has even caused loss in life. The lesser personal hardships caused by it are innumerable.

Mrs. Anna M. Smith, 1448 East 67th street, housewife—I did not like it. Women's shoes are not made for this kind of weather, and I hate galoshes. Street cars were standing on the tracks on 67th street for two days. Who would have thought we would have anything like this after the fine weather we had been enjoying?

Edward A. Ullrich, 5732 West Madison street, real estate sales manager—Not so good. Business was hampered temporarily. It was too difficult, and in many instances impossible, for people to get about the city. I gave people lifts in my car, and I think everybody having a car should try to help out in that kind of weather.

Erskine Calls U. S. the Great Musical Nation

Cites People's Talents and Lack of Outlets.

Giving an outlet to the musical talent in this country is like pouring an enormous bottle through an infinitesimal neck. Thus did John Erskine of the Julliard School of Music, New York, describe the musical situation in America. He was a guest speaker last night at a banquet of the music supervisors' national conference in the Stevens hotel. The school was created by the Julliard foundation, which was provided by several million dollars from an estate.

"With a store of talent which is perhaps more promising in quantity and in quality than can be found elsewhere in the world," Mr. Erskine said, "we have a ridiculously insufficient outlet for musical expression.

"How frightfully overcentralized our music is can be seen from the most casual comparison of our condition with that of Europe. In Germany since the war 70 or 80 opera houses are actively functioning. If you were to add the opera houses of Italy, Austria, Spain, France, and Belgium, you would have a total of several hundred.

"It is mortifying to complete the comparison. In the United States, over an equal or larger area, we have but two well established opera houses, the Metropolitan and the Chicago Civic. Most seasons elsewhere are provided by a shuffling around of those two companies."

Mr. Erskine said that the stage is set for a remarkable revival and development of music, "provided adverse conditions do not cramp or stifle all this talent and cheat the national temperament of the culture which is its proper destiny."

The solution of the problem lies in the music teacher working for the establishment of state music centers, conducted by the best musicians in the state for the benefit of state audiences and state talent, he said. These music centers should have an opera company and an orchestra, and they should be suitably housed, he continued.

"A million dollars would build and equip such a house, and a half a million annually would maintain it," he said. "If our sense of humor would stand it, I would like to see this tax laid on public sports, such as baseball. But in states where baseball is not the most serious public art it might be included in the normal state tax as part of our bill for education."

Russell V. Morgan, director of music, Cleveland, was elected president of the national conference at an earlier meeting of the day. Mabell Glenn, Kansas City, Mo., and Max T. Krone, Western Reserve university, Cleveland, were named first and second vice presidents. A full time executive will be selected by the board of directors to assume the duties of secretary and treasurer.

Doubts Sale of Deering $9,000,000 Florida Estate

Reports that Col. William Boyce Thompson, New York capitalist, has purchased "Vizcaya," the estate and art palace created near Miami, Fla., by the late James Deering, Chicago farm implement manufacturer, are without foundation, in the belief of Mrs. Chauncey McCormick, a niece of Mr. Deering. She resides at 2450 Lakeview avenue.

"Vizcaya," known as a mecca for New York and Chicago society wintering in Florida, was built by Mr. Deering near Biscayne bay at a cost of $9,000,000. Col. Thompson, according to New York reports, purchased the place for $4,000,000.

"It just cannot be true," said Mrs. McCormick.

THE STAGE

THE subscription list idea in theatrical management is going like a house a-fire. The latest variation on the theme is the "Friends of Drama," organized at a meeting of delegates representing 400 women's clubs in New York yesterday. They took an oath to sponsor good plays and to coöperate with producers who would try to imitate the Theater Guild.

John Golden, the producing manager ["Let Us Be Gay," at the Studebaker, is his work], addressed the meeting. He told the ladies:

"We are faced with the fact that within the next two or three years the living theater is going to be cut in half by the talkies. Let us organize before it is too late. I guarantee coöperation of other producers on any plans you may make, with subscription tickets at prices as low as the present cut rates for good plays as a basis."

This bit of news from New York can serve as a cue for the remark that the Goodman theater's drive for 10,000 subscriptions is progressing at the rate of 100 a day.

Arthur Hopkins has been nominated for president of the New York Theater league, the organization through which the managers hope to curb ticket speculation, on the ballots recently sent out to league members by a nominating committee composed of Lee Shubert, Winthrop Ames, and Marcus Heiman. Mr. Heiman represents the Erlanger interests, which came into the league after the death of A. L. Erlanger.

The Harefoot club of the University of Wisconsin will bring its thirty-second annual production, called "Button, Button," to the Eighth Street theater on Monday evening, April 14. Like all college musical shows, it goes in strongly for female impersonation.

The Institute Players' Guild will stage John Galsworthy's "The Pigeon," Sunday evening, April 6, in its playhouse at 3500 Douglas boulevard. Galsworthy's original prompt-book, now in the possession of Whitford Kane, is being used for the rehearsals.

"Meet Cousin Clara" was staged in Atlantic City last Monday night, under the direction of Lee Shubert, as a vehicle for Florence Nash. It is a comedy which had a long run in London under the title of "Clara Gibbings." Miss Nash's company includes Terence Neil, Nort Swinburne, T. Wigney Percyval, Stuart Casey, Marion Gray, Roland Bogue, and John Gray. It is scheduled for a New York premiere April 14.

"Companionate Mirage" [not "Marriage"] is the title of a play which is scheduled to begin a New York engagement on May 5. It was written by George L. Spaulding. The title is said to be temporary. It should be.

The new program of vaudeville at the Palace, which begins tomorrow, will have Pat Rooney and Marion Bent as featured entertainers. At the State-Lake, Van and Schenck, a singing team with a history of nearly twenty years, will lead the bill, while the other numbers include "Dance Fables," Peggy Chamberlain and Ross Himes, who once danced in the "Ziegfeld Follies"; Ray Huling and an educated seal, and Beehee and Rubyatte, gymnasts.

Correction: George White's "Scandals" will continue at the Grand Opera house until Saturday night, April 12, instead of April 5, as recently paragraphed. C. C.

Dog Aristocrats on Parade Today for Their Annual Show

The aristocracy of dogdom from all over the United States will begin a three-day fight for blue ribbons and $10,000 in prizes today at the 29th annual show of the Chicago Kennel club in the First Regiment armory, 16th street and Michigan avenue. The grand champion on Sunday night will carry off the John C. Eastman trophy, valued at $1,000.

Lawrence Richey, secretary to President Hoover, will exhibit an English setter. Dr. A. A. Mitten of Philadelphia will show a string of pointers. George K. Reilly, Philadelphia banker, has sent two Great Danes.

Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Florsheim of Highland Park are exhibiting Irish terriers, and Alexander H. Stewart, president of the club, wire haired fox terriers and scotties, including an international champion. The parade of dogs will be kept moving from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m. daily.

Lower Homes Cost Is Called Prosperity Aid

The necessity of reducing the cost of home ownership so that the man of small means may acquire his own home was emphasized yesterday by Leonard P. Reaume, Detroit, president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards. Mr. Reaume spoke before the National Building Survey conference, held in connection with President Hoover's prosperity program.

Declaring that the cost of the single family dwelling has been doubled in the last 15 years, without a corresponding increase in comfort, durability or beauty, Mr. Reaume asserted the home is now out of the reach of a majority of the country's population.

"The instinct for home ownership is strong; it needs little or no encouragement," he said. "It is our duty to give that encouragement; if we can through mutual study devise ways of reducing the cost of housing the great masses we will open up a business opportunity for ourselves which will make our industry strong and wholesome, and we will be performing a service for our people and government which will be immeasurable in value."

Fenton B. Turck Jr., New York, chairman of the conference, urged that spring cleaning and repair work be postponed until periods of activity in building, then performed as a means of affording employment.

Mr. Turck was authorized to appoint a committee of eight to select a larger commission, representative of the whole building industry, to work out a stabilization plan.

King George, Dressed as Admiral, Receives Avoids Handshaking

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 27.—For the first time since his illness in 1928 King George held a levee today, the brilliant ceremony taking place in the throne room of Buckingham palace which has not been the scene of a levee for 17 years, instead of St. James's palace where such events are usually held.

King George sat in a golden throne under a gold canopy attired in the blue and gold full dress uniform of admiral of the fleet. Instead of shaking hands with the foreign ambassadors, as has been done in the past, he merely bowed as each guest passed before the throne.

The official explanation for the king's not shaking hands was given as a desire to avoid excessive fatigue. Many persons close to the court hint, however, that his real reason was the ruler's unwillingness to shake the hand of the soviet ambassador, who represented the government which killed the king's cousin, the late czar. In order to bridge the awkwardness his majesty decided to eliminate the handshaking altogether. The previous levee which a soviet ambassador attended was held by the prince of Wales.

Circus Opens Saturday; Its Dress Rehearsal Will Be Held Tonight

The Sells-Floto circus, which opens its 1930 season here tomorrow, will hold its final dress rehearsal this evening at the Coliseum, where the circus will appear for two weeks before starting its outdoor engagements. Tonight's performance will be complete in every detail, but will be enacted before empty seats, only a few friends of the management and relatives of the performers being admitted for the preview.

Tonight's rehearsal will be the first appearance in America of several acts, the performers who were scheduled to arrive early in the week having been delayed until yesterday by the blizzard. Among the foreign acts are the Schwartz sisters, German equestriennes, who have just completed an engagement with the Strassburger circus, the largest on the continent. The Juliettes and the Adonis, perch performers, and the Cervantes, famous continental acrobats, are others who will appear with Sells-Floto in their first American engagements.

The feature of the 1930 circus is Tom Mix, movie star, who performs with his "wonder horse," Tony. The Sells-Floto engagement at the Coliseum includes two performances daily, beginning tomorrow, until April 13, when the circus will move to the Stadium.

Hardy Cabbages Insure Plenty of Sauerkraut

BY PAUL POTTER.

Sauerkraut, that delectable vegetative concoction which seldom appears without pigs' feet, spare ribs or some other substantial pork product, will continue to find its way into menus of Chicagoans if the increasing acreage of cabbage in the outlying truck crops sections be any indication.

The production of hardy types of kraut varieties has, however, been the object of considerable study on the part of agricultural college experiment stations. For two decades cabbage yellows has been the most destructive disease to kraut production, literally what the boll weevil is to the cotton farmer or the corn borer to the lake states ruralist.

Resistant Varieties.

"At about 1910, when its destructive character was clearly recognized," states Dr. J. C. Walker, University of Wisconsin specialist, "the means of control through selection of resistant varieties was suggested, and by 1915 work along this line had progressed to a point where this method seemed best.

"At first cabbage yellows caused concern in the region extending from southern Wisconsin to the Ohio river and from Iowa to the Alleghenies. Since that time it has jeopardized cabbage culture in areas beyond these boundaries, such as New Jersey, Delaware and Maryland to the east, Virginia and Kentucky to the south, Kansas and Missouri to the west. Its northern limits are apparently rather well fixed because of low temperature means."

The first hardy cabbages were confined to the storage variety, Hollander or Danish Hollander. Later selections from the all seasons kraut variety were found resistant and ten years ago came into general production, Dr. Walker reports. He adds that Wisconsin all seasons has stood the test of eight years in severely infested cabbage areas, with no word of complaint because of lack of resistance.

At the Wisconsin Station.

Since this was a late kraut variety, the Wisconsin experiment station began several years ago the breeding of early varieties for resistance to the yellows peril. The efforts have been fruitful, and kraut is now being produced over wide areas for commercial use under the names All Head Select, Marion Market, and Globe.

As is frequently the case in plant or animal breeding, the most resistant types are not the most desirable from either an edible or keeping quality standpoint. This was true in the painstaking steps that preceded the conquering of cabbage yellows. While resistant varieties were established, it was difficult to keep them so from mass seed selection. Only in recent years have the Wisconsin and other growers obtained uniformly high quality and resistant strains, brought about through "pure line" selection, in which individual plant types are self-pollinated and quality determined by progeny tests.

At the present time, Dr. Walker declares, the two decades of attention devoted to this former handicap of large scale production in the nation's kraut supply have resulted in practically one hundred per cent defeat of this most serious disease.

Orange Juice Is Best Toast to Good Health

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

In all its long, lovely, and even magnificent career probably the orange was never so practical a fruit as it is today. For the most highly practical reasons our babies extremely early, and our old men extremely late, get their daily prescribed portion of orange juice, while the adult who plans for continued health security revels in his glass of orange juice.

It is the orange more than all else that has glorified the vitamin. It is indeed gloriously pleasant that the vitamin may come to us so luxuriously, and so esthetically, as it can with our daily half pint of orange juice. Compare the pleasant exercise of drinking this with that other perfect way of getting the vitamin, through the cod liver oil, and then thank all the powers that put this vital thing into our daily ration, that we can get our vitamins in perfect swallows, instead of in the shape of the hardest globules of a liquid nature that man ever tried to swallow.

Romantic Background.

Yet this practical orange of today has, nevertheless, so much romance in its background that its practicality is glorified even to the nth degree. Practical though this fruit is, it is never commonplace. The China orange may seem to us like a mere reference in literature, but the romance of the fruits of Spain shines in the background when we mention the Seville orange and in so mentioning get even a little of the Spanish orange picture.

Our own Florida was the first to forward the American career of the orange. California has climaxed the colossally abundant career of this fruit while presenting us with a color of the most imagination exciting sort. That state, from gold digging to golden promotions of the citrous family has, well within a hundred years, made marvelous history.

The Citrous Family.

The citrous fruits really become every year more highly interesting to us. The lemon connects the jungle creature with the most sophisticated of modern men. When a monkey does not feel well, say some of the reputable writers, he eats lemons—and so gets his vitamin—all by instinct.

Every year brings us some specimen of this fruit that seems new to us, although it may be as old as the jungle. This year, and during the last month or a little more, we have run across the "temple orange," which may be a new sort, or some cross between two of the old sorts. At any rate, one salesman said it was a cross between an orange and something or other, which name we could not understand, perhaps because his supply of English words was small and a bit distorted. At any rate, upon cutting into the flesh of this orange there issued an aroma which any one who has known the "Côte d'Azur" would feel transported to, yes, just to the sunny shores of the Mediterranean.

This vigorous friendly aroma seemed to me like that of the great warty skinned lemonlike fruits which grow on the azure coast of that sea, under the name citron, the skins of which, like the peel of both the lemon and orange of that region, have played such an enormous part in the commerce of the English world. The greatest market for "peel" has been the British Isles for three centures, at least. And just lately the blood orange has excited our attention.

Found in Mother Goose.

It is fascinating to discover, from a wide perusal of English history and letters, what the orange has been to the English child and to the poor of London. We can get some of the pictures of the child's delight in oranges from Dickens, and even from our Mother Goose. In Mother Goose one of the loveliest rhymes, and one which has frequently been made into a separate book with elaborate pictures, concerns the game London children have played with bells, relating these to the church bells of famous old structures of London town.

One couplet from this game is:

"Oranges and Lemons, Say the bell of St. Clement's."

And strangely enough this very year there appears, against the date March 31, in a publicity calendar for all the events of a twelve month sent out from London, this same couplet. We have consulted no end of things to find out just why this was put into the calendar, but so far have not been successful. Augustus Hare, in his "Walks in London," as he rambled down the Strand, spoke of St. Clement's as one of Wren's parish churches and also quotes this couplet, prefacing it with this: "Its bell chimes merrily even to a proverb." We can but wonder if he knew his Mother Goose.

There have been renowned paintings of English children holding oranges, and some of our own painters have liked this subject. Hare, in the book just mentioned, says in discussing Covent Garden and the part devoted to fruit: "How many London painters, unable to go farther afield, have come hither with profit to study effects of color, which the piles of fruit give, as nothing else can! Turner's early love for the oranges, which he knew so well in his home near Covent Garden, comes out in his later life, in his 'Wreck of the Orange Vessel,' in which the fruits of his boyish study are seen tossing and reeling on the waves."

A Friend in Disguise.

If we come back to the practical, we can but wonder whether the orange, like the onion, has helped to keep no end of people in health, though they understood not a word about its health value. It seems to us proof enough that the lure of food has almost a divine sanction.

Perhaps it was fifteen or more years ago that some dietetic workers in the slums of New York were greatly shocked because a poor family was living on bread, coffee, and oranges. spending, these dietetic workers thought, far too much on this fruit. But they did not have much to spend anyway, and perhaps they were far better off in supplementing the staff of life with orange juice than they would have been eating or drinking some of the other things they might have chosen in its place. Perhaps it fed their imaginations, also—we all like luxury!

TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Pink Peppermint Ice Cream.

Sometime ago I saw in a marvelous display of cakes, a small one with pink icing on in the daintiest possible fashion, with one tiny pink candle on the cake near the outer edge. Other candles in tiny pink cakes in paper cups were set at intervals around the larger cake, presumably for the birthday guests. If ever anything in food embodied the spirit of babyhood it seemed to me that this cake did. At any rate, it was an extremely dainty pink creation.

And what could we have as an ice, if any, with this cake? Perhaps we should not serve an ice to babies. We might instead give them a glass of pink peppermint milk, prepared just as the following ice cream is prepared. But if there were several candles on the cake instead of one, an age would be indicated for which the ice cream would be all right, and perhaps we could make it as follows: For each cup of cream, or we can use good rich milk, use one-eighth of a pound, or one-half dozen small sticks of peppermint candy. The sort I used in making the test had twisted around it a solid red band a little more than one-eighth of an inch, and another band of eight threadlike stripes, the whole about half an inch wide. This is mentioned because those red bands furnish the dainty pink color for the ice cream.

There are two ways of using the candy, both for coloring the cream and for sweetening it. Break up the candy and add to this quantity about one-fourth cup of water, or enough to dissolve it over the fire quickly, or it will dissolve, if we allow it time enough, without putting it over the fire. It seems to me that it retains a little more of the peppermint flavor when dissolved cold. Add this to the cream or milk with one-fourth teaspoon salt to bring out the flavor. Then freeze.

This yields an exceedingly dainty flavor, while many of the peppermint ices that have come into vogue lately are really a little too strong of oil of peppermint, or something similar. When made wtih milk this is more like a water ice. When years ago I first heard of peppermint ice cream it was made by dissolving peppermint candy in milk and then freezing the mixture.

Two-to-One Leavening Leaves Nothing To Luck

THE natural double action of baking powder produces perfect results only when two-thirds takes place in the mixing and one-third in the oven. Rumford leavening action is always in this proportion. It never takes place any other way.

No luck about it. No guesswork. 52 laboratory tests in manufacture make Rumford Two-to-One leavening a certainty that you can count on every time. When you use Rumford you get the perfect Two-to-One leavening possible only with pure, all-phosphate powder.

To avoid dry, crumbly qualities in your bake caused by too much leavening in the mixing; to prevent the sogginess caused by too much leavening in the oven—use Rumford! The reason for Two-to-One leavening is evident in the superior Rumford results. Try Rumford in your next baking.

Unusual Table Settings Are Planned by Men

Originality, Good Taste Evidenced.

BY SALLY LUNN.

The average man, unless he be engaged in some sort of artistic pursuit, is not given credit for possessing much knowledge or appreciation of things decorative and yet, according to statistics, more men visit the large art museums than women do. Do not think that because the masculine head of your household does not comment on any of your little table setting triumphs he is unaware of them. He may not notice the details nor the subtle touches of your efforts, but he probably is quite conscious of the general effect, and is capable of telling whether you are a good hostess or not.

Decorative Tips.

There are many unattached males in these days who realize the satisfactions of running their own establishments, and from their kind women can take many a decorative tip. Their dwellings are almost invariably distinctive and artistic, and men who have learned a little about their own tastes and prejudices usually pursue the course by accumulating more knowledge and information.

Masculine ideas tend to be more radically unusual in design and color than the strictly feminine, and if you have a masculine acquaintance who has ideas on the subject of table decoration, by all means profit thereby. The injection of a bold and imaginative note in your own scheme of decorations will be enlightening and adventurous.

I heard a man discoursing on this subject one time say, "Do you know what I think would make a stunning table?" and without waiting for answer went on, "I'd take two of those large modern pottery cats, deep blue or white, or black, and place them facing each other with a low bowl in between, and in the bowl some goldfish." Such a setting may sound a little startling to the more conservative of us, but the idea is most decidedly intriguing, isn't it?

Cater to Masculine Taste.

In setting or designing a decoration for a stag dinner, the masculine taste should be catered to. Men are generally fond of the more robust colors, such as red, wine color, russet, henna, or the brown shades. Lace doilies or cloth are not appropriate for such an occasion, but rather a damask cloth in one of the warmer shades, or perhaps heavy lace runners.

Glasses and china should tend more toward the substantial than the delicate, as the impression to be sought is one of colorful effect rather than intricate detail.

CURB ON REPEATED VOTES IN SENATE IS ASKED BY DEMOCRATS

Washington, D. C., March 27.—(AP)—A proposal to change the senate rules to prevent a repetition of the votes upon the same amendment, such as were taken in that branch while it had the tariff bill under consideration, was made tonight by Senators Swanson of Virginia and Harrison of Mississippi, both Democrats.

In a statement issued by the Democratic national committee Swanson said the "glaring foolishness" of the present method of procedure "was illustrated in the tariff bill just passed."

"Most items," he added, "were considered five or six times in the senate before finally disposed of. No legislative body in the world has such a clumsy, inconsistent method. In addition, the present rules give an opportunity for all kinds of trades and combinations, which is very undesirable."

The Virginian explained that no legislation can be considered as settled in the senate until there have been four votes and roll calls, if desired, one in the committee of the whole, and a vote on reconsideration in that group, then the same vote in the senate, and another motion of reconsideration.

"Under my amendment to the rules," he said, "a bill when presented to the senate shall be immediately considered in the senate, and after being voted on a motion can be made for reconsideration if made within three days, which gives ample opportunity for the senate to reconsider its action."

Battalion Chief Asks $50,000 for Fire Injury

Joseph F. Sullivan, chief of the Fifteenth battalion of the fire department, yesterday filed suit for $50,000 damages in the Circuit court against Charles F. Loesch, 617 De Koven street. Sullivan declares that he was injured in fighting a fire in Loesch's home on Feb. 28, 1925, because of a defective staircase.

1,800 EXPECTED AT BANQUET TO BOOST CHICAGO

An attendance of 1,800 business men at the Better Business Bureau's dinner at the Stevens hotel on April 9, at which it will launch a campaign to create confidence in Chicago's business integrity and to save its reputation from the stigma of racketeers, was predicted last night by Elmer F. Wieboldt, president of the bureau.

During the last three days 800 hundred individual reservations have been received, while the Straus National bank, the Central Trust Company of Illinois, the Citizens State bank, the National Bank of the Republic, the Northern Trust company, and the Chicago Title and Trust company yesterday each reserved an entire table seating eight persons. Many large department stores have made reservations and applications from industrial concerns range from one to three tables.

Frank Winans, former president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, will come here from New York to address the meeting. Gov. Fred Green of Michigan wired his acceptance of an invitation to attend the banquet.

DEATH INSTEAD OF DICE DECIDES HEIR TO JEWELRY

A toss of dice was to have decided the possession of a $2,700 diamond ring for Miss Iris MacPherson, 6642 Ellis avenue, and Miss Hazel Stirling, 6615 Owen avenue, under terms of the will of their uncle, the late Thomas A. Kelly of San Francisco. Miss Stirling died last August, four months after the death of her uncle.

Yesterday in a Redwood City, Cal., court Superior Judge George H. Buck awarded the ring to Miss MacPherson, ruling it was Kelly's intention not to divide the interest in the ring. Miss Stirling's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Stirling, of the Owen avenue address, had petitioned the court for a half interest in the ring.

Miss MacPherson last night said she "probably will sell the ring and buy bonds with the money."

The Milkmen Got Through

An Appreciation by Borden's

IT is our desire to thank our host of customers, most heartily and sincerely, for the patience and courtesy extended to our milkmen during the record snow storm which paralyzed traffic all over Chicago and suburbs on Tuesday and Wednesday of this week.

We wish to thank each man in our organization through whose courage and resourcefulness, patience and loyalty, a full million of people were supplied with milk without serious interruption, and every tradition of Borden's service upheld under the most trying conditions in years.

We wish to thank officially those farmers, who in the blizzard swept areas of the north, the south and the west, were obliged to dig their way through the drifts and undergo hardships to get milk to Borden's receiving stations.

Also we wish to thank all Borden transportation units and the railroad companies; for it is due to your reliability of service and willingness to co-operate, that the efforts of all the others were fruitful.

Special recognition, is, we believe, due to the milkmen on the routes. During this storm Borden's rendered service at points reached by no other delivery system.

Think of it! Men digging their wagons out of drifts... getting their horses to their feet... plodding miles through the deep, heavy drifts. On Wednesday morning at 3:15 A. M. milk was delivered to Guardian Angel Orphanage at 2100 Devon. The last retail customer was served at midnight Wednesday.

After working all day long on their routes the men could not go home Tuesday night for fear they could not get back for Wednesday's work. Bales of hay were broken open and the men slept rolled up in blankets. The horses were groomed and fed, and their shoes examined before beginning the next day's work. Hundreds of incidents of individual sacrifice and courage could be given... that you might have your milk.

Such a record of service as this, in the receiving and delivery of a perishable product as milk, under such trying conditions, is an achievement which reflects credit on all those who helped bring it about.

This company is proud to be a part of an industry with such a record of accomplishment.

Take Hopeful View of Cancer, Doctors Urge

Two eminent physicians, addressing two organizations of club women almost simultaneously yesterday, held forth that statement as an important part of cancer education.

"Teach, above all, that cancer is not a hopeless disease," Dr. W. A. Newman Dorland, chief of staff of the Chicago Post-Graduate hospital, implored the public health committee of the Chicago Woman's aid.

"Tell people I told you to go back and say that cancer is curable," Dr. Gilbert Fitz-Patrick of the American Society for the Control of Cancer directed members of the cancer educational committee of the Chicago Women's clubs, and their guests, the board of the Illinois State Federation of Women's clubs.

Sixty per cent of the 100,000 cases in this country could be cured if taken in time, Dr. Dorland insisted. He said there is no positive cure in the early stages of cancer other than early removal through operation. The X-ray, he declared, while valuable in most cases, is not a cure. He pointed out that all great plagues of mankind have been met except cancer. But with the best minds working on it, he said, he is confident its riddle will be solved.

At the meeting at the Chicago Woman's club the presentation of prizes in the recent official cancer seal contest preceded the address by Dr. Fitz-Patrick and the Canti films showing the cancer in action. The first prize of $100 was given to Lyman M. Simpson of Niles Center, and a silver loving cup to Forrest F. Tilley, a student of the Chicago Art institute. Mrs. Frederick A. Lorenz, chairman of the cancer education committee, presided.

"Just as long as we entertain the idea that cancer is incurable we will cease to take active advantage of the knowledge in our possession," Dr. Fitz-Patrick said. "Tuberculosis is just as incurable in its third stage as it was 40 years ago, but we don't wait until the third stage to try to cure it now. The same is true of cancer. We must change our attitude."

Dr. Fitz-Patrick described the cancer work in Sweden, declaring that country to have the best attitude in the world toward cancer.

"Every cancer case in Sweden is known. It is a reportable disease. So should it be in Chicago. Sweden changed its point of view and leads the world in its attitude. It behooves us in Chicago to take the leadership. We have neglected this disease too long. You are going to look upon cancer in the future as a curable disease, and that must become a slogan of education."

The seventeen year search of the Rockefeller institute for the micro-organism which causes infantile paralysis was described yesterday by Dr. Simon Flexner of New York, director of the institute, in the first of two addresses at the University of Illinois college of medicine.

Dr. Flexner said although the institute has discovered the virus which produces the disease, the germ is so small that it is below the range of microscopic visibility and no microscope has been invented which is powerful enough to reveal the germ to scientists. He said, however, that conclusive evidence has been found that the disease is spread through the discharge of the nose and that it also finds its way into the brain of the victim through the nose. The action of the disease, he said, immunizes great numbers of people while attacking a few, usually healthy rather than weak persons.

Dr. Flexner's lectures are the fifth of the annual Andrew Gehrmann memorial lectures sponsored by Mrs. Gehrmann in memory of her husband who was a member of the Illinois faculty for 25 years.

Afternoon Ensembles Grow More Elaborate

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—This spring you will not be able to travel around in a runabout dress from dawn until darkness if you want to be fashionable. Elaborate afternoon clothes are in the style swim. They do not have to be made of lacy, perishable stuff, but they simply must be fancy and feminine. Heaps of these afternoon ensembles are now being shown in the Parish fashion shows and they clearly indicate that printed materials are going to be used in overwhelming quantities for formal afternoon, beginning with earliest spring, and not letting up until fall.

Paris fabric makers are making for these silk ensembles printed woolens in the same pattern, so that you may wear a woolen coat that is warm and perfectly matches your printed crêpe or chiffon frock.

One of the prettiest afternoon ensembles I have seen is the one illustrated. It is from Lucile and is made of navy blue and pale pink dotted wool as to coat, and the same pattern covers the georgette of the frock. The three-quarters coat of this ensemble is a style novelty because it has a plastron at the back of the shoulders instead of in front, this replacing the more usual cape, and proving that the "boiled shirt front" has its charm as a trimming for a coat.

The material of the coat is reversible, and Lucile employs the pink side for the collar and plastron band. The dress has a tucked vestee of pink georgette and belt and bands of the same stuff. The skirt is finely plaited and emerges from the simulated jacket blouse.

Six Inch Heels Raise Feminine Folly to High Degree

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

I was reading, the other day, about shoes with heels six inches high. If you don't think that is a mound of inches to perch a heel on, take a six inch block and try it under one of your good heels. Take two blocks and try them under both heels, and see what position that puts the rest of the foot in. Then ask, if you've a mind to, who ever spoke about the heathen CHINEE.

I didn't see the six inch heel worn, but I've seen those that look as uncomfortable as that. I guess there is just no use trying to talk heels with sense to them. A certain class of women will always wear them, always have worn them, and have no idea on earth of what is meant by foot troubles. They do not need any advice.

And another class is as interested in the good sense of heel height as they are in the Einstein theory. They will wear the other kind, always did wear them since they've been buying their own, and always will try to make their feet look smaller, no matter what the groans.

You can pretty nearly tell from the way a person approaches you on the street what kind of heels she has on her shoes. You can tell from the way the feet are put down, stepped on, and lifted again for the next step. The abnormally high heeled one has a stilted, stiff and rather oldish "plant" to her feet. There is none of the easy, swinging grace or young spring in the sole that marks the well shod walking foot.

A strikingly objectionable feature of the long, spindly heel I refer to is the way it has of flapping wide in the back part of the shoe. It is an attempt on the wearer's part to get a better balance for her body, I suppose. Anyway, there is often seen that spread look to the back of the shoe, noticeably on one side. After the shoe has been worn a little while there is the additional eyesore of turned over heel and turned over counter down the side of the shoe.

Why not save the dressy footgear for dressy occasions? They look so outlandishly silly on the street.

Love at Seventeen Is Just Growing-Up Pain, Explains Doris

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"Do you think a girl of 17 is too young to fall in love?—VI."

Great Scott, no! Every one is in love at 17, or has been! If they're not in love with the boy next door or a few doors away, they're in love with Buddy Rogers or Charlie Farrell or Conrad Nagle. You can't be 17 and well escape being in love with somebody, real or on the screen.

But the thing is that you mustn't take your age 17 emotions too seriously. They're just growing-up pains, as it were. The measles time of love, or maybe we might call it the susceptible age. Wait until the advanced whooping cough stage attacks you. Then it is serious—serious like everything.

"VI," the questioner, tells me that she has been going with boys since she was 12. Shades of my twelfth year! If I'd been caught slipping a lozenge to a boy at that age I would have been made to take castor oil. The symptoms would have been deemed alarming, to say the least.

I never get over gasping at these early teen love confessions, though. And with all my tolerance toward the modern youth, it does seem to be stretching it too far to extend it back to 12 and 13, and even 14 year old's lives including beaux. I mean the kind of beaux that come and call for the girl and bring her home again at ten, ten thirty and eleven. Granted that co-education and girl and boy association are the healthiest things in the world, still adult freedom of going about is not desirable. Youth is no protection for itself in these most turbulent years it passes through.

Along about 17 is time enough to go stepping with the boy escort. Parents reply: "Try and get girls to conform to that ruling nowadays!"

* * *

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Stop Seeing Her.

"Dear Miss Blake: The girl I love says she does not care for me, but wants to be friends. What can I do to change her mind?

"AN ACHING HEART."

If she does not return your love it would be better to discontinue seeing her, so that you may forget.

Try to Forget.

"Dear Miss Blake: I had a quarrel with a fellow I love, but he doesn't love me. Shall I try to forget him?

"BLUE."

Bright Sayings of the Children

Five year old John had a most indulgent grandmother whom he depended upon for intercession in any difficult situation that might arise with his parents.

One day last summer he met an older playmate with hair wet and other signs of a recent dip. The boy had been swimming without permission, and confessed he was afraid to go home.

Macena Barton, Local Artist, Is Invited to Show in Los Angeles

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

Another young Chicago painter has recently met with honor outside of hed own town. Macena Barton, one of the modern group of painters and one who last summer held a brilliant one-man show at the Art institute, has been invited by the officials of the Los Angeles museum and the Otis Art institute to exhibit in their annual spring exhibition which opens the first of April and runs for two months.

She has chosen to send her "Self-Portrait," an effective piece of painting and one that created a great deal of favorable criticism in her exhibit last summer.

This is the first time that an artist outside of California has been invited to show in this exhibition. Miss Barton is following this up by an exhibit of her work in Amsterdam, Holland, later in the spring. This foreign opportunity came about through the kind offices of a famous physician who was on tour in America, lecturing, last year and saw her Art institute show and urged upon his Dutch friends the worth of her work.

Macena Barton is not first and last an artist. She paints, but in order to live she does something else with her nights. She is a copyreader and on the job practically every night and all night. She supports herself that way and keeps her days for painting. They do not impress you, these paintings, as being the work of a tired person, so Miss Barton must possess infinite energy.

The canvases are fresh and brisk and solid. She conceives in a large way and uses the grand geature to put her meaning across. Details are not neglected, but the pains that are gone to for perfection are not allowed to run into the full significance of the canvas and dwarf its intrinsic bigness by a sentiment for petty perfection.

For Young Artists.

LONDON, March 27.—(AP)—Babies in art will have their day April 1, when the Royal Drawing society opens its annual exhibition at the Guildhall Art gallery. The exhibition is for the work of children from 2 to 15.

Scientists Favor List of Universities Based on 'Teaching Freedom'

While freedom to teach and conduct experiments, unhampered by taboos, was the chief topic of interest to America's leading biologists who met here yesterday, they will not act until next year on the proposal to blacklist colleges and universities restricting academic freedom.

At a smoker held last night in the Shoreland hotel the professors accepted favorably the suggestion made by Prof. A. J. Carlson, physiologist of the University of Chicago, to appoint a committee to investigate offending institutions and recommend proper action against them at the next convention of the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology.

"In universities such as Chicago, Harvard, Yale, Columbia, and Stanford the freedom to teach and of research cannot be impeached without due process," Dr. Carlson said. "But a much larger group of colleges has no such status. What the professors are allowed to teach depends too much on the whims of the president and trustees. Those trustees, who are laymen, take the absurd position that whether a piece of research is valid can be determined by a majority vote.

"What is needed is the extension of the sane, just rules of the better schools to all schools. If the schools are not willing to do this voluntarily, some kind of grading should be made to let the public and the scholars know where they stand."

Small Audience at Concert by High Schools' Orchestra

BY EDWARD MOORE.

The National High School orchestra gave the second of its two concerts at the Auditorium last night. Attendance upon the second appearance had been urged the night before, although the program, with the exception of the appearance of Guy Maier as soloist, was the same in both instances, on the ground that proceeds would be donated to assist promising orchestral talent through next summer's school term at Interlochen, Mich.

Mr. Maier played the Liszt concerto in E flat with remarkable brilliancy and eloquence, and in spite of only a brief rehearsal period the young players of the orchestra picked up his manner and played the tricky accompanying score with brilliancy and eloquence as well. As on the night before, Joseph E. Maddy conducted them not only through the concerto but through an excellent performance of the "Meistersinger" prelude and Schubert's "Unfinished" symphony, and, as on the night before, Howard Hanson directed a stirring rendition of Sibelius' "Finlandia," returning the baton to Mr. Maddy at the end of the piece.

On a liberal estimate, the Auditorium may have been a quarter occupied.

The Young American Artists series came into being again last night at Curtiss hall when Alice Regina Johnson, pianist, appeared jointly in recital with Oscar Heather, tenor, although on the program Mr. Heather seemed not to be classified in the series. Both he and Miss Johnson, however, are apparently of the caliber to give hope for the cause of young American artists, both being well trained musicians, and needing only a bit of advice on the choice of attractive concert numbers.

As much of the program as could be heard disclosed faithful, at times even imaginative, performance of numbers several of which are better fitted for the studio than the platform. Of those in the accepted concert repertoire, Mr. Heather was particularly effective in an aria from Handel's "Sosarme" and Miss Johnson in an Intermezzo by Brahms.

Other young artists appeared at Kimball hall under the auspices of the Society of American Musicians. Pauline Peebles, pianist, was heard in a well studied and firmly wrought performance of Chopin's Ballade, the second of the series, and a somewhat abbreviated version of the Schulz-Evler transcription of the "Blue Danube" waltzes. Margaret Hajek, soprano, sang "Caro Nome," from "Rigoletto," correctly and satisfactorily, if without quite the full measure of the power and richness with which this famous aria is customarily presented.

Moving over to Orchestra hall, a large audience was receiving with great applause the popular program of the Chicago Symphony orchestra as conducted by Frederick Stock.

Behavior Troubles Are Cured Now by Indirect Means

By Mrs. Gladys Huntington Bevans

A "Sex Education Booklet," by Mrs. Bevans, will be sent free on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

"But you must go in, even if you are afraid. Do you want to be a coward?"

This would not be a typical conversation between a modern father and his son. If there is one big idea the new psychology emphasizes more than another it is probably the couring of fears and behavior troubles by indirect means.

If a child has tempers and screams and kicks the floor—we don't give him a spank and tell him to control himself. We look for the cause in the way he is managed or in some happening in his life.

If a child is stubborn we don't precipitate a conflict of wills, an endurance test of butting our head against his until our superior advantages as adults make him give in. Instead, we look over our handling of him with a critical eye—or consider the effect on him of other members of the family.

If he doesn't eat we don't command obedience, or make scenes, or do things that create a tension which ruins both appetite and digestion. Instead, we look over his physical condition—his exercise and air. Or we cease making him the center of every one's attention. Or we supply the loving interest which we may have withdrawn unconsciously with the advent of a new baby or absorption in a grief. Or we vary his diet and change the atmosphere of meal times.

If there are fears we try to dissipate them by gentle, indirect, searching treatment.

I was being interviewed for the position of stenographer and was quite confident of "landing it." My employer was stressing the need of poise, and as I was to be the only girl among many men he thought it particularly necessary. I, of course, agreed with him and said I would endeavor to be the essence of dignity.

He offered me a chair, and I most graciously thanked him and sat down. I must not have gauged the distance, for I missed the chair and sat right down on the floor at his feet.

Clubwomen Urge Stricter State Law About Vaccination

A resolution urging the passage of an adequate vaccination law to protect the people of Illinois from smallpox was adopted yesterday by the board of directors of the Illinois State Federation of Women's Clubs at a meeting in federation headquarters at 30 West Washington street. Mrs. J. Marc Fowler, president, presented statistics showing that 4,300 cases of smallpox were reported in the state last year and that there had been 43,530 cases in Illinois since 1917.

The total cost of the disease was $6,000,000, sufficient, Mrs. Fowler said, to pay for the employment of 200 public health nurses during the 13 years.

The board also adopted a resolution protesting against the use of women's pictures in cigaret advertisements on billboards and another urging the abolition of roadside billboards as a detriment to the scenic beauty of the state's highways. A fourth resolution placed the board on record as favoring the entrance of the United States into the world court. The board will continue in session today.

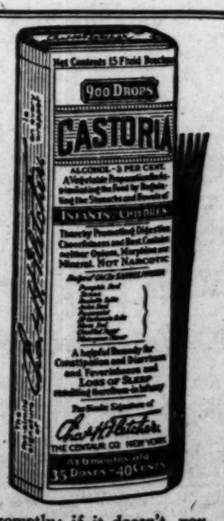
For any BABY



We can never be sure just what makes an infant restless, but the remedy can always be the same. Good old Castoria! There's comfort in every drop of this pure vegetable preparation, and not the slightest harm in its frequent use. As often as Baby has a fretful spell, is feverish, or cries and can't sleep, let Castoria soothe and quiet him. Sometimes it's a touch of colic. Sometimes constipation. Or diarrhea—a condition that should always be checked without delay. Just keep Castoria handy, and give it promptly. Relief will follow very promptly; if it doesn't, you should call a physician.

All through babyhood, Castoria should be a mother's standby; and a wise mother does not change to stronger medicines as the child grows older. Castoria is readily obtained at any drugstore, and the genuine easily identified by the Chas. H. Fletcher signature that appears on every wrapper.
